

Fantasia Fair 26

Volume 26

Monday October 16, 2000

Edition 2

First Day News from Stormy Harbor

Our first Fair morning was met with the usual disquiet of any large scale operation. Kinks to iron out. New, updated schedules are being printed and handed out to all Fair Participants. Watch this newsletter for the Fair's daily updates.

After a hardy breakfast, presenters were introduced to the participants during Monday's orientation. It is quite a professional staff Miqqi Alicia has assembled for us this year. There is someone here that can help you on whatever transgender journey you may be on.

Contrary to negative rumors floating around the Fair... we DO have our make-up people here and they ready to help you however they can. See your newsletter schedules to use these workshops to your advantage.

DON'T FORGET YOUR TICKETS !

You Do need to sign up for workshops you attend and the luncheons you prefer to eat at as well as the speaker you wish to hear.

Please bring your tickets to all events that require one.

We would all like to take this opportunity to thank Miqqi Alicia for her work in organizing the workshops, seminars, and presenters

WHO'S HERE

Everyday this publication runs a column about one the great assortment of individuals we have who are in some way involved in the Fair, whether as a participant, innkeeper, restaurateur, presenter, or significant other. If you know of someone suitable for an interview, please notify Brenda at #7 Fairbanks Inn, 90 Bradford St. Or, write it yourself!

GOT A THERAPIST ?

One of our longtime Fair presenters, Niela Miller, is looking for a distributor for her book Counseling in Genderland. She is especially eager to get this book onto the reference bookshelves of therapists, pastoral counselors, and academics who need a basic education about transgenders, and/or, with their significant others.

FASHION SHOW 2000

Don't forget to sign up for this year's Fashion Show at the Vixen Lounge in Pilgrim House. Strut yer stuff down the runway! Show off yer fashion savvy to rounds of applause! Show off your legs... and whatever else you have! A two part show that begins with casual dress and progresses through daywear, nightwear and evening gowns. Your Hostess for the evening is the always elegant Miqqi Alicia, Fan Fair's beloved fashion maven.
