ON THE SCENE NITE & FANTASY FASHION FETISH NITE at the QUEEN MARY SHOW LOUNGE

have a very special announcement and I want you all to pick up a pink felt pen and circle June 8th on next month's calendar. This night I am inviting one and all to a very special party. I will be putting on one hell of a high heeled party to celebrate the seven year anniversary of my "On The Scene Nite" affairs at the QMSL. My how time flies, and I never in my wildest dreams thought that this party would be known and talked about around the world. Talk about being committed, I am and I should be, but at this point this party has a history and reputation that no one can ever erase. It is a tearful effort to recall the history and the beginnings of this party, and I have written about it many times. I will spare many of you "The Story," but I do want to thank Pathway Communications for their continuing support.

Where do we as a community go from here at this point in time? I know that over the years I have seen so much growth and positive indicators that I am optimistic about the future. We have a long way to go before we will ever be recognized as people. Unfortunately, because we are lumped in with the gays and the queers many in society will never see us as anything but a bunch of degenerates and deviates. Yes, there most likely always be people who believe that unless one is a member of the so called, "Moral Majority" you are a subversive person and will burn in hell. The good news is that the big "media" focus on crossdressing and the transgendered has been a big positive. I truly believe that gender education is the answer. I implore you to educate yourself and others as much as possible, and consider reading a book or two about crossdressing and gender. I am putting a list together and anyone who sends me a SASE will get one.

Recently, I have been changing in many ways and I find that I enjoy being "out" as they say. I do not have time to wait for congress or the local powers that be, to determine how I live my life. I decided that if I want to go in an eatery or bar then I will do it. Years ago, I would sit in the car and ask myself if it was O.K. to do this. I now realize that I, like many men, had this self imposed feeling of inferiority. Yes, in the beginning I did carry that haunting feeling that something I was doing was wrong. I soon started to educate myself on may levels, and one focus for me was gender education. From the beginning I knew that finding facts and information on crossdressing and related issues was the way to go. This was one focus for me when I started this very column. Since those days, and evenings, I have had many wonderful experiences. I have been fortunate that my writing and talents have been a positive for me and many. I realize that at this point I am well known in the gender community. I also find that over the last few years I have become interested in many of the important issues that the transgendered and gay communities have to deal with.

At the last party, I was sitting in Marlene's corner after putting out complimentary TV Epic's and the buffet. Chatting to my dear friend Kymberly Wells about this and that. After a little gossip about this and that, Kymberly asked me what I have been up to. I told her I had been on the "Gay and Lesbian Hour" talk show on Long Beach's cable company. She was curious about the show and the format, so I filled her in and told her I did a lot of good PR for my many projects. Yes, I mentioned this publication and even held up a copy. I told Kym that I talked about the QMSL and the parties, I also told her that I mostly focused on gender education and related issues. Before I finished my spiel, I told Kym that years ago a lady from up North tried to tag me as being and I quote, "A spokesperson for the Southern California Gender Community." Telling her that my position was that on radio and television talk shows. I speak for myself and add that my concerns are the same ones that many of my friends have. Kymberly looked at me and then this cute little smile was on her face. She tilted her face just a bit and looked me in the eye. Then started this line with a smirk on her cute face, "Marlayna, your a spokesperson!" Well, I still am working on this and even writing about how it now is part of the process. I want terribly to find venues that will allow me to promote my own personal agenda. I'm also focused on educating the public as the bottom line in these endeavors. We as men who crossdress have a long way to go when it comes to getting respect. Breaking down the word in relation to our community brings a wide definition. Who do we want to respect us? We have to start with our family and friends, along with mister and misses mainstream America. I feel at this point, Ican do a positive by being on talk shows. When I am on a show, I tell the audience that I am a crossdresser and a member of the largest support group in the world, "The Transgendered Community." My little spiels are filled with information and factoids. I talk about issues that are important to you and all of us. But, I do not want to be looked upon as your spokesperson. I do not feel comfortable with the moniker baggage that comes with that kind of title. Have to add.

"Kym, thanks for the compliment."

Six years ago, I first met Patty Barton who was to become the president of "Powder Puffs" of California. I had been writing this column for about a year and a half, as I recall. Patty said to me, "You got yourself one hell of a career going, and someday you will be a leader in this community." My reaction was one of disbelief and I laughed it off. I told Patty that I was not focused on a career as I was having fun and enjoyed my new found interests. I had no real goals or ambition, other that to get ready for the next party and find a new dress. I was just starting to embrace and join this community that I had heard so much about. The thing that I was into the most was writing about my new adventures at the "Queen Mary" and in Hollywood. I hit the "Texas "T" Party" not long after that, and my world changed. I want to add, that I can not stress enough, how important it is for one to attend a "national event." It is an emotional experience that opens up a whole new world and when you leave, what a memory you have. I recall that I felt so proud that I was part of something so delightful and special.

We all have those self doubts and fears that we carry and sometimes find ourselves burdened with. Many of these melted away as I entered the "Grand Ballroom" for my first formal dinner "en-femme." A few days ago I talked to the people at Pathway Communications and worked out the details for my trip to cover the "California Dreaming 96" event in San Francisco. Iam thrilled to be able to attend, and it will be very special because I know so many ladies in the group. I have never been to San Francisco, and I have always wanted to spend a few evenings there. Patty Barton is no longer president, but she will be attending and over the years we have become very good friends. The advice and support she has given yours truly is what I look at as a wonderful gift. Over the last few years, Patty has told me that I now am looked upon as one of the leaders in this community ofours. I take that as a wonderful compliment, but I still have trouble with what that really means. I do know that I find great pleasure in doing anything that will be positive for the transgendered. I work in the community to present and promote fun events and affairs. I have worked day and night for years to educate my friends who read this column and the public in general about gender and related issues. Recently, I appeared on a program called the "Gay and Lesbian Hour." I focused on topics that would be of interest to the viewers and also would educate them about crossdressing and the issues that concern me and you. So, at this point, I can see where I may be looked upon as a leader but I do not want the baggage that this title sometimes can carry.

Every night I usually sit down next to a stack of books and newspapers. I recently acquired a number of books about writing and the written word. I have to inention that with my order I got "Mary Chesnuts Civil War Diary," which was used in the documentary done by Ken Burns. This evening I picked up a book put out by a publisher called Shambala. It is a pocket classic translated by Thomas Cleary, and it is called

"Zen Lessons, The Art of Leadership" and I found a lesson that

I want to share with you. It is on pages 100 and 101; number 84 and it is titled, "The Community Mind."

Yuanwu said: Leaders make the knowledge of the community their knowledge, they make the minds of the community their mind. They are always wary of failing to comprehend the feelings of even one person, or failing to apprehend the principle of even one thing.

Leaders should only seek what is good, diligently striving to seek and take advice. They should question right and wrong in principle regardless of whether the matter is great or small. If the principle is right, even though it involves great expense to carry it out, what is the harm? If the thing is wrong, even though it is a small measure to get rid of, what is the loss?

The small is a step of the great, the subtle is the sprout of the obvious. This is why the wise are careful of the beginning, sages are mindful of warnings. Even dripping water, if it does not stop, can ultimately turn a mulberry orchard into a lake. A flame, if not removed, will ultimately burn a meadow.

When the water is streaming and the fire is raging, the disaster is already happening-even if you want to help, there is no way. Of old it has been said, "If you are not careful about minor actions, ultimately they will encumber great virtue." This is what is meant here.

Years ago my former party partner said to me, "Marlayna, in our community there are leaders and followers. Face up to it, you are a leader." Well, I guess I still am facing up to this one friends, and I am doing my best to deal with this. What comes to my mind is that when I first started this great adventure I am on, I told myself that I would do it as long as it was fun and a positive in my life. Well, the beat goes on and on and on. Oh how I love to sit here and write to you. We are so blessed and special in this world, and I hear it from so many. One evening I was "dolled" as I like to call myself when I am "en-femme." One of my neighbors was watching me leave and I have to add that she is a good looking woman. She smiled and complimented me on my appearance, and then she added this with a tone of envy floating across the roof. "You know, you have the best of both worlds." I smiled, and I am smiling now as I write this because we men who crossdress may very well have what she says. I do know that I have to agree with her. What do you think? Do we crossdressers who live in both worlds actually have it the best? I know that I could never go back to that DRAB (dressed as a boy) life that was my past.

O.K. ladies, I am putting out the call for cover girls and we ask for some sexy glamour shots. Check out the ad in this publication and do contact me for complete details. Write to: M. Lacie, 1856 Cherry Avenue Suite 608, Long Beach, CA 90806. Please send me a photo and a letter about you along with a SASE and your phone number, if you can give it out. I am looking at a photo on page 2 of the "Press-Telegram" newspaper, dated February 16. Featured is a 6x7 photo of rock-jock talk show host Howard Stern in full drag! I awarded Howard my first "Low Life In Low Heels" award. This year I have to say that he will not repeat because Mr. Stern has done something I never expected. He must have enrolled in "Mistress Veronica Vera's: School for Boys Who Want to be Girls," which is located in New York. Because Ms. Stern as we shall call her, is not looking all that bad. She got those legs shaved and a nice pair of black three inch heels.

She's wearing, and I say, "She' with a capital "S" a patterned cut out mini dress with a pearl necklace and those "new to the scene" black gloves. The hairdo is the best, as it is the blonde bomb that many street walkers seem to sport early in their career. The bold copy above the photo reads, "The Oueen Of All Media." I thought to myself, "Yeah, in who's world?" The copy below the photo tells the story and goes like this, and we give "Associated Press" the credit for the copy:

Well, I wish I had been there because that is one show I would have loved to be on. Now I am hot to talk to Howard and ask him how it feels to see the world when your prancing around in those leather lovelies.

Hey, it's O.K. cause we know it's all done as a lark and Mr. Stern is in show business! I have to wonder if Howard has always had a fancy to dress up and take on the name Nancy or Nina or Celine. Again, I have always been a champion of improving one's feminine image and I will say that "Ms. Stern" is welcome to attend one of my parties at the "Queen Mary Show Lounge" and has an open invitation from yours truly. If Howard is in town an needs a make over, I will give him my list of beauty experts. I will also mention that my dear friend Gloria, who had her business called "Waxing By Gloria has moved back to Sherman Oaks.

The new name and location is "The Beauty Collection Salon & Supply" located at 13351 Riverside Dr. Suite H, at the corner of Fulton Avenue in the strip mall next door to the "Thrift Drug." You can contact Gloria by calling (818) 907-1196. Gloria has an impeccable reputation in the community and specializes in business men looking for very private and discreet consulting services. She has a wide variety of outfits, wigs, and accessories to transform you into the lady that is you.

A few minutes after my car zipped past the Hollywood exit sign on the infamous 101, I thought to myself and pondered the question, "Has Marlayna gone Hollywood?" Hell, I'm Hollywood and heading down Sunset Boulevard to the notorious nightclub owned by actor Johhny Depp called, "The Viper Room." If anything, I knew the experience would give me plenty of copy for my Dealing With Coming Out series. Earlier in the week I got wind that the legendary queen of punk, the one and only, Jayne County was booked for a show. I was on the horn and soon had a spot on the guest list thanks to the folks at "I.S.L. Public Relations" in New York. Next step was getting back to Kim and Kelley who do the booking for the club. Yes, the club is part of the parade that tourists sometimes hit because of it's reputation. I found the club to be well run and a fun place to go. One hell of an interesting crowd, and I was not the only crossdresser attending. Drag is and always has been part of show business, and we definitely have a retro "glam-drag" fix in the music biz. This evening we were treated to an explosive opening set by three kitties from the motor city called, "The Demolition Doll Rods." Two ladies and a crossdresser, and they all wore very little clothing. Needless to say, they were a sight to behold and did a great job with a list of original tunes that rocked the house. Yes, they sang about Lupe Valez and how she drowned in her own toilet bowl, and most had never heard of the late actress. They also did some great singing and a blues number at the end of the set was a real treat. Pump up the jams, turn up the volume, and put some go-go in those high heels. The electrifying Jayne County was going to be on stage soon. I spied a door being opened and when my eyes focused on that blonde bomb of hair, I was moving real fast. Once inside the dressing room, Jayne and I had a chance to chat before the show. We got along great and she invited me to join her and her friends to a private party at a chic club, where else but in tinsletown. I love the night life and I enjoy the excitement that comes to me when I go out to meet celebrities.

I am amazed that society has changed so fast as I am out in public a lot. People in general seem to be more aware and tolerant when it comes to dealing with crossdressers. I would not be going up to Hollywood alone if I was not comfortable and confident. I truly feel that the more we as a community make ourselves visible and present a positive image when we are out "en-femme" it will do nothing but help us in our goal of ending discrimination, ignorance, and bigotry. In all of this I see myself as a writer for the transgendered community. Hopefully, I will not be tagged as a celebrity or someone who is chasing stardom, whatever that is. At this point, I am more confident that ever that we as a community are headed in the right direction. One positive has been the big mass media push to commercialize drag. Yes, it has made money for the big corporations. It has also allowed us to get more positive PR than we have ever had. Like it or not, this publicity affects us all and one can look at it like this: "Our community is coming out and we are also being outed!" I find that it has brought many more men through the "Back Bar" door and this is great.

I want to sign off by reminding you to catch Douglas Lee Long and lovely little Fresca Vinyl this month at my OTSN party. Have to mention that my tentative date for "Wigfest West 96" is Saturday, August 17th. Look for full page ad in August TV Epic with complete details.

Well, I am getting ready for "California Dreaming 96" and will have half a dozen pages of photos. Also, I hope to get an interview with the world renown Dr. Doctor who will be attending.

Once again, I want to thank all you ladies who have taken the time to write to me. I do sometimes get a little behind in responding, but I do try to answer all. It is your words of support and love that keep my midnight lamp burning.

> Love & Peace Marlayna

The birdcage

Look up on the marquee, it's a new movie, oh it's a vanilla "drag" movie called, "The Birdcage." Directed by Mike Nichols from a screenplay by Elaine May. Yes, it is faux American version of "La Cage aux Faux" but it features Robin Williams, Gene Hackman, Nathan Lane, and Diane Weist. The timing for this flick is perfect. Writer Frank DeCaro did an interview for Time Out New York magazine; issue March 6th though the 13th, and asked him this:

Can La Cage survivea fifthgo-round in 1996? Robin Williams-a man who is no stranger to drag movie hitsis convinced it can. "Right now is a perfect time for this movie," says the Mrs. Doubtfirestar, sitting on a couch in his Upper East Side hotel room, furrily cute in a short-sleeved shirt and jeans. "It just seems like it was tailor made for America. As long as there's a Pat Buchanan, there's a need!"

More than aneed, there is a demand for tickets as the movie is going to be one of the biggest box office smashes of the year. Yes, it is a film that has a "gay" theme to it with "drag" for the desert. We also get to see tough guy Gene Hackman "en-femme" and that is worth the price of the seat alone.

our not going to sit in the car while we are gone so get your ass out!" Tasha's words put blood in my eyes as I realized that I had to face the music. We were parked outside an eatery called "DuPars" which was a coffee shop that "queens" hit after the club closed. This was my second time out "en-femme" in public. Ms. LaBlush was doing me a great service taking me under her wing and hair spray. She also took great delight in watching me do what we call"The Bambi."You know, it's that look that a little baby deer gets when it's crossing a super highway. The creature freezes, almost paralyzed, as the sun bright beams of light from a sixteen wheeler is all that it sees. Yeah, the bitch just goes blank! It's like a computer overloading and too much information has to be processed. The high heels and high hair and the Channel are just too much.

That was then and last night is now. I hit the parking garage across the street from the "Viper Room." The attendant directed me to an open spot and checked me out. While I touched up my lips and got my paperwork in order he was watching a television on a chair. Most often garage attendants seem to love looking at queens. Obviously he had seen hundreds and I was just another customer with five dollars. Out on the street I was in my B-A-U (business as usual) mode and attitude. There is a line in a song that goes like this, "There is a way to walk that says, stay away!" Honey, a long time ago I learned it and you should too! Especially if you find yourself on Sunset Boulevard in West Hollywood. I wouldn't be caught dead up there, your saying to vourself. Well, neither would I and I don't want to be found and labeled as a deceased or be arrested just for walking in a way that says "Hey Mister, have you got the time beep, beep?" No, I dressed real conservative and my bad girl outfit from evenings past rested in the closet. I am never paranoid because I do not allow myself to be in that mind set or situation. I always try to be cautious and aware of my locality and situation as it pertains to my personal safety. We still live in a society that suffers from ignorance and lots of violent acts happen everyday and evening.

In the past there have been incidents in every part of this country and I do not want to be a statistic. I also feel that if I make myself aware of these things, I will be more able to make plans and find places and streets where I will not have to worry about being attacked. We have all heard the story about the person that has their car break down in the "wrong" part of town. I won't get into who can go where and be safe as that might be a racial thing. I will say that if a crossdresser has "her" car break down in the East side or the West side it doesn't make any difference as the ignorance in gender breaks all racial barriers. So we as a community have to educate the Blacks, Mexican/South American peoples along with the Asians and all in between. Hatred and bigotry comes in all colors, shapes, and sizes. Just like members of our community. My goal and my challenge is to do as much as I can to educate as many people I can, as best as I can. Going to Hollywood and writing about celebrities and movies will help me because it will allow me to reach many people. Yes, I love the excitement and glamour that goes with all of it. The bottom line is that I hope to present a positive image of myself and the community I belong to. People have questioned if I have gone Hollywood. Well, I have and I feel that the move has been a positive one for all concerned. I also find that going to these clubs and parties always presents me with new situations. Ones that [ must face and learn from. You see, just like you, I love those high high heels and there is nothing like getting all dolled up and heading out for the evening. One thing for sure is that part of the baggage is that thing we share no matter who or where we are and it is called dealing with coming out.

Over the years I have had the opportunity to meet and enjoythe company of many men who are out for the "first" time. My first night in the club was a memorable one with everything hitting mein Technicolor. I was all eyes and ears, and I loved the new world I had found. I realized I had made the right choices and decisions for me. Many men decided to go for it and come out because they feel that a huge void will be filled in their lives. For me it was like a huge integral part of the puzzle in my life was filled. In the evening I called myself Marlayna. I also realized that I would not find instant gratification and have all the questions in my life answered. I wanted to meet new people and friends and I did realize that I was not destined to be one of the lost and lonely people in this world. I see quite a few men who make a very big mistake when they start the process we call coming out. They read TV Epic and other publications, and assume that once they walk in the "Back Bar" everything is going to be perfect. There is a well worn saying that goes like this, "If you put expectations on people you will find yourself constantly being disappointed." One can transfer that to other scenes and situations, expecting to find your crossdressing as the answer to all your problems is unrealistic. One cannot walk into a club or bar and find themselves being accepted right away. I suggest you try to contact someone to accompany you. If they can not go with you at least have them fill you in on what to prepare for and what to expect. Many of the people who have businesses that cater to the community can be contacted. Don't expect them to spend along time talking, but they will give you advice and information as they deal with men who crossdress constantly.

I want to mention that I am more than happy to chat with ladies new to the scene. Do not assume that because I appear to be busy that I do not have the time to talk. The reality is that I find great pleasure in meeting new friends and I always have time for you. You can write to me at the address that is in my personal ad in this publication or call me on my voice mailbox and leave a message. The number is (310) 229-5213.

My goal and focus from the beginning was to devote myself to making this world a better place for crossdressers. As well as helping men who are new to this lifestyle by giving them advice and support. Do not expectall the answers from me, but I will do all I can to encourage and support you. Remember we are all in heels and dresses together, and you, like I, share something very special. It gives us a common bond and only something that men who crossdress can relate to. It is called dealing with coming out.

am pleased to inform you that this month's "On The Scene Nite" party will be a very special one. Lights, camera, and the party is the action for a special edition of the world famous "Fresca Vinyl Show." The one and only Douglas Lee Long and his partner in camera time adventures; Fresca, will be my very special guests. Doll parts galore as this fifteen inch haute couture super model is known as the "Queen of Cable Access." Fresca is a cross between our very well known Barbie doll, but wait, a little bigger and definitely a show business princess. We could say that the busty and brassy tinsletown billboard champion Angelyne and Fresca are cousins. Yours truly met the dynamic duo for the first time at the hopping affair at the "Playboy Mansion" accompanied by the lovely Karen Dior. It was at the premiere of "Wigstock: The Movie," that I had time to chat with Douglas and the charming Fresca.

The story goes that one day Douglas was strolling down trendy Melrose Avenue. In the window of a thrift shop he spied the woman of his dreams. He had made the rounds in Hollywood and was on "Dialing for Dollars" and had a number of third rate movies on his resume. Douglas was soon to make Fresca what we call a "media darling" and oh how she is that, and more. This new plastic princess has to be the premiere talk show hostess and cables outer limits. Most likely we shall have Douglas's favorite guest the one and only Robert "Phyliss Diller" Sanford. So mark your calendar with that pink pen and circle May 11, it's big time "camera time" as the classy sassy "Fresca Vinyl Show" sets up shop at the West Coast's longest running crossdressing social affair.

Joey Arias called a while ago and he performed to a sell out crowd at "Bar Marmount" on Thursday night. Friday was another sell out at "Cherry" and he is back to New York. I have to mention that Joey will be featured in the new book on the life of the notorious 50's pin up queen Betty Page. Ms. Arrias will also be the featured superstar for the newest "LA Eyeworks" advertising campaign. You go girl! I asked Joey to perform at this year's "Wigfest West 96" affair. Sorry to say that Joey will be vacationing in Greece. I do plan to have Joey on stage at the "Queen Mary Show Lounge." I have it in my mind that I want all to see him "channel" Billie Holiday.

"The Birdcage," starring Robin Williams and Nathan Lane has to be the "drag" movie that all the family will enjoy. Mainstream and hilarious and always with Robin. A bit over the top and that's what made this movie the biggest money maker in early March. This remake of the French classic "La Cage aux Folles" hit the number one with ten high heels at the box office. Pulling in a danceable eighteen million. MGM and UA hit gold in the gender bender bandwagon dragathon. Robin knows a good thing, and it is wearing a dress and heels and treating the audience to faux drag at it's funniest. Fake, because we do not have real crossdressers portraying themselves. Wonderful that "The Birdcage" has a story and plot that keeps our focus away from these thoughts. Nathan does a super job and the whole cast is mah-vah-las! Kudos to director Mike Nichols for his free wheeling style and wild approach. Robin is allowed to let loose and prance and this is a treat in itself.

I knew way back when I first went to see "The Crying Game" that there would be a slew of "drag" movies coming out. What a fun time it has been for our community and the public. Most of these flicks are road movies, but all have identities that separate them enough from one another. Why do we have a remake of "La Cage?" There are a few answers and they all guaranteed a successful movie and big profits. We are in the peak of the drag movie phenomena in Hollywood, and the timing for a drag movie for "mainstream audiences" is perfect. The French classic was a huge international success and there was no story to write. You add a superstar with a reputation for doing drag and pulling it off along and making millions in the process. Get the right director, rewrite the story a little, use English, and we have eighteen million and this is just the beginning. I am pleased and very happy with all of this as it does nothing but positives for the gender community. We need all the positive PR we can get and after years of trash we finally get some decent press.

Show business and drag go together very well and always have. Drag has also been integral in the business they call rock and roll. Recently, the gender bending Jayne County hit town and played a few gigs. I was on the guest list for her show at the notorious "Viper Room" and the show was super. Back in the seventies Jayne was performing at "CBGB's" in New York, and partying with Andy Warhol and Patty Smith. Ms. County puts new meaning into the word "original" and she has had many imitators. Trans-glam rock will kick you in the panties and make you hit the dance floor, and well, watch out! Jayne was in town and yours truly got the photos and the interview. I also hit the "Wild Side" and scored photos of Warhol superstar: Holly Woodlawnand yes, we got an interview to boot.

Ms. Lacie has been busy, and I am also putting together my second annual faux hair affair this August. My son and brother just walked in and they went to see "The Birdcage" and loved it. I knew they would and you will too!

TABLEAU VIVANT By-Miss Tasha LaBlush

D t will CONSUME you...this enchanted realm, this crystal clarity, this incandescent feeling of aliveness, this we of me, this white hot fire, this passion for dressing will transport you. Better watch out, Baby, there's a sign post up ahead and it has your femme name on it!

Many of us have already been consumed. We crossed back and forth tentatively at first. Testing the waters of collective consciousness. Mentally fucking ourselves into sweet orgasmic bliss. We were only acting out something deeply implanted in our DNA. Finally we mustered the gumption to act on it. That's what it's like to play with fire and not get burned.

So sweetie dahlinks you have been warned; better yet, you are being invited to a party. Instead of going home when the sun rises...stay on with the rest of us for-fucking-ever, Baby. It's the best. Whew!

Moving along...thank you for writing Ginny from Tukwila, WA who said: "I use my femme power every Wednesday night. On the weekend I belong to my sisters." This sort of fits like a smooth pair of panties with what you just read, doesn't it dear reader?

Sasha Doll from San Bernardino, CA, thank you for sending the lyrics to "Moonlight Cocktail." Indeed it is one very romantic non-alcoholic brew. A personal favorite ofmine is Sinatra's "Summer Wind" with or without a modest martini and always with a deep kiss that lasts for three days.

Kelly from Auckland, New Zealand, you looked simply divine all dressed up to the nines at the Queen Mary! People were digging on your femininity, Baby. You're a good friend, Kelly. Now isn't it much better being a part of the party, rather than merely watching it? You're gonna get consumed! Chance Wayne is waiting to take you to see Elvis in Las Vegas. Catch the drift? Be coy if ya wanna, but you do.

Think English-speak accents... "When I heard that, you could've put me on me back with a feather." Sister George answers: "Yes, well it doesn't take much more than that in the best of times, does it?"

The spit-in-your-eye dialogue is from the movie "The Killing of Sister George." Sister George only plays a nun in an English soap opera. Her very delectable lesbian lover is played by a young Susannah York who spends most of her days in a baby doll nightie (on her back).

If you get a chance to catch this movie on cable or video, you should. I've always had a thing for muff divers and this movie is so fucking good. Regarding her lover's writing skills she told her with a sneer: "What you know about writing wouldn't cover a single tile on a lavatory wall."

You'll just have to laugh. It has such a hot ending and those baby doll nighties are simply to perish for dahlink! As lesbian movies go there's nun better.

This is sort of an anniversary being the tenth Tableau Vivant column. How's it going so far? My thanks to those of you who have written like Patricia from Huntington Beach, CA. She thinks the sitcom "The Nanny" has drag appeal. Sweet little Fran Dresher definitely does have major drag appeal in her clothes and jewelry. I love her too, Patricia, but that wacky laugh she has makes me thankful the show is only 30 minutes. Did you see her on Letterman? She sort of honked out that laugh at the end of every sentence, but gawd she looks great in those tiny dresses and sexy shoes.

Christine Baranski in another siteom, "Cybil" also has a wardrobe that makes my transvestite heart go pitter-patter! She has legs longer than the yellow brick road and when she wears leather or vinyl I get a PIMP (problem in my panties)! Guess my own lesbionic tendencies are showing. Ha..

Your comments and suggestions are always welcome. If you want a response please include a SASE. Oh, wait a fucking minute, that sign post up there, some bitch's name on it...could it be yours?...play with those matches, ya gonna get CONSUMED! It's okay, Baby, cause it'll be the best damn orgasm you ever wrapped your red lips around...

Love, Sin and Gin Martinis,

Miss Tasha LaBlush

PS: Jon-Jon, the bartender at The Queen Mary: Kiss-kiss I love you Baby!

ell, another Labor Day Weekend and a lot of my friends were going to the annual "Miss Continental Pageant" in Chicago. Some of my friends were flying in early to check out the "Blues Festival." I decided that I hadn't had a regular vacation, so I took four days and made it a seven day weekend. Simone and I left on Wednesday morning at 6:30 a.m. and flew into Chicago about 12:30 p.m. We then picked up a rental car and drove down to the "Court Yard" in downtown Chicago. It turned out that all the contestants and their entourages were going to stay there too. When we checked in we saw a few of them that had already arrived.

We cleaned up and went out and had some Chicago deep dish pizza, then went back to the hotel to take anap and plan out what we wanted to do that evening. We decided to go and check out some of the blues bars and go to one of the shows at the "Baton." I stopped by one of the local restaurants and had a light dinner and went to the blues clubs. Then we went to the "Baton" for the 10:30 p.m. show, and what a show it was! Most of the girls performing are former "Miss Continental Pageant" winners and down right gorgeous. After the show we headed back to the hotel which was only a three block walk. Since it was a beautiful night we walked back, which helped us sleep.

Thursday I got up early and went to the gym, and after I had cleaned up we decided to go out for a walk and see Chicago. We ended up at the "Navy Peer" on Lake Michigan where lot of the tour boats are docked and there is an amusement park and new shopping center. We looked around for a while and decided to take a city tour on the trolley. It was quite interesting, we were able to get off anywhere we wanted to and look around. The tour ran though the "Miracle Mile" where you can shop till you drop or if you are hungry they went thru the restaurant district where you can find all kinds of food. They took us by several of the big condos and the historical sights. It was an enjoyable morning, we got off and checked out a number of places and then got back on and continued the tour. We decided and went down to "Baton" topick up our tickets for the pageant. We stayed for the show and ended up meeting Ginger Grant who is a past "Miss Continental," plus Memmi Marks, Monica Munro, and Cezanne; the present "Miss Continental." These girls are gorgeous and fabulous performers. I also had a chance to say hi to K im Cleveland; a local makeup artist, who has done make-up for many of the crossdressers in the Chicago area. I talked to Ginger and picked up the tickets and programs for this year's pageant, and a program and video from last year's pageant. There was a few minutes between shows so we had a chance to get pictures with the girls in the show. We then went for a walk to the hotel to shoot some pictures of the Chicago "Sky Line" then we went to our room to get some sleep.

Friday morning I got up early again and went to the gym and worked outthen wentfor a swim. After, I went to the post office to mail some post cards and letters and then went back to the hotel. At the time, several contestants were arriving from all over the country. Two of them that I knew were Yoshike Oshiro and Brandi Lee: the

Some of my friends were flying in early to check out the "Blues Festival." I decided that I hadn't had a regular vacation, so I took four days and made it a seven day > that we were going to have lunch at "Oprah's" restaurant. Simone tried some of the famous "Oprah" potatoes. The food and service was very good. After lunch, on our way back to the hotel we checked out some of the museums. Then we kicked back and relaxed for a while.

That evening we had a light dinner representatives from the "Miss Continental Pageant" and a number of the girls from the New York area had also arrived. We talked for a while and Yoshike had been on a plane for ten hours coming from Hawaii, so she went up and laid down for a while. I had to go to the airport and pick up Fawn and Wendy from New York, so we had an early lunch at an Italian restaurant and Simone decided to take a walk while I drove outto the airport. This is the first time I have had to go out to "Chicago Ohair" to pick someone up. It was really a challenge to get to parking and find the terminals. Fawn and Wendy got in early, so I missed them at the gate, but I finally met them at the baggage claim and we headed back to the hotel.

After they got settled, Wendy and I went for a walk so she could get something to eat. When we returned she combed out a wig for me to wear that night. All of us headed out to the "Baton" at about 10:15 p.m. so we could catch the 10:30 p.m. show. The place was packed with standing room only. They have three shows a night, Wednesday night to Sunday night. Friday night and Saturday nightwere going to be big nights at the "Baton" as they were going to have the reigning "Miss Continental" performing along with past winners of the "Miss Continental Pageant." After the show, we all went back to the hotel and went to Yoshike's room, some of the girls went out to the after hours dance clubs.

Saturday morning we got up and went and had our nails done about 10:00 a.m. Then went back to the hotel and went out to lunch at "Carsons" which is a barbecue restaurant in the local area. Most of the afternoon we spent getting ready as we had been invited to have cocktails at the "Park West" by Chriene, this was another place owned by Jim Flint, After cocktails, we went back to the "Baton" and went in for a while, but it was so crowded we just decided to call it a night as we knew the next two nights would be long ones. The town was really busy in our three block walk back to the hotel. We were offered a ride by one guy, we had our pictures taken, and a lot of guys were whistling and doing cat calls.

The "Miss Continental Pageant" is a two day event which starts on a Sunday, evening and the finals are held Labor Day evening. This year's pageanthad 37 contestants, so it was going to be a long evening. We spent Sunday getting ready and getting everything put together so we could get going early and be there on time. The doors opened at 5:00 p.m. and the pageant began promptlyat6:00 p.m. The first division was evening gown which was followed by the bathing suit division, these two divisions went by quickly, but they were followed by the talent division which lasted about five and a half hours due to each show lasting about ten minutes. It all finally ended about 1:30 a.m. Monday morning. We all went back to the hotel and relaxed until it was time to go back to the "Park West" for the finals. The doors opened at 7:00 a.m. and at 7:30 a.m. there was a memorial video shown in remembrance of Tandi Andrews, a former "Miss Continental" 86-87, who passed away this year from Aids. Then at 8:00 a.m. the pageant began with the presentation of the 37 contestants and all "Miss Continental" winners who were in attendance. They then presented the category awards and announced the top 12 finalists, then the finals began. Again, they went through the evening gown for one last look by the judges. My friends; Yoshike and Brandi Lee made the top 12. Then they had all the girls come out and introduce all the "Miss Continental" franchise owners. They then gave the results of the elimination down to the top five.

Each girl was asked the same question to tell the judges and the audience what their three most outstanding achievements are in life. Each girl was brought on individually and asked this question and then the judges picked out the "Miss Continental" and the four runners-up. While they were making their decision the reigning "Miss Continental" performed her final number as "MissContinental." Then the announcement of each of the runners-up and who would reign as the new "Miss Continental" which turned out to be Catrierina, who was"MissLatina" from New York City who qualified for the pageant. After, there were some parties held at a number of the local bars who were active in the pageant.

It was rather late when we arrived at the hotel, but it had been a lot of fun. I saw a number of people I hadn't seen in years. One was Heather Fontain who was the second "Miss Continental" 81-82, and worked at the "Queen Mary" for a couple of years doing a Marilyn Monroe impersonation. We also saw Cherie Alexander who was "Miss Continental" 84-85, who lives in the LA. area.

We had to get up early, so we went off to bed and got up about 8:30 a.m. to pack and head for the airport. It was a good time and saying good-bye to alot of my friends was hard. We caught our flight back to LA. and back to the same old ratrace, but it was a great time that I will always remember.

If anyone has any questions or comments please feel free to write me.

karen's Big-Big Birthday Party

Opening up the card I was thrilled to get the invite to Karen Dior's "private" birthday party at swanky "Arena" in Hollywood. Oh those Hollywood nights and those tinsltown hills. My little entourage headed up over Laurel Canyon after I finished taking care of business in the "Back Bar."

This evening was a special two party night with me doing my monthly OTS party and then leaving early for Miss Dior's bash. Perfect timing and we arrived around 11:30 p.m., got the wheels valet parked and up to the private room. Goeff was there we aring a striking red vinyl trench coat opening gifts.

He loved the Betty Page number three I gave him, and we discussed having Karen appear in my upcoming "Wigfest West 96" affair. Then off to the dance floor and I had to get some "camera time" with all the sexy "ladies" in attendance. Hope you like them.

Two blondes mean double your fun.

Hah, feeling no pain, cocktail time for these two!
