

LOUISVILLE.—The Ninaweb Park goes big. Florence Hines, Vjda Vaughn and John Tolliver, the "Hoosier Whirl-Wind," have joined hands for the coming season, and promise to make it pleasant for all in the future. They send regards to Ruby Shelton and John Rucker. Will Able, descriptive baritone, is taking two or three encores nightly; he sends regards to Williams & Walker, Judson Hicks and all friends. Prof. G. J. Dawson is rendering some very nice music and sends regards to Sherman Boone, the "Coon with the Raglan Craze." Frank Brown is still holding his own as a lyric tenor, and sends regards to the Goodalls. Miss Carrie Smith, the ragtime songstress, sends regards to all friends. James Anderson, the tamborine king, is still demanding 3 or 4 encores as usual; his best to Al. Anderson. George Black, buck dancer, is getting his share; sends regards to his brother Perry. William Jenkins and Elwood Hood send regards to friends. Master Jimmie, the little coon songster, is making good. George Temple, the ebony king and stage manager at the park, is telling funny stories and singing "A Coon with the Raglan Craze," and is taking heavy every night. Everybody-wants the song; he sends regards to Billy McClain and wife, Arthur Tays and John McCoy. Otto Walker sends regards to Sam Elliott and all friends. Steve Breckenridge and wife and dog Ben, sketch team, "Trouble in Coonville, will be seen this season with "Holiday in Coontown" Co. They are now playing Greenwood Park.
