

TRANSVESTITES A MONTREAL

TAMs & tissues

Volume 1 No. 4 Summer 1980

This is our forth issue and things are looking much better. After much thought and discussion the group has decided to separate into two distinct groups ; one for transvestites and one for transexuals. The latter group will be called Women of Montréal en Neuf - see a separate article in this newsletter. We also have survived a financial test - in May we took in only 4.00 revenue but had expenses totaling almost $30.00 ; a word to the group brought out some needed support but more is needed on an ongoing basis. To do this we will now sell advertising in the newsletter in the hopes it will bring in enough revenue to pay for the paper. We also hope to have more French in our next newsletter - we have some volunteers now to translate but would alos like original articles from all our members so if anyone writes poetry or short stories or wants to report on what is going on in their area please send them in and we will be happy to print them - especially our members in the USA. We would also like your letters to the editor and comments on the newsletter itself. We would also like to thanks all those responsible for telling others about us and for those publications for printing our address - it certainly helps. We ahve made many referrals to other groups in the USA.

Thanks David

This issue, girls, we're going to talk of hair care, colour, style and shape.

As you know, if you have a priceless oil painting, it's really nothing to look at unless you have it encased in a beautiful frame. This also holds true for your face and hair.

Stay away from massive curls unless you are wearing an afro. Curls which are large are out of style these days and will only cause people to look at you for that one moment to long and then the jig is up.

Soft waves and curls are more pleasing to the eye and a lot of these new tight curled wigs that they have for cheap prices look straight out of the Three Stooges wardrobe, and again I mention, that too, too many people will stare.

If your're stout- try to wear your hair in one of the following styles: if you want straight hair try to let it hang softly along your face; this slenderizes your face.

- if you like your hair up off your head, then wear it in a bun or tucked under pony tail, this too will slenderizes your face.

- if you like soft waves, then there are a limitless number of styles that you can utilize without making your face any rounder than what it naturally is, but remember to avoid curls or width around your face as this will only make your face look puffed and bloated.

- don't be shy to sit in front of the mirror and try different styles with your hair; you probably will find a style that you will like and that will suit you.

If your idea is to look younger,(and whose isn't), try for a style that is 10 years younger than what people of your age group are wearing; but for God's sake, don't try to wear something that a teenager would wear if your age group is older.

Remember too girls, that if you're wearing a short wig to shave the back of your neck- there is nothing that will give you away quicker than a man's neck and the base of a male hair cut showing from under it.

And too, your colour should not be too far away from your own natural colour unless of course, it's gray, then you're lucky enough to be able to choose any colour in the rainbow- but try to stay away fro solid black, it will only make you look like death warmed over.

By using your closest colour to your own natural, you can wear your piece a little back from your own hairline and try a new style.

Bangs are not really in and they will make people wonder what you are trying to hide. There are many styles that will compliment your face and then too just as many that will ruin your face.

The only advise that I can give you on picking out a good piece is that the good ones start around $35.00 and up- and if you can afford a human hair wig, then you've got the best. And take care of your wigs as you would your own hair because they are your "frames" to that priceless"oil painting"

WHY A PINK TRIANGLE?

In gay circles the Pink Triangle is becoming popular as a symbol. But as a symbol of what? As with most symbols and words used in the gay movement today, its origins lie not with gay people themselves, but originally was assigned to gays by heterosexuals. The pink triangle has greater significance because of its association with the extermination of the first gay movement of modern times.

By 1899 the world's first Gay Rights Organization, Wissenschaftlich-humanitares Komitee (Scientific Humanitarian Committee) had published 23 books in an effort to educate the public on homosexuality. The organization had been founded in 1897 by Adof Brand, Magnus Hirschfeld and Max Spohr, all members of the growing gay rights movement in Germany of the late 19th and early 20th century. This movement had started in 1871 when King Wilhelm set up the Second Reich and adopted the harsh Bavarian penal code which outlawed gay sex for the first time in 24 of the 35 previously independant states of Germany.

This gay rights movement was part of a large gay subculture in Berlin at the turn of the century. With a population of 2.5 million, Berlin supported 40 gay bars and according to police, nearly 2,000 hustlers. Many groups supported Gay Rights and in 1905 there were 320 publications on homosexuality. Groups such as the leftist Social Democratic Workingmen's Party had publicly supported gay rights. In 1928 the Reichstag Committee approved the Penal Reform Bill which abolished all homosexual crimes. This had been the goal of the German Gay Movement; however, before the law could take effect, the Nazis were swept into power by the economic chaos of 1929.

Hitler at first ignored the gays in his Nazi party. Ernst Rohm, head of the Brownshirt militia, was rather careless of his reputation. He and his cronies often met in Munich for orgies. Before Hitler held supreme power in Germany he said, "His (Rohm's) private life cannot be an object of scrutiny unless it conflicts with the basic principles of National Socialist ideology." It was only after 1933 when he held supreme power within the Third Reich that he decided that gay sex did conflict with his principles.

When Rohm's Brownshirts reached 500,000 men, Hitler tried to have the leaders assassinated. After this failed, he launched a year long campaign against 'decadence' in general. In his first year in power, prostitution was banned, all gay bars and hotels were closed, nudism and pornography were banned. Gay activists were arrested and sent to concentration camps; with the files and libraries of gay organizations destroyed by student terrorists. A law was passed requiring the sterilization of all homosexuals, schizophrenics, epileptics, drug addicts, hysterics, and those born blind or malformed.

On June 30, 1934, "The Night of Long Knives," Hitler finalized his campaign against gays in his government. Troops converged on a resort where Rohm had given a party the night before. Many were shot on the spot. Rohm was given a gun to commit suicide, but when he refused, he was shot. Hitler issued an order removing all gays from the army. Those who were not massacred, were sent to concentration camps. In the camps the gays were known by the pink triangle, 2 3/4 inches high, worn on the left side of the jacket and the right leg of the trousers. Gays were the lowest of the low, placed in level three camps, and put under "triple camp discipline" which meant more work and less food.

Rudolf Hoess, in his "Commandant of Auschwitz," reported some of the gay inmates, particularly the 'strichjungen', or the hustlers and the most obvious gays. It seems beatings had no effect. When Hoess was transferred to a new camp he found gays an 'epidemic.' They were assigned the worst work in the worst conditions. The idea behind all this was to make them normal again. However, very few gave up their gayness. Hoess reports, "Whenever they found the opportunity they would fall into one another's arms," and "knowing they would never be set free," they suffered additional psychological stress. Their work became harder and they died like flies. Hoess observed that even under these conditions the men formed deep lasting relationships, terminated on some occasions by the friends committing suicide together. However, as a whole the 'Strichjungen' did not give up. Hoess felt "It was often too easy to drive them to the gas chambers." Regardless of how hard it was to mass exterminate the gays, most estimates place the numbers killed close to half of a million.

The pink triangle as a symbol should remind gay people of those who have given up their jobs, who have lost the affection of family and friends, or who have suffered a greatly reduced lifestyle because of their gayness. Many have suffered even more and lost their lives simply because they were gay. As gay people we should wear the pink triangle to remind others that a half million gays wore it to their death in fascist Germany, people whose memory should not be forgotten.

The facts in the preceding paragraphs were taken from: "One Day They Were Simply Gone" by Rictor Norton. Gay News, Number 87, Nov. 1975; London, England. The article was prepared by Steve P. Holt of the Metropolitan Community Church of Brooklyn, New York and appeared in the June, 1979 issue of the newsletter of the MCC Ottawa.

Should you want anymore information please feel free to contact GAY INFO at 486-4404 Thursday and Friday evenings or write PO Box 610 Stn. N.D.G. Montréal H4A 3R1. We hope that you will support Gay Men and Lesbians in their quest for civil rights and just plain decency.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor;

I know all about transexuals but what is a nun called when she wants the operation?

just call me-

Curious

Dear Curious;

A Transsister????

The following is a letter that we received from one of our sisters that we hope will prove to interesting and helpful to you.

Dear Sisters;

This is the first open letter that I have written under my femme name. Thanks to you and to all the help and encouragement I have received from the issues of "Tams & Tissues".

After reading my first issue, I made some phone calls and set up a series of tight appointments. It was cold as I hurried out on the subway and I was glad I had nylons on under my thin femme slacks. Wearing broad heeled mens slack boots and with no make-up on I didn't look femme from the outside. It showed however, the state of my progress. I had been "closet dressing" for a long time but this was my first excursion outside for that length of time, even with my flowered blouse covered by the raincoat! Here I was, a young middle aged teenager! It was quite an experience!

I arrived at Paris Milan Wigs (7176 St. Hubert St) after making an appointment with "Suzanne"

It was a bit of a shock to find I had to shed my coat and sit in slacks and blouse in an open show room. I said to myself, "Here you go Rose-Marie, if you're out, you're out."!!!

My treatment could not have been kinder nor more professional! My wig was fitted in jig-time and I was bundling back into the refuge of my trench coat. She was happy to know that Tams was spreading the word and invited one and all to shop there.

It was not without trepidation that I inserted my trench coat sheilded bulk into the crowd at Medicus(276-2262, 5044 St. Laurent). However, when I said that I was "Mr. Pearson" and had an appointment for 9:45 with Miss Racine, I waited only 10 minutes. I was ushered into a closed room with every sort of Breast Prothesis you could imagine. Again, my already donned bra was quickly filled. Again, I left showering compliments on the excellent and professional service, and vowing to report to Tams on my good treatment. As mentioned before, I was surprised at how a size so small was necessary.

I rushed across town to hit my 10:30 appointment with Suzanne Paquet at "Paquet Beauty Salon" (3618 Notre Dame St. near Atwater) (932-5215). I not only got a facial; the first one ever in my life, but I got a make-up lesson as well- Boy, did I need it!!!

I must salute you all for starting and supporting an organization which can allow a shakey, hesitant and formerly closet TV to remake his own image in a morning in Montreal.

ATTENTION- phone ahead, mention TAMS and make your appointment at a time when your prescence will not raise a problem should you wish not to go "à la femme".

It is worth noting that every place knew about our organization-Everyone was pleased that they had been mentioned favourbly. Everyone indicated more TAMS business. Ladies, for the first time, I think we are onto "FEMMEPOWER". The day when I turn up at the mine in heels, slit skirt, a twin set and pearls will never happen, but some blows have been struck for the cause. Love and kisses to all who have made it possible.

Now it's my turn to reciprocate:

Shoes: Sid Kushner- Womens wide width shoes-1204 Arch St-Philadelphia, Penn. U.S.A. 19107 phone-(215) 665-1539

For girls with hard to fit feet-widths Cto EEE sizes (half sizes to 11) 5 to 12. Not too big a selection with a 3 inch heel but they are there. Backless, closed and slings are available. Most prices range from \$24.00 to \$29.00 U.S. funds Phone and credit card sales accepted. Send for their illustrated catalogue. Also sells stockings up to 13 $\frac{1}{2}$ for 3 for \$5.50 U.S.-a lot more sheerer than the XL stockings I have been buying at my large Ladies Store. The panty hose which go to 5X-are very sheer but not smooth, being of an open mesh weave. The first pair I had on laddered, but fortunately don't show under the long lounging gowns I have on. They also run at \$5.50 but are cool for the summer but require more care than I apparently normally give.

I sent David a catalogue, which now he does not have to send back since I received another.

MAKE-UP: Also my wife and I get got the most thorough lesson in skin cleansing and the use of barrier creams when I mentioned I used my wifes skin care products because of a delicate skin condition. The courtesy with which we were treated was outstanding by a person who obviously an expert and enjoyed his work. This gentleman's name is Warren and he works at Lise Watier counter at the Bay Store downtown-ground floor make-up area. He too, has a phone number (281-4525) at his counter. He was most sympathetic when I asked him later for advice on buying other beauty products.

It was obvious that we had an understanding about where I was coming from! He would be most understanding about discreet counselling- again I would recommend phoning him ahead and preparing the way. Thus any embarrassment you feel is taken care of aforehand.

Well, I have raved on long enough, love and kisses to all. I will not blame David or Beverly if they do not answer me, but I will answer all letters sent to me at: Rosemarie [REDACTED] TAMS P.O.Box 153, Victoria Stn. Montreal H3Z 2V5 I will answer all letters when I get into Montreal which I try to do once a month.

Love to all,

Rosemarie

Sentence cut for murderer of transsexual

A man who flew into a rage and stabbed his date to death after discovering "she" was a transsexual has had his eight-year sentence reduced to six years by the Ontario Court of Appeal.

In August, 1978, Richard William Andes, 20, picked up what he thought was a woman at a beach party. When they went to a nearby schoolyard, he discovered otherwise, exploded in anger, pulled a knife and stabbed Peter Christopher Hauser 17 times.

When Mr. Andes pleaded guilty to manslaughter last spring, police testified that Mr. Hauser, 23, was taking female hormones in preparation for a sex-change operation. He already had taken on some female characteristics and also was known as Shirley.

In a judgment released yesterday, the Appeal Court said there were a number of points that mitigated Mr. Andes' sentence, including his "homosexual panic," his good work record and the fact his only criminal conviction was for possession of marijuana.

Court hears transsexual's case

STRASBOURG, France — The European Court of Human Rights heard the case yesterday of Daniel van Oosterwijck, a Belgian transsexual who wants the law to recognize him as a man. Mr. van Oosterwijck, 35, a lawyer who lives in Brussels, says the Belgian Government's failure to change his birth certificate to reflect his changed sex violates his rights to privacy, marriage and freedom from degrading treatment, all guaranteed by the European Convention of Human Rights.

Sperm perk up with caffeine

Sperm swim twice as fast when they get a caffeine boost, according to an Israeli fertility expert quoted in Omni magazine.

Dr. Joseph Barkay of Central Emek Hospital in Afula, Israel, artificially inseminated 58 women with five parts semen to one part caffeine. There were 10 per cent more pregnancies in this group than in a control group.

Babies born to the women in the caffeine group were healthy and normal, the doctor said.

This is the last portion of a letter i recently received from Leslie Ann a sister incarcerated in the Colorado State Pen for Men. This Penitentiary resembles the "alamo" and thus is as antiquated. Last year the Federal Government of the United States condemned most of the structure as unfit. It presently is grossly overpopulated, over double the its original capacity. Partly due to the huge amount of warehousing of people the U.S. popularizes and the fact that many of the inmates who resided in the New Mexico State Prison were transfered to Colorado after the disasterous riot last winter. May we lovingly thank Leslie for sharing her difficult life with us. If you are interested in writting Ms Wesson or send her gifts (she's queen size) size seven panty. Her address is [REDACTED] Canon City, Colorado 81212 usa

Girl the summers here are quite hot and I want to thankyou for caring about my health as it will stay good because I will not let the weather or these people get me down. Well sister i am going to write that article for you and hope that it will be of some help to others.

It is very hard in a prison for a transexual especially this one here. In Colorado, this being like a German Concentration Camp, in a lot of ways. First I would like to point out that being a T.S. in prison is really a bad trip, although I crossdress while in prison the staff along with the inmates (some of them) feel that if you crossdress you are a very sick individual and in need of some help. The prison refuses to give you hormone pills unless you can have a doctor on the streets write and tell these people that you are his patient and then you have to sign a release form that says you will release the prison from all liability. There is nothing that is more unbearable than to have not only verbal assaults but physical assaults by gaurds as well as inmates.

We T.S.'s stick pretty much together, as for the other inmates in here they act as if they have never seen a woman before and every one of them wants to try and get you to be there ol' lady. It is just a trip that is really hard to handle and that combined with all of these other problems is enough to make anyone have a nervous break-down. But this sister here takes it all in stride as a learning experience that will never be forgotten. So I will stay strong and wish for that day I'll get out and be able to live my life as a normal woman again.

A Sister always

MONTHLY REPORT ON ACTIVITIES OF THE DELTA OMEGA ALPHA GROUP (D.O.A.)

As most of our members know, our house of good fame fell down, the termites completely devouring the beams. We wish to thank Merissa Sherrill Lynn and her associates for allowing us the use of their facilities for our April 19th. meeting. Merissa was kind enough to overlook the fire set by one of the members in the bathroom. There's a better way of drying your nails than by setting fire to the toilet tissue. We have written "Jimmy" asking permission to hold our next meeting in the Oval Office but, as yet no confirmation. Our offer of Honorary Membership to The Supreme Court was rejected five to four. (It appears we have friends in high places. The July meeting will be held in the Astrodome, so let's all get off our astros and be there. Present at the last meeting were:- Helen Highwater; Dinah Myte; Millie Meter; Polly Wannacracker; Polly Ester; "Kitten" Kaboodle; Katherine LaGrate; Peg Legg; Alice Bluegown; Terri Towell; Kandy Kane; Cherie Pye; Olive Drabb; Regina Vagina; "Happy" Hooker; Ima Hoare and Kitty Litter. Again, our collective thanks and appreciation to The Tiffany Club.
