PERSONAL COMMENTS: I have been in the Transgendered community for only a couple of years. Just recently, in the last six months, I have become a regular QM groupy. I enjoy the new friends I have made at the club and am always interested in meeting people in our community. I hope as I grow to be a lady, I am able to show a very positive side of the TG community and of our lifestyle.

Katie

I hear from many readers that you enjoy this publication and someday plan to attend a Saturday night party at the club. I want you to get out the magic marker and circle June 11th. You are all invited to the big event of the year as we will be throwing a big bash to celebrate the six year anniversary of "On The Scene Nite" events. Yes, I am very proud of what my partner (Melisa Moore) and I have accomplished.

We started out with a throw together flyer and a few bags of cookies and popcorn. Our event is now known around the world and many ladies and friends of crossdressers have traveled to the building on the corner of Ventura Blvd and Whitestt in Studio City. It was while Melisa and I were doing our events that the Queen Mary Show Lounge was crowned with the title, "The Mecca of Crossdressing." The success of this event did not happen with out the contributions of many in our community. Robert at the club, has been there for us and he has allowed Melisa and I to do many wonderful things. The Staff at the club has always supported the parties and the bartenders deserve a special mention.

The "ladies" in the show have come to accept and enjoy our parties. I recall that for the first year or so the "show girls" would watch me and try to figure out my intentions. When they realized that my PR work and photo taking was positive, they started to warm up to me. Many nights they found a plate of goodies from the buffet in the dressing room, and my how things have changed. I am a very lucky person to find another "family." Yes, we are like family at the Queen Mary Show Lounge and this night will be a party and celebration for all. I am gonna dig up plenty of gifts and door prizes. Now all we need is for you to make plans and show up.

I was thinking the other day that six years is longer than we allow our Presidents to stay in office. Six years, and it seems like yesterday in so many ways. We have all come such a long way and who knows what the future brings. I do know that

o n t h e Scene

with Marlayna Lacie

Melisa and I have worked hard to do something for our community. This was the focus from the start and I am happy that we never wavered. If you should you attend one party this year, do attend this one. It will be a very special night and it will be a thrill to have you attend.

Tonight I took my good friend Reb Stout, a.k.a. Miss Rebecca Heels, to dinner to celebrate our birthdays. We were both born under the sign of Scorpio and over the years we have become friends. It is in many ways a S & M relationship as I am a fledgling writer and busy person in the scene with six years in the business. Rebecca has been on the scene for 17 years and is a cult figure if there ever was one. I say this because in Southern California the B & D scene and the gender community cross over. Reb has many of his "Rebecca H. Heels" videos and publications that are considered hot items in Europe. Collectors of

B & D and S & M fetish art will likely be most familiar with Mr. Stout. He is known and respected around the world and I do prize his friendship. Reb has the Scorpions way of driving a point home and since I am somewhat under his wing from time to time he refers to me as the "little sparrow." He can verbally pull the feathers of my wings with effortless grace. His tongue can be the stinger which the deadly desert insect carries to protect itself and hurt others who approach with bad intentions. Reb also is the eagle. In astrology, the ultimate in growth and maturity has the Scorpio attaining the status of the eagle.

Once one has gained experience and wisdom it is no longer necessary to sting and hurt and kill as the Scorpio knows he can. The eagle phase is about only using the stinger in order to get the attention of the victim. The verbal sting will do more with a sharp point, more than poison ever could.

Reb gives me good advice along with a dose of soup from his scorpion emblazoned advice bowl. I have learned a lot from Reb and I want to mention that he was the one that made up the flyer for the last Fetish ensemble contest and fashion show. Tonight after dinner we went to his house and I showed him a rough write-up on the flyer for my new event. It is halfway put together but the art work is fantastic and Reb is doing one hell of a job on it. The copy, well the copy is what excites me and I hope it does the same for you.

It's a few months down the road but I am asking you to hit the calendar and go to August and circle the first Saturday of the month which is the 5th.

This night, yours truly presents my first event titled, WigFest West 95'. I am flying solo on this event as Melisa and I have both agreed long ago that if one of us came up with our own original idea, that our partnership should not hinder either one of us in going for it. It was suggested that the first Saturday of the month would be a good night and Robert at the Queen Mary Show Lounge liked the idea right from the start. Yes, we will have a fashion show, as I have developed a passion for these wild and entertaining displays of style. The charming Nina Charese is going to be directing and coordinating the "Hair Raising" fashion show. She did a great job when she did the fetish fashion show in February. We all know that she and all the ladies that make up my "M-Troop Girls" will put on a super show. The best news is that this event will start at 11:00 p.m. and will feature a dance party after the fashion show contest, and skit. I talked to Tasha about getting together a few of the ladies to present a little skit to add to the festivities. There will be plenty of gifts and door prizes this evening and I am putting together a number of great prizes for the contest.

I now need a favor from you readers as there are rumors that a movie called "Wig Stock" is in production. Should you hear about the film and who is doing it, please write to fill me in. Yes, my event is a take-off on the infamous event in New York and I won't deny it. On the other hand, I have not seen Miss Bunny at LAX looking for a taxi. I wore a shirt that I got for promoting the movie "Split, Portrait of a Drag Queen." On the back of the shirt this line is printed "Somebody's gotta do it." It was suggested that I do this in a place like Griffith Park or an open venue. I thought about it for fifteen seconds and that thought hit the mental circular file. I did my first party way back when, (with Frank Marsh) to celebrate the success of this publication. We started at the Queen Mary Show Lounge and Frank saw his last party at that club and so did I. I love deep and dearly the building on the corner of Ventura and Whitesett. My home away from home and much more. So many of you I have met there. It has given me the opportunity to chat with you and also get to know you. I know that a lot of you will say, "Yes, your right Ms. M., I went and on that party night... you were there taking your photos and putting out the cheese." I have given a lot of free Epic's and much more that many of you have not seen. I made a promise and a vow years ago and

I find that it gets stronger every day.

It has been over six year since Frank Marsh left us. Me and many people will never forget him. I still recall how I was in shock when Ron Johnson called me. He became the new owner of Epic magazine and asked me to continue in his publication. We came to a verbal agreement that has been very rewarding for all concerned. After that conversation with Ron, I went down to the beach and cried my eyes dry. I then made a vow to the memory and spirit of my deceased friend to keep the vision alive. My first annual

"Wig Fest 95' event will be dedicated to the memory of the late Frank Marsh (RIP).

The local community is fortunate to have many people who donate their energy and time to worthy causes. Throughout the United States, a huge number of cities have groups affiliated with the Royal Court Richard O'Rell is well known and respected for his efforts and is a quite successful at raising money and acquiring contributions for the pioneer "AIDS" Hospice. Queen Mary Show Lounge bartender, Richard O' Rell, was been named Man of the Year a few months back. This month he flies to New York to attend a three day event put on by the Royal Court of New York. Richard who carries the title,

"Prince of Melody" will be presented in a grand ceremony and over 5,000 people will be attending this affair. Congratulations to Richard, and when you visit the Back Bar you might want to thank him for his honorable efforts.

While I am on a thank you theme, I should say that when six years arrive, it will be time for me to give a special someone a big hug. The first night I started to set up a buffet for the numero uno,

"On the Scene Nite" party, (Christine Hotchberg was by my side). I refuse to have a silent partner as they say, but since her name is not on the two banners she should get credit for her contributions. There are plenty of people on a stage when a show is done. A few get top billing and the rest are listed as the supporting cast. The OTSN Oscar goes to Christine as there is only one in existence. She has been there for me and so many others that I feel really good about saying some nice things about her. It is nice that she is getting national respect and recognition for her contributions within our community.

This month I am pleased to present a new girl on the scene and she is turning heads with her razzle dazzle smiles. Katie was featured in the fashion show that I had with Nina Charese coordinate for me. When Nina called to tell me that she had a friend who was hot and interested in being one of the models, I told Nina to use her if she felt good about it. What a great choice, so Katie and I hit it off really well. We have become good friends.

At the club last night I brought extra film and a sexy green dress for Katie to wear for some photos. She was also noticed by the staff of a Japanese quiz show who I invited to the club. Hiro, who works for a popular television program called me at Spartacus and asked me if I could locate a lady for a game show that they produce. When I introduced them to Katie they were all very pleased and arrangements were made for her to attend a casting call in Beverly Hills.

Katie had recently been appearing at a number of local clubs doing lip-synch numbers to very appreciative audiences. It is nice to see a pretty lady with a charming personality on the scene.

To me, Katie is part of a new generation of men who are crossdressing and that are doing it naturally and early in life. I see that the freedom of the 60's and 70's has had an impact on the men and women who were growing up then. Katie is young and has not been exposed to a lot of the negativity that can come within this lifestyle. Her fresh-open and fun-loving attitude, says a lot for our community and where we are going. Maybe someday Katie will want to attend an IFGE convention or do a seminar at PPOC. I said maybe because that is a might-be someday and tonight Katie is most likely out at a club dancing or performing on stage. She might even be chatting it up with some show business people. If there ever was a lady that could be perfect for the cover of this publication it has to be Katie. She exemplifies all that is positive and sweetly-charming about femininity. This is what makes her so special.

Tonight's eyewitness news had a video clip from Las Vegas that had me feeling very sad. Two crossdressers who had been robbing upscale boutiques were captured.

A shop owner who had been victimized before, hit a silent alarm and the police arrived. A local T.V. channel had a camera crew on the scene and the event was filmed. We saw the police capturing the "ladies" and before the door of the police car closed on the "en-femme" bandits, they were asked a question. The lady replied that they were innocent but the video told us that they appeared to be guilty.

This sort of news gets spread across the country and it dismays me that negative images PR seems to be what sells. Yes, our community gets an occasional mention for doing a gender education conference or a "California Dreamin'" event. But for the most part we have a major percentage of news and stories that are negative. When men dress as women and do it to hide their identities they do so much harm to our communities image. These men will find that because they disguised themselves while committing a crime that the charges against them will carry much more severe penalties. I was told that if you rob a store you may get three to five years in prison. Should you have criminal impersonation on the page you will then be looking at eight to ten years of wearing a ball and chain. Society has a somewhat uncomfortable and unfortunately negative view of our lifestyle and our community. When they see men dressed as women committing crimes, it adds to their preconceptions and we suffer in the end.

I'm looking forward to seeing all you fetish fanatics at the "Dressed to Thrill" event. I talked to Jim Thompson at Versatile today and I will be wearing a staff badge at the Saturday night

"Dressed to Thrill Ball." I will be working the door and also spending some time at one of the photo booths that Jim is setting up. Look for the flyer in this publication and get those tickets as they are going fast. Last year's event was a SRO sell out and all agree it was one hell of a bash. This year it will be bigger and better so get busy and make your plans now.

Next month I will fill you in on the new adventures of Miss RuPaul, as she puts new meaning into the line "You better work bitch." She will be on the road soon and you will never guess what this lady is up to. Tomorrow night I will head down to Orange County to attend one of those, how can I get invited parties. It is a very private S & M party for just the girls and one very special fellow. Katie and Nina will be there along with a cute lady who is going to do some fetish modeling for me. It should be fun and I will write a little about this adventure next month.

Love Ya Baby,
Marlayna

Dealing with Coming Out

by Marlayna Lacie

It has been a great joy doing this series because it is very much like a personal diary of my life and experiences as I live my life and accept and enjoy the duality in my personality. I really did not understand that I was coming out when I placed an ad in a contact publication looking for a woman who enjoyed the company of men who crossdress. When I first heard the term "coming out", I did not relate to it at all because the term was coined by the gay community. I did not see that many gay crossdressers at the parties I went to, or when I first went to the Queen Mary Show Lounge. I soon learned that this term was part of the transgendered vocabulary and I soon accepted the fact that I was yes, "coming out."

I always felt that one could also say with conviction that we could change the term to coming in or coming out and look within. I feel that this experience of accepting your femininity and then giving yourself permission to explore and enjoy it makes one look deep into oneself.

This personal introspection can bring incredible mood swings and periods of acceptance and denial for some. I found that when I had trouble with situations or feelings, I tried to get through it by telling myself that these things were a part of the territory that came with my decision to come out. Well, it is the times that you have to think about yourself and what you need and want out of life and this experience. This involves so much more than enjoying the new blush from Chanel or a new birthday dress. To me, it is going out and enjoying life, and when it comes to sitting down and making decisions on your life and how you deal with your femininity. That is introspection time and a place where you look inward for the answers.

Tonight I will walk out the door and call a taxi to take me to The Executive Suite. I will not sneak out the back door to the alley and I will not knock on any of my neighbor's doors to give them a Saturday night "fashion show." It has taken many years to reach this point but I had to make many important decisions to get there. I made that personal emancipation proclamation that I would not hide and live in any guilt. I learned long ago that it is not what your neighbors and friends think that really count's. What the bottom line to me is, the time when you look in the mirror and tell yourself that you are happy with the decisions and what you are doing.

Can I pass?, is a question that so many of us say to ourselves and I feel that it is a valid one. I also feel that too many men feel this is the bottom line to it all and that is sad. I found that is important to make goals and one of my first one's once I decided to "go for it", was to find myself the most positive feminine image I could. I realized right away that I could never go out in public and walk through the world and not be recognized as a man wearing a dress. I did find that the better I got at doing my make-up and finding clothes that were right for me that I was being clocked less and less. Yes, I am read all the time and I do not let it bother me at all. I am comfortable in the Queen Mary Show Lounge, and I feel the same way at the Playboy Mansion, or the exclusive Wellington's Restaurant (at the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas).

I used to be terrified of the idea of going into a Casino for a late night snack. Years later, I find myself enjoying three days and nights en-femme in Las Vegas. I took cabs, buses, shuttles, and traveled from one end of town to the other in drag, and I loved it. Everyone was nice and I will tell you that I never heard a nasty remark. In all honesty, I never had anyone give me what we call a dirty look. Many people looked and stared for a minute and then they went back to looking for the taxi or the menu. I will say once again that I feel that the fact I show people that I am right there and not going away impresses them. It says to them that I as a man, can and will dress as a woman, if I so choose to. I am not going to let society's feelings and the moral majorities agenda control me. I am not soap boxing here but I find that the new "family value" agenda that is popular in our country does not include me. To them, I am most likely a person who they would not invite to give Newt Gingrich a one on one gender education seminar.

The new agenda and the battle of the word is being fought in the foxholes of our public schools. A board of education can decide what books are read and what children are taught. We as a community have a place on the pages of many books as words such as, transgendered, transsexual, transvestite, gay, bi sexual, and lesbian, are all under attack. I can not help but take this personally. It has made me more aware that my decision to be a public person and not hide in the closet is that of a positive one "Somebody's Gotta Do It" as the PR slogan from the movie, "Split, Chrysis International, Portrait of a Drag Queen", says. I feel the same way about going out and showing society that I am going to do it.

I was amazed and enjoyed immensely because of the fact that for many people that attended the Consumer Electronics Show (CES) that I was most definitely the first live, living, breathing, in the dress transvestite they had ever laid eyes on. Their eyeballs almost came out of their sockets. Yes, gender education works its wonders and miracles in many lovely ways. I am finding this to be so true as I constantly find myself dealing with coming out.

I called the folks at Universal Studios the other day because I wanted to find out the release date for "To Wong Foo, Thanks for Everything Julie Nemat." I was told that the film now has no set date and is scheduled for possible release this fall. I was told that there were problems in the post production phase and to call back in a few months. Too bad as I was looking forward to seeing this movie but alas, all is not bad news.

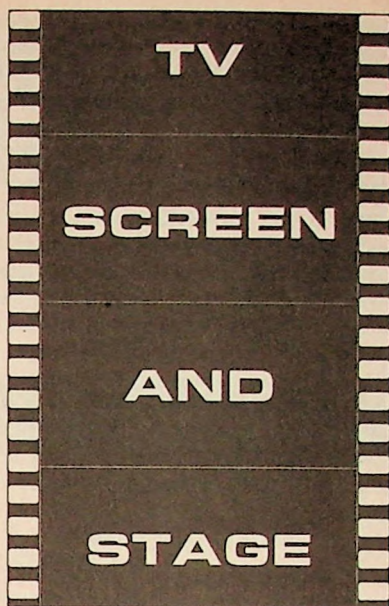

I called a few friends who put me in touch with a certain Miss Someone over at the movie studio (owned by Samuel Goldwyn). When I got off the phone, I was told to watch my mail for a very special package. I should be receiving the Media Kit for the movie that everyone soon will be talking about.

WigStock is a documentary film featuring crossdressing disco diva RuPaul along with the super group Dee-Lite. Central Park in New York was mayhem last year as over 20,000 people attended the yearly Wigstock faux hair competition. Big crowds and corporate sponsors made this a major media event and the docu cams were rolling. I am looking forward to seeing the film and I may attend the "Grand Premiere" in Los Angeles.

I also mentioned to the folks at Samuel Goldwyn Studios that I was planning a "hair raising" event, myself. The publicity department may be contacting me about doing some PR for the movie. I will keep you informed on this and the "Too Wong Foo" flick.

Last month I mentioned how I was disturbed to the new wave in talk show terrorism. Gambits such as the "Gender-Bender Dating Game" and having a secret anonymous admirer introduced to you on national television are negative and unfortunately deadly. In early March, a man who appeared on a talk show was arrested for murder. It seems that he was asked to appear on a talk show. The idea was that he would be introduced to a secret admirer. With the camera rolling, the man was introduced to the "person who had a crush on him." That person was a GAY man and two days after he came out on that stage he was dead! The producers of the show tells us all that they are in NO WAY responsible for the tragedy. Yet, they never did any in depth interviews with these men to see if they were creating an explosive situation.

The Gay Community and the Transgendered Community are fast becoming fodder and casualties for the "Boob Tube." I wonder why it is that so many people are so quick to accept the free flight to New York or Chicago so fast as to put one's personal life and most often one's very private life trauma up for the viewing nation to see. These shows have a reputation for crucifying their "guests." Yes, they never run out of people to fill up the chairs. I am waiting for the major television networks to jump on the gender-bender wagon train. I feel that they will not be able to resist the possible ratings that a "drag movie" will bring. Maybe we will see a movie called Miss Hopewater which will feature a man dressed as a woman and a woman dressed as a man. I do know that if a movie, sitcom, or talk show, gets good ratings it translates into advertising dollars.

With these dollars signs, as the Almighty God, they worship the media then becomes evil and in some cases lethal. I love show business and I will tell you that to me, "There is no business like show business." People who run the studios and pick the format for talk shows have shown themselves many times to be totally irresponsible in their zeal to sell a ticket.

Someday you may be contacted to be a guest on a talk show or a program about the Transgendered Community. Before you commit yourself to being presented on the television stage and silver screen, think about what you may be getting yourself into and be sure to ask about the show's format.

You don't want to be finding yourself the laughing stock of the nation and set up as the fool.

Pushing Karoke Drag to its limits is the one and only "Lypsinka" She has made herself a legend by coming up with such outrageous, thought provoking, and imaginative themes for her shows.

John Eperson's on-stage personae, has gone to Hollywood as the lady has appeared in a number of MTV videos. She has also been featured on a number of advertisements and the publications are top quality and for mainstream America. I could not attend her recent sell out series at Hiway's in Santa Monica, but I did read half a dozen reviews on her shows in Northern California and in San Diego. Her new show features characters from movies that focused on women who were nervous and stressed out. I heard someone say something about a lady who was having a tenuous grasp on sanity and reality, "Now that looks like a woman on the verge of a nervous breakdown."

Epperson like many other high profile drag celebrities has a thing about Hollywood. In her show, the famous strings from Psycho announce and set up the translations. My friends that went and told me that the madness of these women and the intensity of the performance, left them wanting more. It is hard to write in detail about a show I did not see. Yet, I did want to tell you about the hit show, "Lypsinka!" As I say Lip-Sinking. Mr. Epperson has done a superb job in finding themes that are fun, inspirational, and moody. It is nice to see that Lypsinka's success has not put sunglasses on his extraordinary vision.

When I wrote my review about director Tim Burton's visionary of the late B-movie director, Ed Wood, I mentioned that the actor who stole the show was the veteran performer who is Martin Landau. He attended the prestigious Golden Globe Awards and walked away with "Best Supporting Actor" for his unforgettable role as the late actor Bella Lugosi. Martin did a lot for his career and many who have never heard of the talented Bella are seeking out his movies.

He is a B-movie director who dresses in skirts, high heels, and pink sweaters, and is acts as aging movie star trying to pay for his dope addiction while finding work on the stage. What hit me the hardest was finding out that the bottom line in Ed's life was his writing. He wrote lots of stories and scripts that were mostly about running around in drag. All his movies had a scene where he his crossdressing in a pink sweater fetish was presented. Bella was forgotten by his agent and the studios but had a true actors heart and soul. He went through hell with some of the things that Ed asked him to do in his movies. The movie is filmed in black and white and is now available on video.

To me the shame of it all is that the major Hollywood movie studios black balled Ed for being a crossdresser. They ignored Bella Lugosi

with Kelley Wise

Some of you reading this column may actually be, or are thinking about allowing yourself to become a transsexual. Many of you are already are a TS have probably always considered yourself transsexual. I know I never could completely accept myself as a normal man. In a way, I always thought I was different from men in so much as I related more to feminine attitudes or feelings. I seemed to be much too emotional to be a normal man. After all real men don't cry at least not over the same things women do. In most American homes, boys are not allowed to show such signs of weakness. God forbid if any young male should show signs of feminine behavior! It seems most adult TS's have spent the first part of their lives suppressing their feminine tendencies and doing their best to be one of the boys. A few gender dysphoric individuals maintain enough courage and conviction in their early years to firmly assert who they are. I have a dear friend whom I respect very much that managed to continue buying girls' clothes for himself no matter how many times his parents gave in, and sent him to a psychiatrist that diagnosed him as a transsexual and recommend that he immediately undergo hormone therapy. The parents had no choice but to accept the fact that their son was meant to be a girl, and would be much happier as one. This person was fifteen years old and very willowy. He developed into adulthood with a very womanly body and are virtually indistinguishable from a genetic female. This person now is a beautiful young woman, but even for her growing up as a TS was not easy.

Consider how much more difficult it is to undergo a second puberty for an adult M-F TS. The effects of estrogen and progesterone on a young adult male can be highly noticeable, the same with an older adult, just not as profound. It is my opinion that the beginning of male to female transitioning should be spent in a semi androgynous stage. In other words, wearing the clothes of a man but physically changing. Letting your hair grow long is also very helpful. I think it is better to let people around you start to see you in a non masculine way. Like the way a woman looks when they put on their husband or boyfriends clothes. The less your friends and family see you as a masculine being, the more acceptable to them it will be when you finally stop wearing men's clothes. This is only my opinion, and a lot of experts will disagree, but I feel this method will make transitioning smoother for all parties concerned. You have to keep in mind whether or not your job is only suitable for a man in the opinions of your employers. If you are highly valued to your company, and your change will not disrupt the image or operations of the business, you may be able to continue your transition on the job. Be prepared for a possible demotion or even termination. Women's Lib or not, men are still primarily calling the shots and women to this day, are not paid as much as men, even for the same job. Don't start cross living until you are sure you can function and prosper as a woman. Too many TS's have lost everything because they insisted on imposing their new self on others before the world was ready to accept them as a female. You can't say, "It's their problem if they can't accept me!" It is your problem if the world will not accept you as a woman. You have to live in the life you have made for yourself. If you have problems as a man, becoming a woman will not magically make those problems go away. Many times SRS will only make your problems worse. Get your life in order before you make the change. You may be saving money for your surgery, but what about survival expenses if you have a financial set back because of your cross living, or SRS? No matter what you do, be prepared, and consider how much better you will be cross living, if you have spent some time and money first on feminizing any masculine features you might have. Take the time to allow your body and face to soften up. You want to look more like a woman than a man when you are dressing like a woman. Give the hormones time to work. When you get to the point that people call you ma'am even when you are dressed like a man, you are ready. Until then be patient, take it from me, you will be glad you did.

Take Care!

GENDER expression

In mid March, I was informed by my daughters that they planned to be at their moms for Spring Break, so I thought I going to have another quiet vacation at home alone, but in the first week of April I got a call from a friend in New York City. She knew I had spent a quiet time alone the year before and invited me to come to New York to spend Spring with her and her friends. She told me that she was going to be in a beauty pageant on the 23rd of April and would love to have me there to help. I told her I'd see what I could do. I had a ticket to New York that I was unable to use before because I had been sick. So I called my travel agent to see what I could do. Well it worked out really well, she told me to take my ticket to an American ticket office and they would issue me a new ticket, so I did. I had to pay $35.00, but I got a round trip ticket and a $200.00 voucher for a future ticket so that worked out really well.

I flew out the morning of the 20th and arrived at J.F.K. early that evening. I picked up my bags and caught a cab to Manhattan where she was staying with Mark, a friend she had met in Hawaii last April. After about 45 minute cab ride, we arrived at 8th Avenue and 29 Street. I carried all my bags up stairs and relaxed for a couple minutes. It was really good to see Fawne. I hadn't seen her since August, when she and her sister had a layover at LAX going home from Hawaii.

Fawne has always helped girls who were in beauty pageants by making there costumes and gowns. When she was asked if she would like to enter the contest she decided that she would. All her friends came through and helped her out. After resting up a bit, we went out to get something to eat and stopped by Sally's on the way home.

Thursday morning, we got up early to go shopping for things that were needed for the pageant. Then that evening we had to go to La Escuelita for rehearsal for the pageant and for the drawing of the numbers. After they were finished, we went to get something to eat and went to Edalvice to a benefit. Friday was a busy day. We went and picked up all the last minute things and worked on the costumes, gown, and headgear.

Fawne was very fortunate to have very talented friends. Her designer who had made the gown and costumes for the presentation was a well-known artist. He was known for costumes for Broadway shows such as, "Cats", "The Phantom of the Opera", and others. He worked every night for two weeks and showed up with a gorgeous gown and altered the dress for her talent. Mark, who she was living with, is a window designer for places such as Tiffenies and many large department stores. He made her headgear for her presentation and Kim, a Chicago Make up Artist (who has done make-up for many of the Miss Continental Pageant winners) flew in to do make up and hair for the pageant.

Friday evening, everyone came by the apartment to help put the finishing touches on everything. The pageant was scheduled to start at 12:30 a.m. on April 24th, so we left to go to the pageant about 11:00 p.m. Fawne was representing Polynesia and her costume was Polynesian.

We knew going in, that there was a good chance that she wouldn't win because this was her first time and there were favorites, but we were going to give it our best shot. When we arrived and got set up, Jillion (a designer from Germany who was in New York for the holiday) came to help out and be Fawne's Dresser. I was back stage a couple times and it was like a production where everybody was doing their own thing. The funny thing was that every time they finished, Fawne along with everybody else, ran back and was making changes. We had a lot of fun, and just like we thought one of the local contestants was the winner. The main thing was that we all worked together and had a good time.

The next evening, we all get together and went out to dinner and celebrated being together. We also stopped by some of the clubs to say greet some of our friends. We slept in late that morning and got up and took a four hour car tour of the city. We hit all the fashion boutiques and of course went to Rockefeller Center to take a picture of the beautiful landscape along with the architecture. Across the Brooklyn bridge we took pictures of the skyline from the Promenade. By the time we got there it was dark but the New York Skyline was really beautiful; unfortunately the pictures didn't come out well.

We decided to see China Town and have Chinese for dinner. After dinner we, stopped by the clubs for a few drinks. On Monday, Fawne took us to a local play that had just come out that she had helped make the costumes for. It had been a long weekend so we went back to the apartment and crashed.

Tuesday morning, she took us to a local fashion museum, before I had to catch my car service to the Airport.

I really had a great time but it took me several days to get back to normal after going all night long and sleeping for a few hours during the day and going again. The weather was great, not too cold and no snow, just a little rain. That's the way I like it. If there is one thing I learned this Spring, it is this community is loaded with good people and if you are a person who works hard and helps others, when you need help they will be there for you.

New York City is a beautiful place to go and there is lots to see and do. If you are interested in going there you might think about attending the Moonlight in Manhattan Convention next April. It would be a lot of fun and you'll get a chance to see New York City at its best. This is a really great way to get out and express yourself and really feel good. I went out every day and night and didn't have a problem. It really felt good to be all dressed up and go out to the clubs. There were lines at the door and we walked to the head of the line and walked right in.

There are so many places around the world that I have been to in the past few years. It has been really nice to be able to really get out and express my feminine side and enjoy myself. I am getting ready to travel to the far East and visit in Thailand and Singapore. I haven't been there in a number of years, so it should be interesting, especially since I have some friends in Singapore who know about Melissa and want to take her out and show her the sights. I'll let you know how that will go in one of my future articles. Just remember that getting out and doing things as your feminine self is going to help you open up and experience what the Transgendered Lifestyle is like, and the fun you can have doing it.

If you have any questions feel free to drop me a note and I'll get back to You.

passion for fashion

Summer is here and with it comes a whole new line from the designers for you to buy. I have not looked at the sizzling summer showboat going down designer river to the estates and mansions. I am more a fan of Fall and Winter lines.

I sometimes get a little fed up with television programs on the rich and famous designers. When one sees the extravagant homes and over indulgent lifestyles that many of these personalities wallow in, it can make one think of the cost of the last dress you bought. I do love fashion for the fun, creativity, and the pure excitement that comes from either watching a well done fashion show from Paris or New York, or wearing a new dress for the first time.

All parts of the fashion experience are so much a part of our lives and our civilization. Just think about what you are wearing right now or better yet, that hot outfit you have hung up waiting for the next Saturday night party. They all are a fashion statement and a part of you. As in many ways, "You are what you wear."

One thing that many men do when they first come out is overdress. I recently adopted the well known and used style is called the "less is more" approach. I used to wear six or seven rings and three or four bracelets. I now wear two or three at the most along with a nice watch and one bracelet. I put away the six inch stretch belt with gold and silver metal plating on it. I now use a one to one and a half inch belt with a nice small ornamental buckle.

My dresses are longer and the necklines are higher than before and I did these changes on purpose. I am constantly looking for new ideas so I can change my look and feminine image. I feel it is important to at least have half a dozen outfits so I can choose the appropriate one for the occasion. Dress to impress and don't overdue it.

Before you leave the house or motel room take a good long look in the mirror. You might like that new summer print dress but did you try it on to see just how short the arms were. How about that low neckline and the hair on your chest? Do you think a hairy chest looks good on a woman? I will tell you that I have seen dozens of men come in dresses to the nines and they have not bothered to cover or shave their chests and arms. The fashion world is a lot different for us men who dress as women and I feel that we work as hard or harder than most women to attain a positive feminine image.

I want to tell you ladies that are new to the scene and the crossdressing lifestyle a few things. First off is: the issue of passing. I feel too much time and energy is wasted on this issue. My philosophy has always been that one does the best one can and then goes out and have a fun time. I also want to add that it never hurts to call up Val Driscoll or Jim Bridges and get a consultation and a make-over.

I worked hard to find my look and "I like it", you say. Fine, I say. I also add that trying a new look or stylist can do wonders and make every night a special one. I love the fashion shows and all the hoopla that goes with the business.

The bottom line is still how I look and feel in the new outfit I picked up on sale. To me, finding the perfect look for the occasion is special. I am heading out the door right after I print this article up and I hope I find a new dress as I am in that fashion fun mood that has only one way to cure it.

FANTASY Fashion Fetish NIGHT

Marlayna invites you to the party on June 10.

Dee Grady from Neutral Corner Group gets the door prize.

One thing about a party is you never know who is going to show up and what is going to happen. This evening was a memorable one, as a number of ladies who had never been to the club showed up. The big gendered convention was happening up the road and many people had written down Saturday on their itinerary for the Queen Mary Show Lounge. This night we featured complimentary copies of TV Epic and our door prize was a nice 8X10 photo that I received from the nice folks from the publicity department at Universal Studios. There

Val Driscoll did an onstage Transformation.

Deena's been working the bar lately!

Miss Nina Charese scores some cheesecake.

Mellisa invites you to the big anniversary bash.

Captain Kurt and Santa Sharon spices up the scene.

Marlayna welcomes Lois on her first night out.

New girl in town Valerie was looking hot.

were plenty of fetish fashions to check out that evening and the joint was a rockin. A friend who missed the last event, featuring the ensemble contest and fashion show, said this to me a week after the event, "I heard you packed the place", was his comment.

I replied, "Yes, it was a SRO house and we had a great time." Do consider attending one of these parties that my partner Melisa and I present. We also ask that you dress to impress and plan on having a fun evening. So now you're invited and we shall look forward to seeing you.

The lovely and talented Melissa Foster.

A true fashion plate of late.

It's that Liya again!

Last year was a memorable one with parties every month all over the Southland. They say a picture is worth a thousand words, so these two pages certainly say a lot. Good friends and fun is what I see, and I hope you enjoy this flashback in time.

Now how frustrating it can be to lose a picture by sending it to an irresponsible person or a person who neglect to return it. That's why Ray Communications is now offering a special service for our readers which will safeguard your pictures from loss, and it's as easy as 1, 2, 3!

Here's how it works:

You mail us your picture(s) along with the attached order form, making sure to select the stationery and paper style you want. Remember: send high quality photos that are in focus and have good contrast and tone. The better your picture, the better your stationery.

We scan your picture(s) into a computerized format and convert them to gray-scale pictures, just like those you see in this magazine. We then place the images onto stationery that you can write on and mail to others.

Then we mail back your original picture(s) and stationery, with a complete black and white reproduction of your picture(s) on each and every one, along with any requested text information (such as a greeting, P.O. Box and/or a phone number). That's all there is to it!

MARLAYNA & MELISA present "ON THE SCENE NITE"

You're all invited to the Big Bash next month.

Miss Rhonda makes the scene.

Greetings from Melissa Moore

Girls just having fun!

A true party girl.

It's Joni Deere looking lovely as ever.

Don and Kelley Wise.

Sandy enjoys a cocktail!

The Shamrocks were hung around the Pub and the ladies and gents were celebrating St. Patrick's day. Many an Irish man were drinking good whiskey and admiring the pretty girls that came to "On the Scene Night" this March. We all were looking for that pot of gold at the end of our wishes rainbow. At the end was everybody's spectrum, no matter how colorful they found themselves. I call this color scheme the wonderful spectrum of life. All have their hue and that makes you an Individual, unlike anyone else. I don't see the world in black and white or male and female. Each person has the right to say who and what they are, Self proclamation.

The responsibility you have to yourself is to understand who you are. Often because of our gender identity, we get confused. One of the misconceptions, is sexual preference.

We are associating with femininity and because of society's idea of heterosexuality, we are often mistaken for being only gay. The transgendered has a varied sexual preference as any other slice of the social pie. My point is that gender identity and sexual preferences are entirely different subjects. I know to many transvestites, transsexuals, and transgendered who prefer women, men, or both. Because of your outward appearances, you should not have your sexual preferences judged. We know this from the whole that is our society. "There is an ass for every seat" Daddy says, meaning that whatever you prefer is your choice. As long as you are comfortable where you are, I wouldn't ask you to change, know matter how uncomfortable I feel it is. A customer at the nightclub told me that he was confused. He associated with the feminine side but liked having sex with women. I told her a transvestite, "You know there are lesbians, don't confuse sexual preference with gender identity."

She replied, "That really helps me understand myself more clearly." The world is a great rainbow of color and some are mixed. I call this spectrum people. We have similarities to some but we all have our own preferences and that makes you an individual.

I travel nearly all U.S. I seek correspondence and or a meeting with woman or TV/TS. Heels and hose are my turn ons. Pantyhose I adore. Do my legs and ass look ok? Your photo gets mine. Address and phone number handled with complete discretion. Tina.
