What is PPOC?

Powder Puffs of California is a not-for-profit social and outreach organization, and support group serving the transgendered community. We have been in existence for over ten years, having been formed in 1987 by a small group of concerned crossdressers. Since that time our little club has blossomed to well over 200 members.

California Dreamin' 96?

California Dreamin' 96?

You mean California Dreamin' 98?

Actually, no.

In issue #17 of Transformation, a magazine published by Transformation/Spartacus Publishing Corp., Maylana Lacie wrote an article about our first convention in San Francisco with a pretty aerial picture of the Golden Gate Holiday Inn with the Bay in the background.

The nostalgic amongst us may wish to peer through magazine for a trip down memory lane. With Cal Dreamin' 98 just around the corner, you may want to think about what kind of memories of California Dreamin' 98 you might want to have two years from now — in the year 2000!

We received the following in our e-mail box. Powder Puffs is printing the e-mail as a service and assumes no responsibility for ad content, nor does it endorse any particular business concern or product.

Hi,

I am Sarah Douglas, an attorney in Brentwood with a practice in transgender law. I, myself, am transsexual and in the midst of my own transition. I am writing to get out the word that I am available for legal services to the transgender community and for speaking engagements to gender organizations, civic groups, support groups and employers. I offer legal and speaking services to the entire gender community.

I am the only lawyer in SoCal with a specific transgender practice. My clients consist of cross-dressers, transgenders, transsexuals, mtf's, ftm's, spouses and S.O.'s, gays, lesbians and bisexuals, and my practice covers all areas of the law affecting the gender community including family, criminal, employment, civil rights, personal injury/defamation, and workplace law. I am the Employment Law Moderator for the International Conference on Transgender Law and Employment Policy (I.C.T.L.E.P.) and a public speaker for the gender community, employers and civic groups.

My spouse and I have an interest in support for partners of transgendered persons, and can offer support and education to spouses and S.O.'s. In our own marriage we have been through cross-dressing and transsexual issues, as well as the challenges to the relationship that gender transition imposes. Our survival and success through the process has inspired us to offer support to others similarly situated.

Please pass this information on to your membership. Those with a need for understanding and expert legal support need to know that there is someone they can talk to. Additionally, if I can offer my services as a speaker on the legal issues relevant to the gender community, please let me know.

Thank you for your kind attention to this. There is a great need in our community and almost no one to fill it.

Yours,

Sarah Douglas [REDACTED]@aol.com)

Rutgers Includes Transgendered

After almost two years of difficult struggle over transgender and gender-variant inclusion in the Non-Discrimination Policy at Rutgers University, Executive Vice-President Joe Seneca released a memo which expanded discrimination protections at Rutgers University to include "people who have changed or are in the process of changing their sex." The change effectively expands the policy to cover transsexuality.

President's Page

by Dee Grady

I recently subscribed to Bottom Line Personal, semi-monthly periodical which gives its subscribers helpful hints on everything from personal health to tips on how to invest. I did not figure on it doing much to help with anything much more than that. But guess what? I found some articles which could help you when planning your trip to San Francisco for California Dreamin' 1998.

The first one is entitled Shrewder Shaving, by Neal Schultz, MD, a dermatologist in private practice in New York City.

- 1) If one uses razor blades, wait two minutes after applying shaving cream or gel to give the product more time to work into the beard.
- 2) To minimize irritation, shave no more than twice over any area. Shave with the grain first, then against the grain.
- 3) For sensitive skin, shave at the end of the shower while still in the shower and use a gel. Avoid shaving just before exercising. Perspiration irritates newly shaved skin.
- 4) Shave only once a day, if possible. If one shaves more than twice a day, then switch to an electric shaver to lower irritation. Some people get best results by alternating between an electric razor and wet shaving.

What about getting to San Francisco? Many of us will be flying. From Friendlier Flying, by Ed Perkins, editor of Consumer Reports Travel Letter, if you plan to fly coach, choose a plane with comfortable seats. Wide body planes like the 767 are more comfortable than the 747. For narrow body planes, choose the A-320 over the 737 or 757. Don't want any neighbors? Request a seat towards the back of the plane. . . Ask for a center section aisle seat on a 767 or 747. Usually middle seats often go unfilled.

From Travel Holiday magazine, once you get to the hotel, play it safe. Rooms safest from "uninvited guests" (and I'm not talking Christine bless-her-heart ) are near elevators and open interior hallways - not outdoors. Avoid rooms on the first two floors or at the end of long hallways. Never leave the PLEASE MAKE UP THIS ROOM sign outside the door. The housekeeping staff will make up the room anyway. The sign advertises you are out of the room. When going out, leave on a light and the TV or radio, and hand the DO NOT DISTURB sign on the door.

Ready to go out on the town? Michael Bauer of the San Francisco Chronicle gives his favorite places. Farallon 450 Post St, is a bit expensive, but is great for seafood. 42 Degrees 235 16th street in moderately price, has a grand dining room with floor to ceiling windows, and has live jazz music. Globe, 2090 Pacific Ave. is also expensive and is set in a turn-of-the-century livery stable. Jardiniere, 300 Grove St, has a spectacular dining room with brick walls. The chef/owner was named Rising Star Chef by the James Beard Foundation. PlumpJack Cafe, 3127 Fillmore St. is a stylish restaurant with Southern French and Northern Italian cuisines. Finally Zuni Cafe, 1658 Market St, is best for people watching. The dining room has an open, loft-like feel. The prices here are moderate.

Hope these ideas and hints help to make your Convention stay an enjoyable one.

See you at the next meeting.....and in San Francisco!

Dee

I don't know anything more than what is printed here. If you wish to participate you are on your own — Cyndi.

Dear Friends,

Assembly Member Sheila Kuehl has introduced a bill to prohibit hate crimes against transgendered people. The bill would also require local and state government in California to count and report on such crimes each year. Sheila thinks she can get people from San Francisco to testify in support of the bill, but needs people from other parts of the state to testify also. Would you be willing to do so? If so, please contact her staff person Jennifer Richard at (916) 445 4956 or by e-mail at:

██████████@Assembly.CA.Gov

The hearing on this bill will probably occur pretty soon, so please contact Jennifer as soon as possible.

A Need Being Meet

The following was received by PPOC via e-mail.

Dear PPOC:

I cannot express the joy I had at the last meeting; the only thing I regret is that I wished that it would have lasted a little bit longer! Any way, I am happy now that I know the experiences of others who share the same feelings as I do, it is comforting! Your organization is so vital to us. I commend you for your sense of decency and honest gathering. This I liked! It gives a good time to those of us who are interested in an honest way of gathering. I hope that I will be attending the next meeting next month!

P.S. Please, if you like to respond to me, my home address is [REDACTED]@earthlink.net

Yours truly,
 SOAN!

Just a Thought or Two to Share with Friends

By Betsi R.

We finally made that long trip down to Placentia to visit with our neat friends at the PPOC meeting last Saturday night. We really enjoyed seeing everyone again, as always each member reached out and made us feel most welcome to their group.

We each were expecting to eat something but were delighted to be supplied our own personal lasagna. The food had been a last minute choice because the Country Harvest locally had closed their doors. Leaving Dee and Diane in a state of, "What do we do now?" I got the feeling they were as pleased as we were with their choice. The lasagna was not home made but very enjoyable and plenty of it, along with salads, garlic bread and a selection of cakes for dessert. One disaster turned to gold. We all need those wonderful unplanned golden moments to happen in our lives.

I have found working with what I call "OUR COMMUNITY" to be a very rewarding experience and I do not mean the type of reward PPOC presented to me at California Dreamin' last year. Although I could never really explain what I felt when I was told I was to be presented a plaque for Outstanding Service, I will say it was very exciting and ego building but very humbling. Why humbling because I was very aware that no one truly achieves with out others. God has blessed me with a love in my heart for people and a deep desire to help those that are hurting in our world the "NORM" considers unacceptable conduct. He guides me in what I can do to help others and the ability to accomplish those tasks. Everything I have accomplished in my life has been because other people have cared about me and given me a helping hand. But the success comes when I follow God specific directions for me. Do not misunderstand when I say God guides me, I am not saying I am always right, I am human. I make mistakes if I forget and try my methods instead of His. I could say, "so do others". But I have found that true happiness is not found in others mistakes. If I keep Him first in my sight and follow His path and NOT MINE, my life is 100% better and smoother. God does love Transgender People and wants the very best for His family. Being one of those who have leaned on PPOC for support when I came into this community I personally know how much having support means. I appreciate all the work each group does for our community. I may be just a wife and have not suffered since child hood the pain most of you have experienced but I was deeply wounded because of the existence of cross-dressing. I am thankful that PPOC, Born Free and LKO have allowed me to experience a new way to look at life and to share my love for people and my God given abilities

One other little thing I want to share with each of you is how delighted I was with all the compliments on my ensemble Saturday night and I also know (because Chrissy told me) that she also appreciated all the compliments she received. So I wanted to share a thought or two I had when I read the article about Jim Bridges' catalog in PPOC's Feb. newsletter. I've know Jim only since the first Cal Dreamin' I attended with Arlene. Shelley, Brenna, Arlene and I had a wonderful experience not only learning about new make-up techniques. We also enjoyed several evenings in the bar with Jim and his friend telling jokes and sharing experiences. Jim went to great length to help Shelley and I to feel comfortable during a very uncomfortable time. I do not mean others were unfriendly but many were busy working on the event, others were learning to be the best they could be and many were either to scared or shy to be bothered with two scared first timer wives. The old timers (I am guilty of this now so I am not pointing a finger) were enjoying seeing old friends, being together and having fun. A couple of people whom appeared to be in charge or leaders in the group who must have been very unhappy with their lives and wanted others to be as unhappy as they were rude and hurtful. Jim in his fun loving way help me see beyond them to the other wonderful people in attendance. Jim is a nice guy, not a close friend since he lives to far away, but someone I consider to be a friend that is enjoyable to be around. He is just like all the rest of us he just wants to be accepted for who he is and he has reached out to many helping them to overcome terrible and unacceptable lives. True he is making money off of our community but so are a WHOLE LOT OF US from body forms, jewelry, hair removal, wig suppliers, etc. WHATEVER people can think of to help make a living. Making a profit is a necessity of life. I can not personally say how much Jim has made but neither can I say how much he has helped those in need. I see him at many convention and giving many seminars. Jim does not make his complete living off us Crossdressing connected people. He does have others customers who walk a different walk but still unacceptable to the so-called "NORMAL" world. I am appreciative of Jim's place because it is available to us couples to go and feel comfortable in learning together. Now, providing safe shopping for clothes and place to try them on. YES I know many of you go right into Nordstrom, Penney or, Macys and try the clothes on. But how many of you have your wives willing to go with you and chance running into someone from work, family, church or wherever. Not much chance at Jim's. We go to Jim's shop in groups and take over the shop trying on clothes and having a ball. Jim does not get upset if we just play and don't always buy.

Why do I feel an important tug at my heart to share this information: First, the dresses that so many complimented Chrissy and I on Saturday night were purchased from Jim Bridges. Also, I felt there were some comments in the article in your newsletter that pointed out that even though many of you have portrayed the part of a woman for a long time. There is a chance you still have missed some things in life that we GG's know to be factual and should be pointed out. If you are a petite or a large person you know you have to pay extra at the specialty shops designed for our special size bodies. The reason for clothing cost being higher at the petite store is not because it takes more material to make the clothes. So the cute remarks about, "what do you expect at the larger women's stores, it takes more material" doesn't hold water. The cost of their clothes at both types of stores is higher because they are special, made to specifications to fit a special need. One of the stores I have to shop is Petite Sophisticate their clothing is more expensive versus less quality compared to other regular sized clothes. I can shop both Macys' petite department and women's department and find the same exact style blouse, suit or dress made by the same manufacturer in both departments. You would expect they would be equal in price but you are wrong a petite 6 is usually $10.00 or more than sizes 6-18 in the regular sizes. Fair NO! But they are meeting a SPECIAL need. Same with Jim, if you try his clothes on you will find the sleeves much longer and the shoulders much wider — Meeting a special need — bigger shoulders and longer arms that men have a hard time getting covered. He also has designs made with long sleeves and high necklines to hide the areas that many do not dare shave. Meeting a need most women do not have. Last but not least if any of you have ever shopped a Penney catalog or Sears old catalog you pay $5.00 and receive a $5.00 discount off your first order. I was upset when they started charging for their catalog but they have been able to upgrade the quality of their clothing by cutting their losses giving away thousands of unused catalogs. If you buy Jim's catalog you get a certificate for $10.00 off your first order. Jim mailed some freebies to people he thought were friends. Of course he did not include a $10.00 off certificate with the freebies. ALL businesses try to cut their cost, this is not taking advantage of people, and it is just good business. Since we received so many compliments Saturday night about our clothes I feel all of you were not lying about how nice the clothes looked. So there must be good quality clothes, clothes that you will feel are in good taste and available to wear to work, to church or play in Jim's new line. There are also clothes for those who want that special look that many wives would prefer our husbands stay away from. Like the too short -- too low -- too tight -- little black nothing Arlene wore Saturday night. But, that was a Macys' Get Got dress. I truly feel it is not were you buy the clothes, are how much you pay, its what you do with them and the way you fit it, plus what accessories you use with the clothes. The clothes could be from Nordstrom, Wal-Mart or Jim Bridges. Each business is meeting a need. I prefer to just leave your choice of stores to each of you.

Thank you for allowing me to share my view with you. It is my opinion and each of us have the right to our own opinion but after being hurt so many times and being chased away from one of the most important things in my life by someone's opinion in this community. I have a hard time understanding why when there are so many more people falling into that "NORMAL WORLD" against us, we can't just encourage one another instead of discourage in order to work together to build a stronger better world for our community. You know those famous words "Why can't we just get along?" I personally live for that day

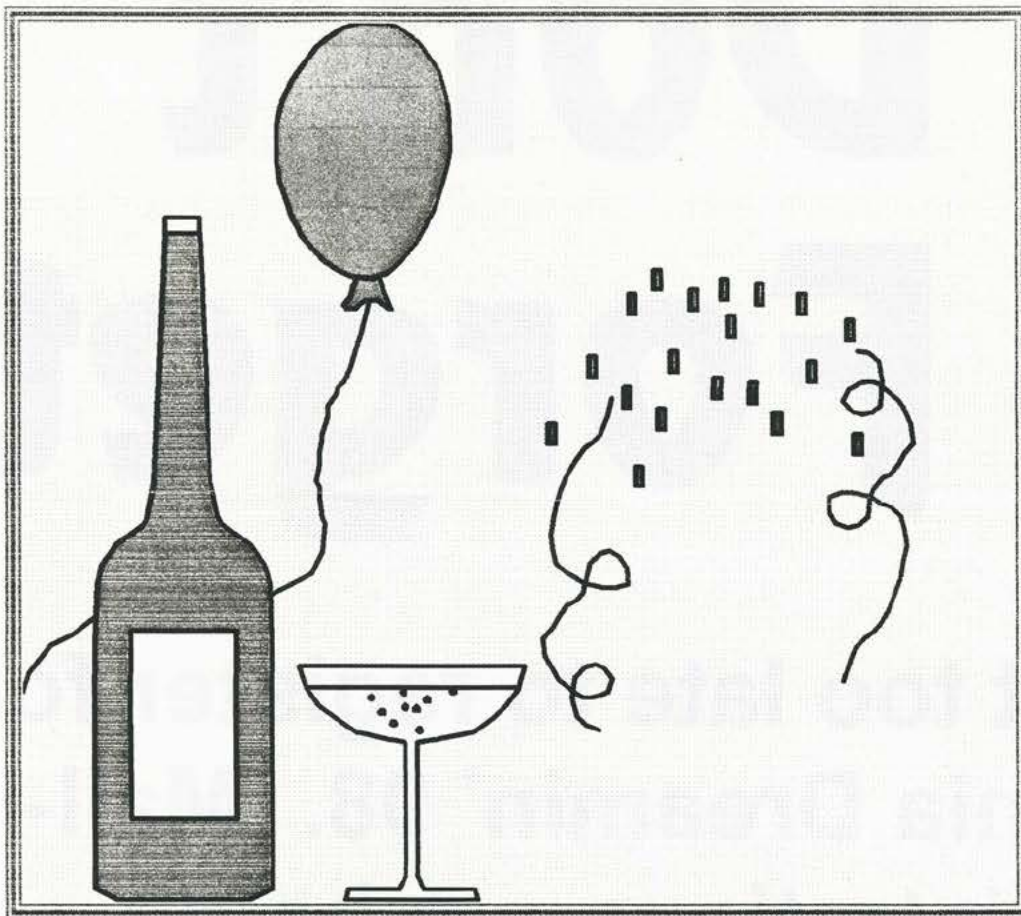

Editor's Note: Clearly having a friendly shop where both the crossdresser & wife/SO can safely shop together is a valuable resource. This is a viewpoint that I hadn't thought of and haven't heard expressed. Thank you Besti for sharing your insight and thoughts with us. And thank you also to all the wives/SO at last March's meeting that choose to share their experiences with their partner's coming out. Their is still a lot for us to learn — Cyndi.

The ladies and gentlemen of ETVC, RGA, DVG, and FtM International are delighted to have you as their guests. Check in early and enjoy the sights, sounds, and tastes of San Francisco. Most of the great city attractions are within a five or ten minute taxi ride, plus the California Street Cable Car starts its journey to Nob Hill and other destinations only a few feet from the hotel.

Our Bay Area hosts have pulled out all the stops to make sure that you get the fullest enjoyment and fulfillment for your convention dollar.

Experience workshops on improving your femininity or personal fulfillment. There are seminars for spouses and partners plus workshops for couples issues. All programs are staffed by caring and knowledgeable members of our community along with working professionals sensitive to the needs of the gender community.
