HOW ARE WE DOIN'?

CROSSDRESSER PROGRAM FOLLOW UP

Our own Crossdresser Organizational Program is growing steadily, and each day's mail delivery brings one or two new members. In many cases, we have been able to refer these people to others nearby, but let's face it — this is a big country, and there are a lot of people in rural areas, and it is difficult to find others nearby. As soon as there are two people in any given geographical area, we put them in touch with each other, and hopefully, things will grow from there.

As of this date, no chapter has reported having formal meetings, but we do know that people are getting in touch with each other. At the end of this article is a listing of the areas, along with the number of active participants. The main aim of the Crossdresser Organizational Program is to have TVs out of the closet and in contact with each other. Hopefully, chapters will be formed if the members in the various areas are so inclined.

To take part, all that is required is a paid one-year subscription to FEMALE IMPERSONATOR NEWS, and the completed release form. We then take over and try to place you in touch with other members near you. You receive the membership list of those in your area, and you take it from there. We think that it is the best way to get out of the closet and meet others.

Join us today, and let us know if you want to take an active part in organizing a chapter in your area. We need leaders as well as followers. Keep reading F. I. NEWS for the latest information on this exciting new concept in getting TVs together.

Sex Change Loses

SAN FRANCISCO — GAY SCENE — A federal judge dismissed a suit brought by a 30-year-old woman who claimed that she was fired from her job because she underwent a sex change operation.

U. S. District Court Judge Spencer Williams issued the opinion that it is not sex discrimination for an employer to fire a man who has changed into a woman.

Carol Voyles, formerly Charles Voyles, claimed that the Ralph K. Davies Medical Center, where she was employed as a kidney machine technician until last January had violated her civil rights by discrimination based on her sex change operation.

Chicago Transsexuals

Gender Identity Services of Chicago, a social service organization "for the transvestite, transsexual, female impersonator, and drag queen community," has been reactivated and expanded to a staff of four persons, according to directors Ron Coleman and John Prowett.

Besides Prowett (formerly with the TV/TS program of the Los Angeles Gay Community Service Center) and Coleman, a professional entertainer, Gender Services' staff includes Sandy, a pre-operative female-to-male transsexual and his mate.

Meetings of the group are held at Coleman's home, 546 W. Brompton Pl., Chicago, Wednesdays at 7 p.m., and more information can be obtained from Coleman at 281-8377, or Prowett at 549-9392, Tuesday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The group is currently involved in resource referrals to doctors, lawyers, clothing shops, etc., paraprofessional counseling, speakers bureau and rap groups. Future plans include an office, expanded counseling programs, training for new gender roles, job and housing placement, and liaison with governmental and private agencies on the behalf of transvestites and transsexuals.

Dog Day Afternoon

LEWISBURG, PA. — From Gay Community News, The real Little John of the film, "DOG DAY AFTERNOON," has complained that prison officials in Lewisburg have refused him the right to see the film based on his 1972 bank robbery in New York. In a copy of his letter obtained by the GCN, the gay bank robber and activist John Wojtowicz writes, "Mr. Grey's (the associate warden) refusal to let the movie in here is just adding to the suffering I have to go through and is a perfect example of the arbitrary and discriminatory actions I have had to endure."

"I was able to obtain this movie from Warner Brothers," he continued, "at no charge and free for all of us here to see. But as of this writing it has not been allowed in here."

Wojtowicz claimed that "I have been discriminated against ever since I entered this institution in 1973. This is because of the homosexual motive and implications of my crime. . . . I have been treated as a second class inmate and have been denied the same rights that the other inmates are allowed to enjoy. I am presently in the courts over this."

This and That

Speaking of "DOG DAY AFTERNOON," the film's star, Al Pacino, who plays Little John Wojtowicz, has won the "Best Actor" award at Italy's San Sebastian Film Festival . . . Goldie Glitters, a female impersonator and student at Santa Monica College, was elected as campus homecoming queen. . . . Musical Trio LaBelle recently surprised Los Angeles concert goers when they guested transvestite group, "The Cycle Sluts," who joined the singers in a chorus line routine, resplendent in sleazy drag, beard, makeup, and teased hair . . . Christine Jorgenson, who made history 23 years ago by changing sex, has just completed a Scandinavian cookbook, and is gathering material for a novel about the Danish underground in World War II. She is currently on a college speaking tour, where she recently admitted to having a facelift. . . .

Marlowe Moves On

Kate Marlowe, who used to be Kenneth Marlowe, ex-female impersonator and author, is now doubling as a hairdresser and lecturer on adjustment problems. She recently spoke at Marin College and San Quentin Prison.

Washington, D. C.

The RHO Sorority of Washington, D. C. has monthly meetings, and a delightful monthly newsletter. For information, write to Helen Root, P. O. Box 5985, Washington, D. C. 20014.

WHAT ARE WE ALL ABOUT?

NEPTUNE PRODUCTIONS is publishing on these two pages a questionnaire for its readers that will attempt to examine the reasons why a person becomes interested in transvestism, and how such an individual really feels about himself.

Recently, a well-known women's magazine published a questionnaire seeking to find out how today's women feel about sex and how far the revolution/liberation has gone. The magazine received over 100,000 responses and is still in the process of figuring percentages, maximums and minimums of the female human being's most sensitive experience — sexual fulfillment and how she achieves it. Twenty-five years ago, the medically-oriented Kinsey Studies on sex habits in the United States at that time skyrocketed to the best seller list and remained there for some years. It dealt with straight, hetero sex mainly, and barely touched upon the "deviations."

Now, the publishers of FEMALE IMPERSONATOR NEWS would like to compile statistics on transvestism and transsexualism, since these phenomena are becoming more and more common, and the long-time practitioners are coming out in the open and expressing a willingness to tell how they got there and why they have stayed there — living in the powerful fetishistic magnetism of dressing in women's clothing despite ridicule, rejection and even police arrest.

The fact that the vast majority of transvestites are males who want to dress up as women is a phenomenon in itself in our male-dominated society. Why do so many males want to give up the leading role and play the submissive, still secondary role of the female? These are some of the questions we shall attempt to answer — so we need honest answers. Do not hesitate to make comments on a separate sheet of paper. All replies will be held in strictest confidence, whether you give us your name or not (and you do not have to sign the questionnaire).

The publishers ask that those answering please carefully consider what they are checking, since a sincere attempt is being made here to study transvestism from a positive standpoint. When the questionnaires are compiled, the statistics will be evaluated, and the results will be published in subsequent issues of F. I. NEWS. Please write plainly, print or type all your information clearly. Here we go:

PAMPER YOURSELF!

By Pam Nolan

Well, girls, you may or may not have missed my column last month. There was so much confusion in the newspaper's office shuttle that my article was lost.

While I'm babbling on, let me talk a little on the mysterious pill — known as ESTROGEN. It is a hormonal replacement for females — and often used by transsexuals, pre-op transsexuals, and other assorted types. Well, I've heard more so-called pseudo-experts who know very little about these pills berate their capabilities, discourage their use, score you because of their "dangers," etc. Well, I've heard this chitter-chatter until I'm blue in the face — and I've decided to speak out and give some facts in the PILL'S favor, much to the surprise of many critics!

There comes a time in every person's life when he sees himself in a mirror on that bleak morning and comes face to face with lines about the eyes and lips, sagging face, and a general haggard look. It doesn't stop with the face, either. The upper arms are droopy with excess skin, thighs aren't as tight as they used to be, etc. Even worse are minor ailments that cannot be clearly identified: indigestion, bladder problems, insomnia, depression, etc.

Doctors have prescribed estrogen to women for several years with amazing results in controlling all of the above problems. Perhaps turning the clock back is an impossibility, but relieving many of these symptoms is certainly not.

Now, I've been on hormones for 4-5 years and I've had an appreciable number of people comment on my age — always thinking me younger than I actually am.

Probably the most widely known of the estrogen compounds prescribed for hormonal replacement is Premarin. (There are a half dozen other equally good choices.) Premarin has been in use for over 32 years and has been taken by over three million people. So do you think three million users are wrong? It is derived from the urine of pregnant mares and is a naturally-occurring estrogen, as compared with synthetic types.

Estrogen maintains the tissues of the bladder and urethra; protects the entire skeleton from weakening. It keeps the skin soft and pliable; keeps blood cholesterol and triglycicide levels steady; it maintains the body's fluid and nitrogen balances. Estrogen also influences our blood, skin, hair, eyes, muscles, energy and spirits! It also is viewed as an important factor in preventing heart attacks.

There is a threat of blood clots, gallbladder problems, but this is rare and I've been informed not to worry about it.

Most important — Medical research shows that estrogens do not cause either breast or uterine cancer!! In fact, in one study of large numbers of women on replacement estrogen therapy over a long period of time, cancer did not occur at any different rate. It was proven to control cancer at the "normal" rate — and this was in women. In men, there is no appreciable problems causing cancer.

Now, I'm not telling you all to run out to your local doctor and start taking hormones. This decision is a very deep, soul-searching one. Many factors must be weighed. Your present living conditions and your goals should be analyzed.

I only wanted to bring out the seldom-mentioned valid points of this "wonder pill." What is right for one individual may not be right for another. Well, so be it. On to some beauty questions, girls. Anne recently wrote me and asked: "How do I apply false eyelashes?"

First, Anne, apply mascara to your natural lashes. I know all the books says this is taboo, but listen to Pamela, girl. I won't steer you wrong. Curve the false lashes so that they will follow the shape of your eyelid. Apply adhesive to the lash base of the false lash with a dabber or put the adhesive on your thumbnail and pull the base of the lash through it.

Place lash base against center of the lid close to roots of the natural lashes, then press gently at corners with fingertips or blunt end of an orange stick. I usually use a lash holder to aim in. Gently stretch the eyelid with fingertip to keep lash from puckering.

Brush natural and fake lashes together with a dry mascara brush to give them an upward sweep. You can also apply mascara underneath the natural lash at this time. You will get a more natural look if you trim the fake lashes slightly before applying.

One last letter before I close:

Sandra writes me that she is considering the "new method" of electrolysis called "DEPILATRON," and asks what I know of it.

To answer — plenty! And it's all bad! First off, it isn't a new product. Its patent was applied for in the early 1950's — and never cleared. I have a friend who was considering the possibility of operating a franchise. She did a great deal of research into the system. This is no evidence that the rays even kill the root since hair does not conduct electricity.

Another strange fact is that they claim to pass a radio wave into the follicle. This also does not give enough of a wave to have any appreciable effect. In fact, according to the systems theory of grabbing the hair with radioactive wave tweezers to remove it (instead of needle treatments) just doesn't work. The current would have to be so high to have any effect on the hair and follicle that there probably would be irreparable damage elsewhere.

No, I say stay away from "DEPILATRON."

And now, girls, I take my leave of you and wish you all many happy hours of being a girl. Enjoy.

A CASSETTE FOR TSs

What's it like to be married to a woman you'd rather be than be married to?

How do you tell your boss you're going to stop being George and start being Joanne?

How do you have sex when neither partner wants to play the aggressor?

Is sex life better before or after the operation?

These and a host of other questions are answered with intelligence, warmth and candor on CONFIDE's new interview cassette, THE WAY OF A TRANSSEXUAL: JOANNE'S STORY, brought to you by the producers of the widely applauded cassette, THE MALE TRANSVESTITE.

In a skillfully managed, 50-minute interview, CONFIDE's director, Garrett Oppenheim, encouraged Joanne to talk freely about her adventures into crossdressing, sex hangups, marriage, fatherhood, hormones, psychiatry, and surgery, among other things. It's a saga laced with suffering, seasoned with humor and steeped in buoyant optimism — a story that will expand your insight, not only into the way of a transsexual, but into the ways of human beings.

The price is $12, and satisfaction is guaranteed.

FANTASIA

Fifty transvestites and transsexuals converged upon Provincetown, Massachusetts, for the first national TV convention, the Fantasia TV Fair. The meeting was held from October 25 to November 1, and according to the sponsors as well as the participants, it was a huge success.

For many TVs, it was the first time they were able to come out of the closet, meet other TVs and actually go out on the streets dressed. Provincetown was chosen because it is a delightful seaside resort that is largely inhabited by gay people with a very understanding and tolerant attitude toward TVs.

The week-long affair included a number of seminars on all aspects of crossdressing, as well as a fashion show, banquet, film series, drag balls, and drag shows. Exhibitors were on hand to display everything from jewelry to lingerie. There was also plenty of free time to shop in many of the cozy boutiques that line Commercial Street in P-Town.

The film series offered such TV classics as "I Want What I Want," "The Gay Deceivers," "The Queen," "Skirted Soldier," and more. The films were followed by informal discussions of the way TVs and TSs have been treated in the media.

The various seminars added a great deal to the crossdressing techniques of the TVs in attendance. A representative from Elizabeth Grady cosmetics was on hand to give lessons in makeup, as well as noted female impersonator Brandy Alexander, who conducted an impromptu seminar on how to do a theatrical job of facial makeup. Voice therapist Pamela Spilatore led a discussion on how to make a male voice sound more feminine. In addition, there were informal rap groups to discuss personal experiences in a kind of TV conscious-raising exercise.

Many of the Fair participants took part in the two drag balls that were held during the convention, and Winnie, one of the Fantasia girls, took first prize in the contest at the Pied Piper. For some, it was the first time they had ever appeared on a runway to strut their stuff, and it appeared all enjoyed the experience of doing it.

Brandy Alexander and Bobby Ray put on two drag shows which were entertaining, fast paced, and hilarious at times. Both are masters of different forms of female impersonation. Brandy, the glamour queen, and Bobby, the camp queen. Both performers graciously lent their help and advise to many of the members of the Fair.

The TV fashion show was one of the week's highlights, as the girls modeled daytime, formal and evening wear for a very appreciative audience. The show was well-conceived and executed in a very professional manner, and one would think that the girls had been doing it for years.

The Crown and Anchor Hotel, the center for the Fair, did a magnificent job at the banquet, preparing a spread that was "fit for a queen." The banquet was followed by the awards ceremony, which honored the participants for such things as Miss Congeniality, Miss Cinderella, as well as service awards to the people who helped make Fantasia Fair a resounding success.

The transvestite subculture is finally being recognized by the public and by other members of the subculture itself. There is no doubt that the Fantasia Fair provided the members of the subculture a chance to grow stronger in their femininity and strength of purpose. Being able to exchange feelings and ideas strengthened our own convictions that what we are doing is a healthy way of expressing ourselves.

The Fairgoers also did a commendable job of educating the public, speaking with a lot of confused townspeople, reporters, and public officials. The way in which the TVs conducted themselves showed that there is nothing deviated or perverted about being a TV or a TS. This became as clear to the onlooks as it did to the TVs themselves.

A large part of the transvestite subculture seems to be where the Gay Liberation Movement was five years ago. Some of us are fairly liberated in our attitudes, while others are still in the closet. It seems that our degree of social acceptance is not as great as the Gay subculture, since most of us fear discovery, but our self-assurance seems to be growing, no doubt in part due to the chance to gather together. Fantasia Fair provided this chance.

According to Ariadne Kane, the Fair was a glorious success, and she is already starting to plan the 1976 event. She is also in the process of forming the TV Outreach Program, which will provide some other services to the TV Subculture. There is no doubt that she will succeed, and she and the members of the Fantasia Fair Committee should be commended for their efforts in establishing a landmark in the history of the crossdresser.

I can only hope that ten years from now, after all the anti-drag ordinances have been abolished by pressure from the TV community, and we no longer fear being "found out," that we will be able to look back upon the Fantasia Fair of 1975 as the impetus for the movement to walk out of the shadows of misunderstanding and into the warm sunlight of liberation.

CALLING CONFIDE

Dear Garrett and Fae:

I am a 34-year-old transvestite, married, and the father of two wonderful children, a girl of eight and a boy of six. My wife and my psychotherapist are the only two people who know about my crossdressing, but I live in constant anxiety that my children will find out.

I told my wife about my transvestism before we were married. She didn't like the idea, but she was pretty sure I'd give it up once we had a normal sex and family life together. This has not been the case, and there is no sign that psychotherapy will ever change my desire to crossdress.

Glynn and I have a close relationship, with much love on both sides and a strong desire to make our marriage work. She does her best to tolerate my crossdressing, providing me with her hand-me-downs and buying me new feminine apparel from time to time. In return, I have agreed to stay in my room when I am wearing these things and never let myself be seen in feminine apparel.

In this way, we have managed to keep our marriage on a fairly even keel for nine years. But Glynn still cannot accept my other self. The very idea of seeing me in her clothes is enough to make her sick. Up until recently, we were enjoying a normal sex life, but lately I've been feeling nervous and "not up to it."

What bothers me most, I think, is my worry about the children. To indulge my need, I spend anywhere from half an hour to several hours at a time in my room. And every minute of that time, I'm worrying that the children will hear my high heels or smell my perfume or even notice the swishing of satin or silk behind my locked door.

As they grow older, of course, I'll have to be even more on guard to keep them from discovering my secret wardrobe, my TV books and magazines, my perfumes and cosmetics and all the other paraphernalia. I know only too well how relentlessly children can explore their own home when they get the chance. The only time I feel really relaxed is when Glynn takes them out of the house—and even then I have to be alert to make sure they don't burst in and find their father dressed as a woman.

My question is whether — and when — I should plan to explain my crossdressing to the children. Glynn is against the whole idea. She's afraid that if they learn about it, they might have a tendency to imitate me. My therapist says that young children are likely to mishandle information of a personal nature and that I should wait until they've matured.

My own feeling is that if I don't tell them, they will almost certainly discover the truth by accident. The secret can't be kept from them forever — and I wonder if trying to keep it from them is a good idea anyway. It doesn't help my relations with them when they notice how much time I spend locked up in my room. They can't understand that.

It seems to me it would be easier for them to accept me as I am at their present ages than when they get older, but Glynn says they're too young. I don't believe she'll ever think they're old enough.

Of course, if I did explain to them, I'm sure there would be no peace until they saw what I look like dressed up. But my wife wouldn't stand for that. She says she'll divorce me if this ever happens. Is divorce, perhaps, the only answer?

GENE [JEANNIE], NEVADA

Dear Gene (Jeannie):

Your children are never too young to embrace any truth you tell them about yourself, or to try to understand, in however limited a way. They love you and need you and are eager to know as much as they can about you. They will love you no less if you tell them about your great desire to dress up as a woman.

But our advice is — Don't.

There are two very compelling reasons why we say this. One is that you simply can't burden such young children with secrecy. They're bound to talk to people they trust — probably other kids. The fact that you are a transvestite will soon be known at their school and among your circle of friends. The world being what it is, you and Glynn and, most important, the children, will be subjected to ridicule, sneers and insults. There's no way of avoiding this — not until the world is a lot better educated.

The other reason — possibly the one your therapist is concerned about — is that seeing or even thinking about their father in female clothes would probably create terrible confusion in such young minds. In our society, children are conditioned from birth on to grow up as males or females, and there are rigid, if often arbitrary, rules on what this means. Boys don't play with dolls or girls with spaceships. And while there's some allowance for girls to wear male clothing, the opposite is still tabooed.

All these rules are associated in the child's mind with Father and Mother, Man and Woman. Mother is sweet and tender, Father is strong and protective. Clothing and makeup and all the other well-known attributes tell the child which is which.

Children not only model themselves on their own parents; they like to compare their own father and mother with those of their friends. They like to brag that "my mother is nicer than yours," and "my father is stronger than yours."

Seeing you in feminine clothes would contradict everything their society — including you and Glynn — have been teaching them about male and female. And unless the world they grow up in changes very radically and very fast, this might easily sow the seeds of emotional problems in later life.

When should you tell them? A lot depends on their emotional and intellectual maturity. Between 14 and 18 might be a good time.

But, as you say, you cannot continue indefinitely locking yourself away from your family and crossdressing at home without the strong likelihood of discovery. So where does that leave you?

There seem to be just two alternatives: (1) A breakup with Glynn or (2) an arrangement to do your crossdressing away from home. We would urge that you make every effort to rule out Alternative No. 1. If, despite all the problems and tensions about your crossdressing, you and Glynn still have all that love for each other after nine years, it would be a shame to break up such a marriage. Instead, why not explore Alternative No. 2?

A simple but costly solution is to get a separate apartment, where you can keep your wardrobe, your books and all your feminine accessories and crossdress without fear. This would take you away from home and your children, it's true. But it would be far better than having to lock yourself away from them in your own home.

Another solution is to find a TV group in your area and do your crossdressing with them. Of course, most groups don't meet as often as you would like to crossdress. But the chances are that you'll make friends with members who have places of their own where you can crossdress together in security.

Many TVs have found occupations that take them out on the road — selling for example. This means frequent stops at motels and hotels. And with a traveling wardrobe in the car trunk, they manage.

If none of these plans work for you, we suggest that as a last resort you and Glynn separate. That way, you can still see the children, but without creating role confusion in their young minds. And perhaps when they have grown to their teens, if you and your wife are still unattached, there could be a reunion.

MY THING

One thing F. I. NEWS has found out — Its readers can really write!! So c'mon, Y'all, sit right down and put together your own "MY THING" for us.

By Josephine

It was a summer night in a downtown big city.

"You are under arrest," the man who had chatted with me at the street corner a moment ago and offered me $30 for going to bed with him told me in a firm voice while his hand was reaching into his pocket and flipping out a wallet showing the police badge. ". . . For soliciting for prostitution and immoral acts," the plainclothesman continued. I was scored! This was it — my first arrest since I began street hustling three years ago.

Another man, also identifying himself as a police detective, joined in from the sidewalk. Both of them grabbed my arms, one at each side, and led me to walk toward an unmarked police car about two blocks away. These cops are tall and have big steps. I had to walk fast or "run" with my high-heeled sandals and I felt very awkward. People on the street were looking at me and I was so embarrassed. I bowed my head and didn't want to look forward.

"Give me your handbag and put your hands behind your back!" the arresting officer said to me when we reached the police vehicle. I blinked and hesitated.

"As soon as you are arrested, you are a prisoner. You better do what you are told," the other officer said distinctly. Well, I had no choice but to obey. The arresting officer then handcuffed me and pushed me to the back seat of the squad car. He read the Miranda Rules, which tell the rights of the arrestee. I was then driven to Police Headquarters for booking.

The car made sharp turns and the handcuffs were at my back. I was very uncomfortable, anticipating that more difficult times for me would follow. I prayed for God's help, although I don't go to church.

Arriving at the Headquarter building, I was brought into a room of which the door has a sign: SEX CRIME AND PROSTITUTION. Both officers and a sergeant on duty interrogated me with many questions including the lengths of my crossdressing and prostitution, previous criminal records, and whether I was a homosexual, etc. I denied any homosexual and hustling experience and remained silent, saying nothing about the solicitation leading to my arrest.

However, they found a tube of K-Y jelly in my purse and asked me what that was for. I simply told them it was for masturbation, not for sodomy. The sergeant said that prostitution was punishable by up to 3-months imprisonment and $250 fine, but the court usually imposed a fine of $50 to $100 or had a suspended term for the first offender.

The bonding fee was $300 and I didn't have that amount of money with me. The bondsman refused to bail me out as he believed I was dishonest because I didn't admit my gay behavior. I was allowed to call my relatives for help, but I preferred not to have my prostitution and arrest stories known to them. I would rather stay in jail waiting for arraignment.

As soon as the officers finished writing up the arrest report, I was led to another room for searching, fingerprinting and picture taking. The plainclothesmen transferred me to the uniformed officers in this room and left. One of the officers here removed the handcuffs and told me to take off my wearing apparels, such as watch, earrings, necklace, and bracelets. He then asked me to strip my dress, bra and panties, and to lower my pantyhose. Also, I had to remove my shoes to show him that there were no concealed articles in the shoes. I had to stand with my stocking feet on the dirty floor. The searching officer then told me to bend over so he could examine my ass. Finally, he told me to take off my wig, apparently thinking that I was wearing a hair-piece. I said that I had no wig, but my own hair. He didn't believe me and tried to pull the hair off. He then realized that it was my genuine hair and nodded.

Because there were several prisoners already waiting for the identification procedure, I was temporarily locked up in a small cell where I found three arrestees sitting on the floor. There was no chair or bench. I was tired, as it was about two a.m. So, I sat down on the dirty cement floor in this tiny cubicle. I began to feel the humiliation of imprisonment.

The offenses of the other three prisoners were drug abuse, larceny and assaulting. One of them said to me: "Baby, you are pretty and sexy, I want to screw you." He embraced and kissed me, but I was not in the mood. I didn't have enough energy to resist either, so I let him kiss me. Also he caressed my legs until he was called to go out. I had been sitting there for about an hour before I was brought out for identification.

I was told to stand erect on a marked tile for picture taking. The officer clipped a plate with date and number on my mini-dress. Three shots were taken, one front and two side views. Fingerprinting then

I was placed in a two-man cell about 6 feet by 9 feet. There are all together some 20 cells in this jail block holding 40 odd prisoners. I was the only drag queen there that night. Many inmates whistled while I walking to my cell. All doors are locked with an electrical device and the jailers don't carry keys.

The upper "pullman" was already occupied by a guy who had committed robbery. He was big and strong, weighing about 200 pounds. I took the lower one. There was no mattress, sheets or pillow. The "bed" was hard and cold. I took off my dress, shoes and stockings, leaving only my bikini brief on. Although the lights in jail were dimmed, it was still very noisy as the sliding doors opened and closed often and some inmates talked loudly, too. Sometimes they shouted to each other.

Early the next morning, about 15 inmates newly jailed, including myself, were called out and handcuffed pair by pair. We then marched to a room for further identification. Each inmate had to stand in front of a big mirror where bright lamps were turned on. Each was told to say his name and the charges placed against him to a microphone connected to a recording system. The line-up resembled the identification suspects as usually seen in the movies. While waiting to return to the cell block, some inmates were looking at my naked legs and feet and talking about me. An officer joked to them: "You now have a girl friend."

There was no breakfast or lunch, but a "brunch," which was made up of a three-decker bologna and cheese and a cup of diluted coffee. The drainage of the wash basin in my cell didn't work so that my roommate and I had to use very little water for everything. There was no wooden board for sitting on the commode, which was unclean. One really felt sick when confined in such a place. However, there was nothing I could but wait for my fate. I was so frustrated, depressed and upset, I wept occasionally.

My roommate wanted me to perform a blow job. I was afraid of being seen by the jailer and said no. He then came down and stomped on my left foot with his heavy boot while I was sitting at the edge of my bed. It was very painful. He was too strong for me and I had no choice but to submit myself to him. He then unzipped his pants and pulled his erect cock out. His hands held by head tightly and pushed it toward him. At this time I had to open my mouth to suck. The two inmates in the opposite cell were standing at their door, holding the iron bars, and watching our action. After a while, he took my place and sat down.

"Get down on your knees and work hard, Baby!" he said with a demanding tone. I had to kneel before him to continue the sucking. His big cock gave me a hard time, but I had to stand it under such circumstances. He "came" finally, shooting all the juice into my throat. I swallowed it.

In the evening, he asked me to "fuck" him with my tongue. I understood what he meant. He removed his pants and let me lick his ass. Suddenly, I heard the opening sound of the jail door and walked away immediately, but my roommate didn't have time to put on his pants. The officer walking through the corridor saw the scene. Instead of saying something to my roommate, the officer smiled and asked me: "Did you have a good time?" This was entirely out of my expectation. I thought we might have been charged for lewd purposes. Thanks to God!

That night, my roommate wanted to fuck me. At first, I refused because his cock was too big for my rear passage. He held my neck with both hands and threatened to strangle me if I didn't submit to his desire. I was again under his command and became his sex slave once more. Since my tube of K-Y jelly was already taken away by the searching officer, I had to put my saliva at the head of his cock as well as my asshole. His cock was so big and hard, I felt considerable pain when it entered, but I felt somewhat better after he made his way through. His body was so heavy and I could hardly "support" him. I was almost exhausted.

Fortunately, he milked after about only five minutes and I needed not to suffer too long. However, I was bleeding "slightly." Well, although I was physically hurt, I got pleasure mentally because I was treated sexually like a woman. I was glad I was not put in an isolation cell and I could still enjoy sex in jail. I am always happy to have been a drag queen and have never regretted that I became a prostitute.

Along with about 30 other prisoners, I was brought to the court next morning for arraignment. A public attorney was assigned to me for my defense. He told me that I had been entrapped by the police and the chance of obtaining a dismissal was good. He advised me to plead "not guilty" and asked the judge to release me without posting bonds. This is called "self-recognizance." The judge agreed, and said that my trial was set eight weeks later in the criminal court.

I went back to Police Headquarters to get my handbag and other belongings. Then I returned to my apartment for seclusion and waited for my trial.

LETTERS

Dear Sandy,

I just wanted to write and tell you what a good job you're doing with TV SWINGERS — I've met quite a few TVs and Queens, and let me say that as far as I am concerned, they make much better lovers than real females. I'm a real queen's man, and I'm proud of it. I have never had a sexual encounter with a real female that was superior to the relationships I've had with queens.

I guess they know how to turn a man on better than a woman can because they are males themselves. I find that they really give better head, and I've never known a woman to give such a satisfying rim job than the TVs I've dated. Right now, I'm going with a nineteen-year-old TV who is better looking than most women. He lives full time as a woman, and he's been living with me as my "wife" for the past four months. He looks so good that my neighbors think he is a real woman.

He is so much a woman in bed, too, only better. I love to slam my hot cock into his tight little ass. He wraps his legs around me and meets my thrusts until I unload inside him. We also satisfy each other fully, and spend a lot of time doing sixty-nines, until we both come.

I wouldn't trade Leigh for any woman on earth. Most of the females I have gone to bed with don't even know how to give a good blow job. All they can do is lie on their backs and get screwed. To me, this really is no fun at all. I like a passionate woman in bed, and I have found that almost every queen I have gone to bed with was really eager to please me.

Leigh and I are thinking of getting married at the local Metropolitan Community Church. She is going to wear a wedding gown and have four or five of her TV friends as bridesmaids. After the ceremony, we'll slip away to the Bahamas for a honeymoon and plenty of fucking and sucking.

I think that the TVs who advertise in your magazines are all beautiful and I hope that they all find the right person. I really hate to see TVs in sleazy bars hustling for a living — they are capable of so much more. Keep doing a good job, Sandy, and the best of luck to you.

Love,
SCOTT

Dear Sandy,

I am a plump closet-dwelling TV or TS (size 18). I must say that I am definitely TV and sometimes I wonder if I am not a TS. All through my life, my most intimate friends have been women. First, I was very close to my beautician stepmother, and spent most of my early life in her beauty shop.

During this time, I learned much about life from the female point of view and learned to admire and envy many of the customers who patronized my mother's shop. At that time I was aware of all the current fashions and trends and dreamed of wearing spike-heeled T-straps and a pink chemise. As I grew older, I became closer to my stepmother and farther from my real father. In spite of an early childhood crush and fascination with his body, as I grew older I found that I was not at all like him and had no desire to be like him or his friends who frequently came over.

In the same way, I have always felt a certain distance between myself and men in general. However, when I am in a dress and makeup, my relationship with men is much better. I feel that most men are interested in me in drag, not because I am very pretty, but because I offer the chance to have an affair without any hangups.

Yet, because of their nature, I usually can pick and choose the partners of my choice. On the other hand, when I am not in drag, I must endure the vulgar remarks they make about women in general. Many times when they are talking, I feel like crying but I never do. I know that alone and in bed they are mostly helpless and have to be led and pampered into a decent affair that is rewarding to both partners.

WE GET LETTERS

Readers are invited to send in letters and photos revealing their TV experiences and life as they live it. . . .

Dear Sandy:

I've been buying your magazines for years now and decided it was about time I wrote to express my appreciation and love.

Thought you might like this photo of me climbing a ladder showing off my panties and things. It was taken by my boyfriend Robert (Redford to me).

I've been a closet transvestite for as long as I can remember, but escaped it when I started reading your magazines and books and realized I wasn't alone — and I was much too attractive and feminine not to explore the outside world.

Last Halloween, I went to a party as Linda and met my lovelife. He wasn't even aware I was a TV until he took me home and got fresh. We have grown to love each other and live together now. We do plan even to marry and I can't wait to wear my wedding gown.

I never thought I could make love to a man, but Robert showed me the way until I loved to suck him off and eat his delicious sperm. I wasn't so sure about anal intercourse, but

Robert was patient and took it slow and easy until now I love it, also. When I feel his love juices squirt deep inside me — I usually have my own orgasm and beg for a baby girl. How I wish he could give me one.

We have been to some swinging parties and exchanged partners. I hope he is serious about wanting to marry me because he keeps postponing it and I have taken care of several of his friends for him. I've heard they pay him for the service — If so, it would make me his whore and he my pimp. I do hope it isn't true. He says it isn't, and I believe him.

Sorry about no face on the photo, but I would rather not reveal myself now because Robert may not like it. Later on, I hope to send you very revealing pictures of me and some of the "X-rated" variety if you care for them. I'm sure Robert and his friends would like to see them in your magazines.

Must toddle along now my darlings and get ready for a big orgy tonight.

Love, LINDA

Dear Linda:

We are looking forward to those X-rated photos. Give my regards to Robert Redford.

SANDY

Dear Sandy:

I received your letter and very glad to hear from you.

I was headlined in 1913 as the Taffy Queen in which I introduced the song "Taffy" for the late Harry Von Tilzer, music publisher.

I was on the bill with the late Al Jolson, Sophie Tucker, J. J. Corbett, Molly Picon, Dixon & Doyle, Smith and Dale, Morton Downey, and so many other star acts.

I think I told you I have been advertised in the VARIETY, Jan. 29, DRAG Magazine, and many photos and programmes of me are in the Museum of Modern Art, Lincoln Center. Am enclosing two photos of me in costume. One was taken at my birthday party in January. My friends always make a birthday party for me every year.

The other photo is one of my last and latest as an entertainer.

I have even letters in my collection from the great Lillian Russell. I live alone and would like to hear from people. Hoping to hear from you.

Sincerely, EDDIE RUSSELL

Dear Sandy:

Just wanted to write you a note on how much I enjoy F. I. NEWS.

I'm a closet TS, if there is such a thing. I'm locked into a position that would really hurt a lot of people if I tried to get out. I hang in there and get a certain amount of satisfaction knowing some people are able to work it out and get the operation.

I would like to know if there are any good places in the Wilmington-Philadelphia area where TS types meet. I think it would help a lot if I could talk to some of the other sisters. I know this is tough, because most post-ops prefer to drop between the cracks so they can live the life they have always dreamed of.

Yours, LYNN

Dear Lynn:

I am sending the information that you requested. You are right — many post-op transsexuals simply disappear into society, and they are hard to get to know.

SANDY

Dear Sandy:

This is my first time ever writing to a newspaper, so pardon the mistakes.

You see, I've been a TV all my life. The same old story — played football and basketball in school, dated all kinds of girls, got married and had two children.

My wife knows of my fixation, but doesn't approve, so I don't get much of a chance to dress. But it's time to see what can be done about this.

I feel that if maybe once a month I go all out, I'll be able to be a better businessman and father. I don't know what percentage of the TVs dress just to release pressures of their everyday life, but this is what it does for me.

I'm not interested in attracting another man. I love my wife and children very much. But I also like to dress and feel feminine once in awhile.

Am I an unusual TV, Sandy, or are there other TVs out there that feel the same way?

What should my next step be? Should I get involved in a club? And is there one in Minnesota where I can go once a month and meet other TVs?

Also, I'm into the bag of being a maid. I have a maid's uniform I wore once to a Halloween party. I wear it when my wife and kids aren't home, so maybe I should look for someone (a female preferably) who wants a male maid once a month?

What's your advice, and where in Minnesota can I find someone to help me?

I'd send a picture along, but I don't have any. Maybe after I receive your answers, I'll find someone to take it and I'll send it in.

Vital statistics are, I'm 28 years old, 6 feet tall and 200 lbs. With help, makeup and such, I think I'd look good in a dress.

Keep up the good work.

BARBIE

Dear Barbie:

No, you are not odd or unusual. Many men like yourself dress to relieve the tensions of their lives, and they like the feel of feminine clothes. Just because you dress in women's clothing doesn't mean you are gay.

We have hopes of getting a chapter going in Minnesota as part of our Crossdresser Organizational Program, so join up and make it happen.

SANDY

Dear Sandy:

Hi! My name is Cathy Ann and I thought that I'd write and let you girls know that you have one great magazine here. I really enjoy reading it and hope that I'll soon have enough money to get a full subscription to it, sweeties.

I would like to put an ad in your Getting Together section, except that I don't know just how to word it. A few years ago, I sent an ad and photo to the Drag Magazine and, when they printed it, it wasn't the one I had sent them. And of all the photos I sent them, they didn't pick the one I asked them to print with my ad.

Although I received letters from that ad, I still felt bad because they put my age as being 20 years old and I don't like lying to people. In fact, I like to tell it as I see it, dear.

When I see someone that is really good-looking and I really care something for that person, I tell them and I don't do it just to be nice and make them feel good. I do it because that's the way I feel.

Before my wife and I parted ways, I had met a very beautiful TV and we had some wonderful times together. In fact, I fell in love with her, but then some other TVs she had written to told her she didn't look like a girl, all she looked like was a guy in woman's clothes. But she would not tell me who they were because I sure would have liked to tell them a thing or two.

Well, anyway, she gave up dressing because of that and I lost more than I care to remember when she stopped dressing as her sexy feminine self.

I just wish I knew why it is that some sisters can't try to help other sisters who are trying, instead of discouraging them by telling them they don't look like a girl and they never will. I'm the type of person who is willing to help a sister be what she wants to be, not to tear down her confidence in herself.

I feel that a sister should try and build another sister's confidence and to help her feel wanted in the sisterhood. But I guess all sisters don't feel that way about other sisters. There is more to being beautiful than meets the eye. Some people are beautiful inside as well as out and some people are only beautiful inside.

When I dress as my feminine self, I feel like a very beautiful sexy girl and as I'm putting on my makeup, I think of myself as a real girl. I want everyone that sees me to think I'm a real girl so I dress and feel like a real girl sweetheart. I even shave all the hair off my body because it makes me feel so much more sexy.

Dearest Sandy:

I'm enclosing a photo of my feminine self, and I hope that you also think I look pretty as a girl. I hope that you will print my photo in your paper.

Why is it that we are expected to live like the majority of people when they can't respect us for the way we feel. How can we respect their way of life either?

I hope that there is someone out there in this great big world who will love me the way I am and not try to make me be something I'm not.

I wish for only one thing in life now and that is to find some nice TV or TS who will love me and let me love him and so we can find much happiness together. I had found happiness one time with Debbie, the girl I told you about, but because of someone's not understanding or trying to be a little nicer, she is no longer a sister. At least she wasn't after she received the letter they had sent her. And even though I tried to tell her they didn't know what they were saying, it didn't help.

Well, dear, I guess I'll close for now, so take care of yourselves and keep up the good work you are doing for all the TVs, TSs and FIs.

Love, CATHY ANN

Dear Sandy:

I just wanted to drop a note to thank you for the wonderful job you are doing on your publications. I can't begin to tell you how much F.I.NEWS has meant to me. Keep up the good work!

I would like to know if you have any information about TV chapters in North Carolina. It's lonely down here in N. C. with no one to talk to. I would be interested in getting one started, but it would have to be fairly discreet. If you have any of this info, please let me know. Also, I would like to see this letter in your mag or newspaper. It would really give me a thrill.

Thank you again.

Love, MARSHA

Dear Marsha:

If you want to help get a TV chapter started in your area, check out the Crossdresser Organizational Program that is described in this issue. We are making every effort to get chapters started all over the country, and you can be an important part of this.
