OF YESTERYEAR

Only in the past few years, just within a decade ago, the practice of transvestism has gained ground in leaps and bounds, freeing lonely souls from their closets and entering them into the mainstream of society as individuals of their own ilk. But it hasn't been so for very long. In this issue of THE FEMALE IMPERSONATOR, we explore the world of the professional — the only TV of ten years ago who could express himself publicly as a crossdresser. He almost always posed as a mimic, a person who was a male but who impersonated a well-known female entertainer or nationally known female personality.

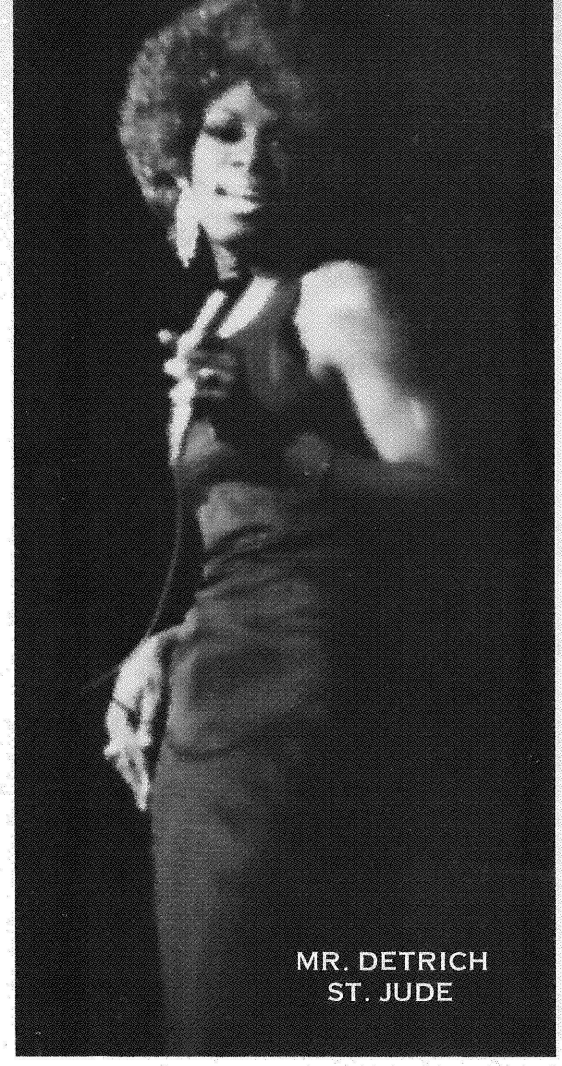

Among the women most often mimicked were Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Carol Channing, Judy Garland, Liza Minelli and Bette Davis. In those days, the late sixties and the very early seventies, this form of entertainment was accepted and thought of as comedy — men making like women.

The female impersonator was revered as a special kind of entertainer. Some dribs and drabs of publicity about him reached the popular magazines — he spent years of his life feminizing himself, he also spent years polishing his performance which probably included mouthing a song to a record player, and it was amazing how feminine he looked when all dressed up there on the stage — the imposition in that supposition being that he probably imbibed in some female hormones.

TV CULT AT GREYSTONE MANOR

The great greystone house loomed ominously in the fading October sunset. Silhouetted starkly on the amber Pennsylvania sky, its spires towered against the gently waving gold cornfield that only recently had been ravaged under a farmer's harvester.

It seemed an off milieu for what promised to be a festive evening; I couldn't help but feel chilled at the sight of the mansion as I turned up a winding drive that led me to where I now stood.

Only a few weeks before, I had decided that I would come to this place. Letters between Marianne and myself had taken an increasingly intimate turn and she had become more and more insistent that we meet. Any more stalling on my part would mean the end of things, she'd said.

But there had always been something about Marianne that vaguely disturbed me. She wrote like someone living an obsession, an obsession that seemed to have something to do with witchcraft, though she never referred directly to this. Instead there were partial hints in her correspondence, but nothing that ever completely substantiated my deductions. But she was so beautiful in her pictures I knew I'd never forgive myself if I didn't at least visit her once.

When my own interests in transvestism solidified some eight years ago, I decided that I would try to correspond with and meet only the most attractive queens, particularly favoring those who roughly equaled my own age and slender dimensions. The youthful Marianne suited my physical requirements ideally. She described herself matter-of-factly as 20ish, under six feet tall and a pound or two over 130. She was educated and single, as I am, and lived in the Upper Bucks County countryside.

Her last letter had implored me to visit her for an evening of dressing with friends who were promised to be a vivacious young group of crossdressers she was certain I would enjoy. She also said that I needn't worry about bringing any change of clothing. All would be taken care of, as she put it.

My earlier reluctance, which was brought on by what I thought was her affinity for the black arts, was forgotten in my resolve to avoid disappointing this lovely acquaintance. But the Gothic appearance of the house and the strangely desolate landscape that surrounded it revived my anxieties.

The sound of the door noisily squeaking open to my kncoks cheered me for some reason. Perhaps my nerves were quieted by the rush of warm air that flowed from a blazing fire in the hearth just across from the entrance. But before I could settle on the comforting sensation, Marianne stepped from behind the door fairly glowing in her simple black gown. The cut of the garment, her dainty (if slightly overdone) makeup and long, wavy, dark hair gave the appearance of a young woman of means. The plush interior of the living room we stepped into did nothing to dispel this first impression.

Oddly, her friends were nearly identical replicas of the hostess. Other than facial differences, their grooming, clothing, and even their makeup were strikingly similar. I mentioned this to Marianne and half-jokingly said that it looked as though her guests were a covey of latter-day witches.

"Well, I didn't want to frighten you off when I wrote you about this party," Marianne explained quietly. "But our little club here does have a small interest in the ancient arts."

I was taken aback by this remark, but passed it off quickly and assumed that this was some sort of harmless hobby indulged in by my offbeat correspondent and friend.

After a brief introduction to the group and a glass of unusually bitter wine offered by Jocelyn, who seemed to be the eldest of the girls, Marianne suggested that I might now want to change into femme clothes. As I was thoroughly enjoying learning more about this group, the idea was very appealing and I immediately excused myself and made my way to a room off to the side of where we had been seated, with Penelope serving as my guide.

"I hope you like the clothes we picked out for you," Penelope said brightly, as we stepped into what appeared to be a large bedroom. At the edge of a huge bed lay what I had begun to expect — a simple gown exactly the same as the ones worn by Marianne and her friends. With it were an expensive-looking pair of sheer stockings, beautiful black patent leather pumps and a matching set of black foundation garments that included a lacy bra, panties and garterbelt.

While I stripped off my male clothes and started dressing, Penelope told me how the group was formed about two years ago with herself, Jocelyn, and Marianne as the original members. Sandra and Karen had only recently started coming to the regular bi-monthly meetings, she explained.

Penelope made no mention of any black magic or the like, other than saying, when I asked her, that everyone in the group had an interest in witch craft and liked to pretend that they were a coven worshipping Satan. This she assured me was no more than a "game" they played and no more harmful than reading Tarot cards.

This unsettled me. As I made up my face, with Penelope's help, I felt a sort of queasiness in my stomach. Why had Marianne asked me here? I hadn't ever expressed any interest in Satanism to her. I knew I would stay. The girls attracted me with their elegant beauty. But as I placed a long wig on my head and felt Penelope comb it, my anxiety rose and a hot flash of pain tore through my chest. Reeling toward the floor, I knew I was blacking out. An unassailable terror raced through my fogging brain as I collapsed into a stupor.

When I opened my eyes, I found myself in a new room. I felt drugged, not completely recovered from the strange attack, and thought I must still be asleep. What was in front of me had to be a dream, though the floor I lay on seemed real enough. The five girls were all there, but they were not paying any attention to me as they whirled about with their arms linked in a frenzied dance around the tallest man I had ever seen. He was im-immense, at least eight feet tall, with a shock of coal black hair and burning red eyes that gave off an unearthly glow in the dim candlelight that barely illuminated the scene.

I was frightened by this vision but could not move my limbs. Neither could I turn my face away from the spectacle, which seemed to be an unholy ceremony of some sort, though its purpose was as yet unrevealed. I resolved that I would try to make my escape whenever the opportunity availed itself but until then I would try to remember everything that took place.

I only then realized that the man in the center of the dance was completely naked. Through the chain of bodies, I also saw that this man had an erect cock of gargantuan proportions. His member resembled a horse's penis more closely than a man's. Indeed his entire frame seemed more beatial than human. bes-

My hostess and her friends were by now concentrating all their attentions on the huge cock. Marianne and Penelope sucked on the shaft of the penis and tried to get it into their mouths, though it was too impossibly large to fit, while the other girls pulled and stroked the member as its owner laughed expansively.

My own cock was now stiff as I watched the erotic performance in front of me. I was convinced that this being was some sort of demon from Hell, but the gorgeous cock he possessed turned me on. As my thoughts centered more and more on the love tool, I also realized that the girls were starting to take notice of me again. Marianne, in fact, had left her position on the demon's shaft and was walking toward me.

"You will join us now," she said matter-of-factly and lifted me from the floor. "You want cock now. I can see that. Suck me now."

Without hesitating, I lifted her gown and took her own lovely manhood into my mouth and sucked with pleasure until it hardened. At the same time, she reached under my dress and began to stroke my throbbing piece, driving me crazy with cock-hunger. In this state I devoured her penis, sinking it deep into my throat as she wailed for me to suck. By now I hadn't a thought for anything but her cum and didn't notice that the other girls were now circling around us.

Someone was rubbing my ass now with what I assumed was some type of lubricant. Marianne pushed my head hard onto her cock and fucked my mouth faster while one of the girls pushed me to my knees and replaced Marianne's hand with her own on my steaming tool. I wanted to be fucked by one of the drags and began to wag my well-greased ass in a silent plea for penetration. I didn't have to wait long to feel the deliciousness of a hard dick slipping into my hole. This was what I had secretly wanted tonight. I had hoped I would be able to suck and be fucked at the same time. Now it was happening. I looked around and saw the wonderful scene that was being played out on my body.

Jocelyn was screwing my ass purposefully as I bucked back and forth on her tool.

"Fuck me hard," I begged. "Give me cock.

Push it in all the way and make me your slave. I need it deep. Give it to me, give me cock!" I wanted cum in my mouth and my ass more than anything now. I wanted to feel Marianne shoot into me and feel Jocelyn plow my hole with her red hot pole.

The other girls weren't idle either. I could see that both Marianne and Jocelyn were also getting fucked as they in turn violated me. I was thrilled by all the sex and cocks, but I wondered where the giant penis was.

Just then Jocelyn began trembling with what I knew was going to be my reward for the fucking she was giving me. She came powerfully and I shuddered at the throbbing, pulsing cock in my ass that had now released its juice into me.

That was only the first of four more fucks. Each girl in turn pumped my ass and mouth until I felt like the greatest cock-satisfier on earth. I loved the feeling of sliding cocks and bouncing balls on my ass. It seemed like I was made for this.

"The time has come," boomed a powerful voice across the room. "Bring my new servant to me. She must now submit to me." It was the huge man who now wanted his pleasure. I could never take that horse cock in my mouth, much less in my ass. But before I could protest, the girls each took one of my limbs and carried me to the bed where the creature waited. He picked me up like a toy in his powerful arms and without ceremony jammed his cock into my ass. The pain was unbelievable as he pumped my body onto that monstrous cock. But I couldn't stop his violation, nor did I wish to try; I had become a total erotic object.

After a great effort, I found that I was able to accommodate him by spreading my legs far apart in a missionary position, but I couldn't imagine that he would get his entire 14 inches in. He did. I felt like I was nothing but a hole wrapped around an impossibly gigantic cock, but I loved it and was begging for all of it. I was surprised at how cold his meat felt as it pumped me. But I enjoyed the strange sensation.

Before I could think more about it, the demonic penis began to expand and contract powerfully to my anal squeezing; I was long beyond coming myself now (his first thrust into me had caused a full orgasm), I only longed for his spray. With only his penis touching me, the giant lifted me off the bed by the sheer strength of the icy beam inside my ass. I must have looked like a bit of beef on a skewer as he stood up. Reaching his feet, the being walked toward a fireplace with my body pointing out from his torso and held in the air only by the mighty pulsating penis.

Barely three inches from the roaring fire, he stopped and spun my body around on his cock so that I could now face him directly. The heat from the fire made my head burn, but I was helpless and tried to pull myself away from it by attempting to wrap my arms around his belly.

"Down, my slave," he thundered. "You will obey me. You are not worthy of embracing me. Content yourself with the honor you possess.

"Worship me and you will have what you will. Behold now what these others can claim for their devotion."

I looked to Marianne who had stripped off her garments and stood naked beside us. Other than her made-up face and wig, she looked like a rather slim man, but with a touch of her fingers to her flat chest, perfect tits suddenly blossomed. Jocelyn stepped over, repeated the action on herself with the same result, but also touched her cock which immediately turned into a vagina. Another touch and the cock reappeared, firm and erect, while the tits remained.

Penelope came over to my other side and touched my chest from which sprang a lovely pair of pert breasts. I swooned at the sight and the unrelenting fuck I was still receiving from the being. She touched me again and I was flat again.

"These are but simple tricks," said the great being. "Wealth, power and youth are yours if you swear by me. Feel the power now."

With that a gigantic eruption inside my body filled me with the demon's cum. A flood of hot liquid shot into my intestine and burned the channel with titanic force. His orgasm sent me into a short series of intense, uncontrollable spasms and again I passed out as I pumped my ass onto the magnificent piece.

When I awoke I found myself sitting in a chair dressed in the clothes I had worn upon my arrival. Daylight was streaming through a window and a handsome, somewhat familiar young man was pouring coffee into a cup on a nearby table.

"I hope you enjoyed your stay," said the man, who by now I recognized as my host, Marianne. "You took ill so early last night we didn't have much time to talk. I hope you're feeling better."

Could I have dreamt last night? It didn't seem possible, but true or not I wanted to get out of that place. With a short excuse I began walking toward the door.

"I'll show you the way," Marianne said. In no time we stood again at the door I had first stepped through. "Come back to us again."

I walked to my car and turned back to wave goodbye. My friend had opened his shirt in that span and was touching his bare chest. He seemed to be changing somehow, but spun around on his heels too quickly for me to see exactly what was happening.

He closed the door behind him and disappeared into the house. I started the car and moved by the mansion into the drive and caught, through a reflection in my mirror, a glimpse of the girl I'd seen last night standing in naked profile at a window rubbing her tits on the dark figure of an enormous cock.

SWINGERS OF TODAY

Now, today, the scene for female impersonators is vastly different. All crossdressers are known as "female impersonators" — today, a kind word for transvestite, crossdresser, "queer." Yet his fetish or whatever it is (science has yet to unravel a reason for it and put a tag on it) is definitely out of the closet. He is posing for pictures, championing his rights as a person in a society of divergencies, and gaining ground as a legitimate and respected minority group. This half of THE FEMALE IMPERSONATOR is devoted to our readers — a great bunch of guys who like to dress up as gals, who enjoy it thoroughly, and who have embraced a "club" of fellow members who all enjoy the same thing, but with all their little deviations.

We at Neptune are proud to present these photos of our group, our readers, our membership — for your particular enjoyment and cameradarie. We plan to present special issues of THE FEMALE IMPERSONATOR from time to time each year and we welcome your own personal contributions to our collection of amateur "female impersonators." We feel that each of you dresses up to look like some special femme personality on whom you have a "crush," and we'd love for you to tell us (and all our readers) about it. You'll find that we understand fully . . . we wish you and your kind the best — full acceptance by society in general and by legal authorities.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF DRAG

It is certainly true that the best laid plans of mice and men often do go astray and, since most crossdressers fall into one of these categories, a lot can happen in the pursuit of one's favorite pastime. No matter how carefully we try to carry out our most happy hobby, something always seems to go wrong. Usually, nothing serious happens, but sometimes these unexpected surprises can be funny. Herewith is a collection of strange things that have happened to crossdressers in their pursuit of happiness.

Most people think that being a transvestite is all fun and games. They think that we have nothing better to do than lounge around all day in Fredricks of Hollywood see-through negligees, eating chocolates and drinking champagne. No so. And I wish to set the record straight (no pun intended).

It's not easy being a TV. Did you ever go into a shoe store and buy a pair of women's shoes while dressed as a male? It's not so easy, especially if you happen to have big feet. I mean, how many salesgirls will believe that your wife just happens to have the same size feet as you do? Especially when you tell her that you would be glad to try them on for your wife-who-couldn't-make-it, and you just happen to be wearing pantyhose so that you could get the right fit. Uh, huh . . . .

It's a little bit easier if you wear a "normal" size woman's shoe, in which case you might be able to go into a self-service shoe store. Learn to move fast, go in on a slow day when there are no customers in the store, sneak over to the women's aisles, hurry through the shoes there in your size, make your selection, hurry to a quiet corner and try them on quickly before any other shopper walks by and sees you doing that ridiculous thing.

Then, of course, if they happen to fit, you still have to take them to the person at the check-out counter. Of course, you will also have bought a pair of men's shoes that you don't really need, just so you won't look weird. You just happened to see a pair of shoes that your wife-might-like, so you picked them out as well . . . right? . . . .

The same goes for buying almost any type of feminine clothing. If you happen to know your size, there are mail order catalogs, but most times, the things that look good on the models in the catalog look awful on you after you get them in the mail. If you are daring enough, you can walk into the department stores in your area and do your shopping thusly. The "I am buying something for my wife who just happens to be about my size" ploy works here, too. It's easier to buy makeup — just act like you really don't know what you want, or better yet, go to a discount drug store with a blank piece of paper and pick your stuff off the wall, while looking at the "list" with a perplexed expression on your face. Just doing the errands for the day . . . OK? . . .

Wigs are another fun item. Here you might have to switch your tactics a little bit. You can use the old "I am going to this masquerade party" routine or, if you feel particularly daring, the "I am a female impersonator" routine to get service in the wig shops where the quality merchandise is sold. Never trust mail order catalogs for wigs — they look like they were made from someone's pet schnauzer.

Of course, if you are proficient enough at female impersonation to be able to go out dressed, that's another story. And, although you might have solved the problem of shopping, you have created ten more to take that one's place. Let's face it. Suppose you are out strutting your stuff on the street, doing some shopping or whatever. Sooner or later you are going to have to make a stop in a public potty. About the only ladies' rooms that are completely private are located in fast-food hamburger joints or service stations.

Despite the proliferation of the former, you may not feel in the mood for twoallbeefpattiesspecial saucelettucecheesepicklesonasesameseedbun, and let's suppose you are not driving a car. What do you do then?

Well, most ladies' room are not private, and they have their own type of protocol. First of all, don't stand up to urinate. That's asking for trouble. Relax and sit down. But what do you do if the lady in the next stall shouts for you to pass her the toilet paper? She might wonder about your voice. Also, for good measure, after you are done tinkling, make sure to use some toilet paper even though you don't need it.

Most ladies' rooms in the better joints have lounges where the girls can sit and have a smoke, repair makeup, and escape from some creep who is bugging them. If you are courageous, it's a nice place to stop and have a smoke and check out all the pretty girls passing by. However, don't get too interested, because you might get hassled (or taken up) for being a dyke. Also, it's a good idea not to shave in a ladies' room, even if your beard is starting to come through.

Then there's always the embarrassing situation of being caught by someone you know while you're out in drag. That can be a humiliating experience. There was the state trooper, for instance, who also happened to be a TV. He was driving down a superhighway one night while dressed and he was stopped because his car had a tail light out. Well, when he was asked to produce his driver's license, he was immediately recognized by one of his fellow state troopers. He butched it up by saying that he was on his way home from a party, etc., and that got him off the hook — but he doesn't do much driving en femme any more . . . .

These are some of the more mundane things that can happen to you when you are out dressed or out trying to shop for the clothes you want. There are other funny things that can happen — things that your mother never told you about.

Suppose you are out at night, enjoying yourself, all the while wishing that you were at home dressed up in a skirt and blouse. Instead you are sitting at a bar, drinking away your misery. Your only consolation is the pair of lacy pink Vanity Fair panties, stockings and garterbelt you are wearing under your doubleknit leisure suit, You're horny and miserable and you've already had a few too many.

Just when you're feeling really low, you see a gorgeous creature come over and sit down right next to you at the bar. She orders a drink and starts to flirt with you — first with the eyes and then with a smile, and all of a sudden your passions are aroused despite the drinks. You order her another drink, you start up a conversation, and the next thing you feel is her thigh pressing against yours under the bar. Finally she invites you to her place. Before even thinking twice about it, you accept.

You're leaving with her and you suddenly remember that you are wearing lingerie. What do you do? Well, one person solved the problem by going into the men's room, into a stall, and stripping off his female undies, etc. He then flushed them down the john. To him, the cost of a new set of lingerie was secondary to the fun he was going to have that night. However, it turned out that his companion wouldn't put out, so he not only went home horny, he was out some of his best wardrobe as well. . . not to mention the expense and perplexity the bar owner had to go through unclogging the toilet.

Of course, you can always take the girl home and not get rid of your undies until the last minute, when you make an excuse to go to the bathroom and take them off and stash them in there. Of course, you may have to explain why you don't wear any underwear at all. Also, if you happen to leave without retriving them, she may wonder where they came from. Lastly, you could just leave them on and say what the hell, but then you had better be prepared for the worst. The best thing that could happen would be that she would really dig you and, thinking that you might be on the verge of turning gay, she might try to rescue you through some good loving.

What happens if you get caught wearing your feminine undies under your clothes by your he-men friends? That is probably even more embarrassing and potentially more dangerous than being discovered by a woman. There was the high school kid who wore panties to school under his male clothes, excepe on the days when he had gym class and had to disrobe in front of his classmates. Well, one day he got his schedule mixed up and showed up for gym class in his femme underwear. He tried to go to the nurse, but he was pronounced healthy, so she sent him back to class.

He tried to undress as quickly as possible, but he was caught by his friends, and within two days he had a reputation all over the school for being a fairy. It all ended well, though, since a lot of the girls would go out with him and try to "cure" him. Some of the football heroes took him out as well. He never lacked for a Saturday night date after that episode — and he even took to wearing eye makeup and girls' slacks to school after that.

Throwing a TV party is no cinch, either. It can be a lot of hard work. There are the usual problems of how much food and drink to have, who to invite, etc., but with some added problems. If you are a closet TV, for instance, how do you explain all those "funny looking women" going in and out of your house, or all the men coming in and all the women going out? It can be enough to make you the spotlight of attention in your neighborhood, a position you surely don't want.

Then there is always the problem of whom to invite. Will Sandy, the gay queen with the vicious mouth, make insulting remarks to Dinah, the straight queen who hasn't the slightest idea of how to put on makeup and dress. What about Billie and Dianne, who constantly fight over men together. The last time they were at a party, Dianne tried to leave with a guy Billie brought to the party. A catfight ensued and the guy went home with Marsha while the two queens were busy stitching up their torn dresses and bandaging their wounds. If you don't plan a party right, it can turn into a disaster.

One rule of thumb is never to invite a married couple who has not come to terms with the husband's TVism yet. You are only asking for trouble there. One wife couldn't cope with the fact that her husband looked prettier than she (as did most of the other TVs at the party) and so she spilled a drink on her husband's new dress. He knew that she had done it on purpose and he read her out in front of all the other people at the party. Needless to say, she stormed out of the room, never to be seen again. The husband now has to do all of his dressing outside of the house when alone.

Another common occurrence is the wife who gets into an argument with her husband at a party and makes a fool of him in front of the other TVs. That has led to a couple of known-down-drag-out fights. Then there is always the wife who feels jealous because her husband is paying too much attention to the sweet young thing just out of the closet, but looking foxy. That poor queen is liable to have her eyes scratched out and her husband will probably have all of his pantyhose ripped up.

Of course, if you happen to be throwing a TV orgy, try not to invite your "straight, heterosexual TV" friends if there are going to be gay TVs there. The gays will tend to be more uninhibited and interested in "getting it on" while the straight TVs will be more content to sit around and discuss the women's movement and its relationship to TVs. It does not make for an easy mix, unless both parties are willing to "cross the line."

There's a lot more that could be said about TV etiquette and all the silly things that can happen in our wild and special world, but if we went into detail, who would believe us anyway? The only sure way is to find out for yourself . . . .

Once one line is crossed, and that becomes the general attitude toward partying with the, shall we say, "unusual," you might as well go all out and invite a mix of sex styles — the more the hairier. Try to include a hetero straight, hetero TV, bi-straight, bi-TV, male lesbian, female lesbian, bi-female, and one puritannical female for the horrified audience bit. Guaranteed — the evening will never (we were going to say "drag") get dull!

Try to supply all the props you can scare up: a curvy lounge with several interesting angles, both right side up and upside down; also, remove the hind legs so that the curves get curvier. A large sofa is a must, with back cushions removed so that there is plenty of flat space. An inflated mattress is almost as good as a waterbed, and a lot safer in the house — no danger of springing a leak. Leave plenty of free floor space for the acrobatically inclined (do remove small, breakable objects from the room before the games start). Turn lights down low, you are not required to entertain the whole block, also, make sure that window blinds are tightly drawn. If you spread the word around about the type of party that's coming up, somebody might just bring some stocks, whip and high-heeled boots.

The sky's the limit. But, remember, there's no turning back! How're you gonna keep 'em down on the bed, after they've been whipped by Marie (the dominatrix)? Most people who are curiously interested in S&M eventually try it, and they almost always are hooked for life. Sex is never the same without it. . .

So, carry on. It's a great, big, wide, wonderful world for the social sex deviates. Give as well as take. That's about the only hard, fast rule that should be obeyed. The more you explore, the more kinks you will find. Everybody will have something else to contribute to the fun. Just when you think you've done it all, a new discovery is made and you're off to another rich adventure.

THE HELOISE HOUSE

I HAD A FEW GOOD MOMENTS BEFORE I JOINED THE HELOISE HOUSE. YES, I HAD JUST....

FOR A LONG TIME I HAD BEEN TOYING WITH THE IDEA OF ASKING MADAME HELOISE TO TAKE ME ON IN HER BROTHEL AS A NOVELTY ITEM. AFTER TAKING THAT LAST TERRIBLE BEATING, I BOLSTERED MY COURAGE AND APPROACHED THE OLD BITCH WITH THE IDEA.

I THOUGHT THE REGULAR GIRLS AT HELOUISE HOUSE WOULD GIVE ME A BAD TIME, INSTEAD THEY WERE SURRRISINGLY

I HAD JUST THAT--A FEW GOOD MOMENTS...

MOST OF MY LOVE AFFAIRS STARTED WITH A BANG IN BED AND END WITH A POP IN THE JAW.

MY PROBLEMS WEREN'T ALL SOLVED. SOME OF HELOISE'S REGULARS WERE REAL CRUDS

BUT AT LEAST I WAS BEING PAID... AS A MATTER OF FACT, I WAS MAKING A SMALL FORTUNE. IT'S AMAZING HOW THE IDEA CAUGHT ON."

THEN ANOTHER IDEA CREPT INTO MY HEAD,

IF I COULD EARN THAT MUCH MONEY AS A TRANSVESTITE, I COULD BECOME RICH IF I WERE A REAL WOMAN. I BEGAN SAVING MY MONEY WITH THAT GOAL IN VIEW.

A FEW OF HELOISE'S CLIENTS WERE BRUTAL, EVEN SADISTIC. BUT THE POINT IS, THEY ALL PAID, AND MOST OF THEM CAME BACK OFTEN.

AFTER ABOUT A YEAR, I HAD ENOUGH MONEY SAVED FOR MY TRANSEXUAL OPERATION.

THOUGH I KNEW I COULDN'T ENJOY SEX ONE TINY BIT MORE NO MATTER HOW I CHANGED PHYSICALLY.

AFTER THE OPERATION FOLLOWED BY THE PROPER RECOUPERATIVE TIME, I RETURNED TO THE HELOISE HOUSE A COMPLETE WOMAN, THE REAL THING...

YET, FOR THE FIRST TIME IN MY LIFE I FELT AS IF SOMETHING VITAL WAS MISSING -- SOMETHING OTHER THAN MY COCK AND BALLS, THAT IS.

THAT'S BEEN SIX MONTHS AGO. BUSINESS HAS BEEN ROTTEN FOR ME AND, TO ADD INSULT TO INJURY, LAST WEEK MADAME HELOISE PUT ON A NEW PERSON AND HE'S BEEN DOING BETTER THAN ALL THAN ALL OF US GIRLS PUT TOGETHER.

TO QUOTE MADAME HELOISE: "IT'S THE NOVELTY OF THE THING.
