PERSONAL COMMENTS: I have found that by allowing my "sister self" to emerge, by setting Tess free, as it were, I am able to express my passion and love for life more tenderly, openly, and completely. The soft colors, subtle hues and delicate fabrics of femininity feel so good and mirror my gentle side.

Being a woman allows me to be flamboyant and playful when being creative with my appearance, I feel whole and happy.

Y Can't believe I'm pounding out my September column but here I am sitting in a room all alone. I was reading an article about Rushdie and there was a quote by the famous author Salmone. Before I tell you the line he came up with, I will remind you that he is most famous for writing a book called, "The Satanic Versus" and I hope I have the name of the book right. Any way the Ayatollah of Iran at that time put a death warrant out for Salmone because the book offended him and their religion. This is what happened and Mr. Rushdie is rarely seen in public.

Here is the line that I am referring to, "writers are people who sit alone in rooms." Well that struck home and I am sure that any of you out there that do write can relate. There are many kinds of writers. I am self taught and my passion for my subject truly saved me. I also realize that for me to find inspiration and ideas about things to write about I have to be out there. Out there is a Playboy Mansion party or a Adult Entertainment Convention in Las Vegas. Out there is a premiere at a prestigious organizations posh building on Sunset Boulevard. I find that events and places like these make my life interesting and exciting. Amazing to see how people react to me when I attend an event or am at a booth at a convention. I truly feel that by me being "out there" that it in some small way contributes a plus and positive for our community. I find more and more that I am becoming a public person. If the camera is going to shine my way then I will do my best to present a respectable image. I will tell all that I am a proud member of the transgendered community. At this time I can do this and I realize that many of you can not do this but someone has got to do it. Melissa Foster just called to tell me that she has invited a dozen ladies down from San Francisco to attend my WIGFEST WEST 95 event. They are planning a three evening weekend of fantasy and fun. It will also be very special as we all will be celebrating Ms. Fosters birthday. I believe she said she was 39 this year.

I have mentioned more than a few times that I see life and being involved in the lifestyle of ours encompassing a major growth curve. Like you, I am not the same person I was six years ago and hopefully we all will grow and become wiser with each new year and experience. I am not a transsexual yet, I have many dear friends that are. I understand what the definition of the word transsexual. Yet I remind myself that the word gender is having its meaning and definition changed day by day. I do know that the transsexual person is involved in a serious attempt to change and most important grow into womanhood. I write this because it helps me explain to you and myself why we see so many "ladies" come and go. I do not feel they are in any sense of the word rejecting the community as a whole. More that they are finding a new place for the person they are and hope to be.

Kelley Wise has moved on and she will not be writing the TRANS-TALK column. I failed to mention this in my column last month. The seasons come and go and in them we live our lives. Trying to find so many ways to balance all that hits us. Friends come into our lives and move on and it is the way of the world. It goes with the territory of being in the community and living on this planet. I wish Kelley and all the transsexual persons who find the courage to embark of this vital journey the best. I can not fully relate to you and your situation. I can understand that one has to do what one must to find happiness in one's life.

This year we have had quite a few movies featuring crossdressing and our community. I am happy to announce that this month a new book devoted to drag is being released. Chronicle Books is presenting "Drag Diaries" written by Catherine Chermayeff, Jonathan David, and Nan Richardson I have to start off by telling you that this book features a great story and interview with the one and only Joey Arias. It also introduces us to the world of drag and all of the attendant mischief and accessories that accompany it. It is a veritable "Who's Who" in the world of drag. Covering topics from reek classical theater to "The Adventures of Priscilla, Queen of the Desert." Yes, men have been dressing as women for centuries but not like Joey and Lypsinka along with Hollywood Lawn and so many more personalities that are spotlighted in this enjoyable book. I like the fact that it covers the glamour and also hits you with great copy on feminine mystique and men telling about themselves and how they have learned to live their lives as they want to. The book also features a chronology on drag related films, annual, drag calendar, a drag inspired reading list, and an essential drag shopping guide. "Drag Diaries" is a witty, irreverent guide to a world that has made a celebration of it's differences and an art form of wearing a heel and skirt. "Drag Diaries" is a book that I highly recommend because it is right off the press and full of great black and white and color photos. Here is the message that Joey Arias has at the end of the article and interview, "Be strong, be centered, be healthy, love, shine a light and don't judge people. Be open,. Care for your brother. Be open to experiences in life. Let your mind travel. Live your fantasies and dreams. Let dreams come true. That's my message. And what would I say to people who are a little scared? (Yelling) Fuck off" I love it and I recommend the book Drag Diaries as it is timely and on sale Sept 11. For information on the "Drag Diaries" contact :David Carriere at Chronicle Books PHONE (415) 777-8835.

Last night I traveled up the Hollywood 101 to the notorious Santa Monica (S & M) Boulevard. My destination was the 7969 CLUB (formerly Peanut's). Earlier in the day I decided to call Joey Arias to see if he was still registered in at the exclusive Chateau Marmont in Beverly Hills. I was in luck as he was there and told me that he was performing at the SIN-A-MATIC show at 7969 then off to CLUB STUDIO for another show. The club was certainly different on a Saturday night as this was the evening for Generation X to have the limelight and the dance floor. Loud droning, anarchistic tribal beat music that keeps you from sometimes thinking clearly. One finds oneself having to almost scream at the person next to you so they can hear you. The crowd consisted mostly of 20 to 31 year old men and women. A spattering of young lesbian couples and a number of kinky fetish fashion couples dressed in matching leather and latex outfits. Mostly the audience was made up of young men dressed in shorts, T-shirts and some wearing baseball caps. The guys who like Beavis and Butthead, can be described as bored voyeurs. I felt that many had this o.k. entertain me for ten seconds "attitude. Ten seconds because their attention span moves at that rate. Raised with a computer, they deal with the world like a video machine and expect all their fun and entertainment served up to them. Then it becomes disposable because it's always next years girl.

Pulp Fiction goes to video and is replaced by another vengeance movie. I would have been up at Tommy Tangs on Melrose or the Atlas in LA having a nice dinner. I was there to give Joey Arias some photos I took of him and a book about Billie Holiday that was out of print. I was glad to see Joey leave the stage and waited to catch him at the dressing room. Well known bald bitch diva Constance was heading to the dressing room and I asked, screamed at her, "WHERE IS JOEY???" She told me that he was out front catching a taxi to get to the second show. I found Joey with Raven O and superstar from the Warhol daze, Miss Holly Woodlawn. Joey introduced us, and yes ladies, I hit em up for the infamous camera time.

One thing I do and I set my mind to do it is to deliver the goods. I have great fun doing this as it is a challenge besides I find myself dealing with so many interesting people and situations. I find that most people I meet in the straight world if that is what we have to call it. Seem to respect me and what I am doing. If I and a group of my friends go into a club for three months or three years, after a while the people get used to seeing men who crossdress. If you and your friends go in some evening then it will be no big deal as the "LADIES" were here last week and come in often. I plan to go back to the Atlas Bar and Grill some evening with a friend for dinner. It will be a night when Joey Arasi is not performing. Since the manager told me that I and ladies from my community are welcome. I plan to go and enjoy the fine atmosphere and great food.

This month, the first Tuesday of the month falls on the fifth and do circle the calendar. This night will be the second evening of "Drag-Dining & Dancing at Tommy Tangs located at 7313 Mellrose in Los Angeles. This night I will be putting on my second dinner get together at Tommy's. Last month I had the world renown Mistress Jacqueline scheduled as my celebrity "interview" for the evening. I do hope you did attend and if not do consider a fun night out in the middle of the week with myself and many of the local ladies. Of course you ladies from out of town are more than welcome. Do call for reservations and directions and ask for Sandi or Patrick (213) 651-1810.

I plan to make a trip up the 605 this Fall and check in for a P.P.O.C. (Powder Puff of California) I have been so busy with my own events and agenda that I have not made a visit in quite some time. It is organizations like PPOC and Ladies Knight Out that are the grass roots of our lifestyle. Men whether married or single can find new friends and also a place to keep these relationships alive and growing. We all are looking for love, understanding, happiness and the freedom to live our lives as we want. Unfortunately society in general does not feel comfortable with our lifestyle. So a crossdressing group is a positive avenue for many men and couples who cannot or do not want to go to clubs or public events. This week I meet with Robert (owner/manager) of the Queen Mary Show Lounge and Jim Bridges. We are going to map out the program and schedule for my "WIGFEST WEST 95" event. I also plan to spend some time with showgirl Monica Russo. We plan to hit the boulevard and find a dress for me to wear that night. Believe me, a lot of work is going into this show and I feel that it will be a good one. Plenty of people are talking about it so I know the PR I am doing is working. The one and only Jeri Lee from Spartacus Distributing came up to see the show with a group of friends. Robert and Jeri had a talk and later Robert told me that Jeri mentioned that she wanted to book the club for the third Saturday in October. If there is going to be a big bash at the Queen Mary, I will most definitely be there. Will keep you informed as I am waiting for Robert to return my call. Hopefully he will have more information because at this time it is just a possibility.

Most often when one speaks of crossdressing it is men doing it that comes up. We so easily forget that women have been and are crossdressing more and more. The other day my brother Steven brought over a book that he picked up for me. It had a photo of Marlene Dietrich on the cover and he thought that I would like it. The book is written by Andrea Weiss and it is called Vampires and Violets. The cover has copy written into the title and it reads like this. From The Crossdressing Stars, Vampires Dietrich and Garbo, to the and Vampire films of the late 60's, Violets to Silkwood and The Color Purple, page one has this as the introduction: The Color Violet. When you watch the film "Vertigo" (Hitchcock 1958), are you Scottie (Jimmy Stewart) wanting Madeleine (Kim Novak), or are you Madeleine wanting Scottie to want you? Or both alternately and simultaneously? In what proportions and what intensities? Graffiti in the women's bathroom of the Lesbian and Gay Community Center, New York City, 1989. The book is about lesbian images in the history of the cinema and it covers a lot of interesting topics. The allure of Dietrich and her crossdressing is well known and documented. What is not well known is the history of women loving other women and the attempts to get these images on celluloid. Three films, focused on the pleasures of lesbianism. In 1931 we had "Madchen in Uniform (Leontine Sagan, Germany). "Club de Femmes" France 1936 and in 1929 "Wild Party" was made by Dorothy Arzner. All were set in women's schools and Machden in Uniform was super the Nazis. I came across a page that had some very interesting say about images of lesbian women and how they were presented in these films.

From page 17., Lesbianism in Machden is in uniform, Club de Femmes, and The Wild Party is conveyed primarily through the narratives and the spatial relationships between the women and the frame. Yes, the strong point was the lesbian was dressed as a man! The characters are not visually coded as lesbians; rather, lesbianism takes the form of female identification. In key scenes in both Machden and

The Wild Party, however, women are dressed in men's clothing: Manuela is in costume as Don Carlos for a school play when she makes her declaration of love; Clara Bow wears a bowtie and suspenders when she sits on the lap of her roommate. These were isolated scenes but they did show the public that women were making love to each other and in many instances gender roles were decided by who wore the pants. I have a lady friend that has dressed in the past and has even passed. She loved it as it gave her an opportunity to express her masculinity. A time to "walk on her wild side" in slacks and a blazer. This publication is for the crossdressing community and I would love to hear from any of you women who crossdress.

Many of you have noticed the new changes in writers and format in this publication. Change is part of life and part of business and people come and go as in any profession. I have been fortunate to have more than a few bylines and I feel that I contribute the foundation to each issue. This continuity and it also leaves room for new writers and articles from members of our community. I cannot and should not cover all bases in this publication. I have grown and the publication has grown and in harmony I might add. I thank all of you for your continued support and love over the years as your lives have touched mine in so many ways.

P.S. Katie and I attended the monthly and notorious macho drag bash called Dragstrip 66f. Look for the photo spread in October Epic.

Dealing with Coming Out

by Marlayna Lacie

Wuilt is something that seems to come to many people that crossdress. It is mostly self-induced and can be a powerful evil or a great spawner of positive things. I live alone and have no wife or children to be responsible to and for. I did raise three children for three years and I spent my time on the day shift and pulled over time to pay bills. I am happy that I do not have to check in with or hide my lifestyle and feelings from a spouse. This is one reason that I focused on writing about dealing with coming out from a single man's perspective.

Recently Tasha and I were talking about raising children and family and not informing them about your crossdressing. I had the point of view that in many instances it is the best thing for a man to hide his crossdressing activities from wife and family. Miss La Blush pointed out that many men do this and they cheat their families in the process. If you are married and divert money to buy dresses and wigs it takes from your family. This is true especially if you are on a limited income and your crossdressing expenses take from household money. Shouldn't your children be the first priority when you cash your check? The issue of time came up and aren't you cheating your wife and kids when you fake a weekend trip and go to a place where you can dress up and party for two or three nights? You need a break and deserve a vacation and some PLAY time you say. Fine but can you look in the mirror and not feel guilty about not spending the time with your wife and kids?

In the conversation I brought up the concept of telling the wife and Tasha had a good one for this. A man who hides this from his wife and does not share it with her is being selfish in many ways. He takes time and finances from the household and keeps his en-femme personae separate. This keeps his focus on himself and he shares his dresses and perfume with no one else. I have heard many horror stories about wives divorcing husbands for crossdressing. I sympathize with the many men and women who have had relationships and marriages disintegrate over crossdressing. I believe that a lot of guilt in the seams baggage comes with being married and not telling your wife and family. I am not a psychiatrist or psychologist and I have no credentials in the field. I do know that as a single man I have encountered numerous situations and circumstances as a crossdresser. I can see where having a wife and family to deal with and support could add numerous factors to my lifestyle. I am sure that if I was in this situation that I would certainly have more to write about as I deal with coming out. I would also consider exploring the idea of telling my wife and finding support in a group like PPOC, Neutral Corner or Ladies Knight Out.

Most likely many of you are in the closet and are on the edge shall we say in making that monumental decision. That leap off the cliff in high heels and a skirt into a land and reality that fascinates yet terrifies you. We all have to find ourselves in one place and have to decide what to do in one's life to attempt to find some harmony and balance in your life. We are all so very much the same in so many ways and these fears are familiar to many. I decided that I would not find myself on my death bed crying and damning myself for not following my heart.

I sat on my futon one night about ten years ago and I had been looking at some TV magazines. Probably just like you are doing right now. Divorced, alone but for family and seeking desperately to find the courage to face myself and the way I had to live my life. When I was sixteen I was coerced by an uncle to put on a wig and since that evening I knew that "something" was different. I never forgot that experience or dressing in my sister's clothes. I suppressed the six year old incident because I was punished for it and this erased it from the screen, but not from the memory banks.

One evening about three years ago my aunt mentioned the incident and it all came back. Like being sucked into the nebulous black hole that the mind finds when mind bending news and realities hit. I thanked my aunt for the information because I felt in many ways the weight of the entire galaxy and a few black holes had been erased. I told my aunt, "There is nothing wrong with what I do, I have been this way since the day I was born. I was attracted to feminine things and girls clothes as long as I can remember. I have been attracted to hunting and fishing and backpacking. I played hockey five nights a week until I wrecked my knee. This along with a hip pointer and finally an eye tore out because I was skating behind a great player who took a powerful "slapshot." His specialty and the stick came behind his shoulder ripping into the socket of my right eye. This ended a lot of fun for me and I lost that weight and muscle that being an athlete five nights a week does for a healthy young man at twenty five years old.

I did all those macho things and I enjoyed them yet I always knew I was holding back on myself. Afraid to let myself find out who I really was because I was too young and had no opportunity to get any real informative, positive education on gender related issues. Like you, I knew there was something that had to be dealt with and could not be put on the shelf forever. Let me tell you that you must follow your heart and your dreams. I see it no other way as the alternative is building yourself a prison. Your mind can hold you back from allowing yourself to be and become the person or from finding your "en-femme personae."

Here is a little test you can try and if it works OK. If not, oh well what the heck you tried. If you are new to this and have not been dressing much or if you have never dressed before. When you do, I suggest a professional make-over and when you look in the mirror I want you to focus on this. If you see yourself as Bob and the reflection makes you think and feel like Bob in a wig and dress fine. If you see a new person and she excites the HELL out of you. If you feel that you can not relate to the image as a masculine. If you think that Bonnie, Barbara, or Babbette might be more appropriate. You take a minute and get off that cloud nine and make some resolutions to enjoy yourself and allow yourself the room to learn and grow. You also should consider setting some goals and finding focus for your wants and needs. Next month I will have a few words to you about these goals and how important they are in dealing with coming out.

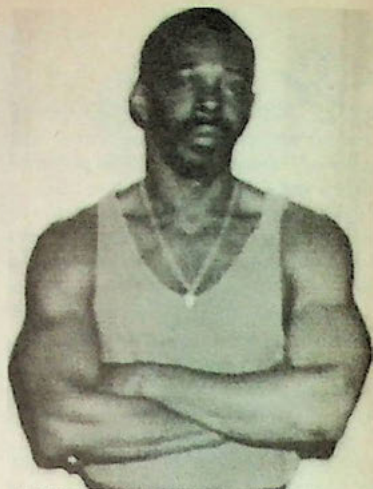

Hi, I'M KELLEY! I'm a Southern California she-male. I would like to correspond and meet others like myself. I enjoy spending time with full time TS's, women and couples. I am open to helping any young people beginning their transition. I will respond to everyone who writes me and sends a photo c/o this magazine. ean you think of an industry that is more exciting than show business? There are so many facets to the entertainment machine and it seems that all the people I meet in the business are vibrant, enthusiastic, creative and talented. Some more than others of course, but it seems that whether one is modeling up on the catwalk or doing a play or being the MC for an event. There is a feeling of the curtain and the ring of "lights, camera, action" that is special and like no other.

I have a friend who lives nearby and he is a private detective and has been involved in show business. He has a collection of drawings done by James Dean done on bar room napkins and they are very sexually explicit. Representatives from the English auction company are looking over the work at this very moment. There are two movies about the notorious bad boy in production. James Dean had a special aura and sensuality about him that in a way did not die when he did. His memory is constantly being thrown at us and a good one was a movie about a five and dime store with his name tagging on it.

Did you know that there is a million dollar industry in movie memorabilia? Recently I purchased a newspaper with four full sections of movie memorabilia for sale or companies advertising that sell it. I picked it up after I traded a copy of a book called, "Japanese Bondage Fan" to him for a movie fanzine magazine printed in 1941. It sold for ten cents and on the cover is a photograph of, you might have guessed it, Marlene Dietrich with actor George Raft. A promo shot for the movie "Manpower" with full story featured in "Movie Story" magazine and it is now part of my collection of Marlene Dietrich memorabilia. Do you have any photos or magazines with photos of my favorite movie star? I am interested in these items and will buy or trade, so do write and tell me what you might have.

I am busy putting together my own stage show and I plan to put a lot more work into the show before we all hit the stage. I am still buzzing from my whirlwind week of Chicago and then the Wigstock: The Movie affairs. That Saturday night was the six year anniversary "BASH" for the OTSN parties. I did not plan on going out on a Wednesday night but I could not pass up the opportunity to see Joey Arias perform at the Atlas Bar and Grill in La. The show was great and then I hit the SIN-A-MATIC event to see Joey and Raven. I am now awaiting the big hoopla for the coming out and premiere of "To Wong Foo, Thanks for Everything Julie Nemat." The notorious drag on the road movie was held up in production. Scheduled for the release in the Spring it will now be the end of the summer treat. We hope. I am looking forward to seeing super hunk macho beefcake badboy Patrick Swayze in a purple rhinestone dress and heels. This is going to be an interesting film especially since there has been so much: Let's see the proper word might be "anticipation" on this one. I am happy that Barry Shills did not turn the WIGSTOCK movie into a rock video in drag. This was the one and only suggestion or point made by the person who reviewed the movie for LA weekly. We have enough films and MTV so why turn a glizy "FUN" party in drag into a "rockumentary with hair. NO THANK YOU. Barry did a great job and all who have seen the film agree. Wonderful that it is a real movie instead of story and a screenplay.

Should you live in Southern California I encourage you to support the numerous plays and stage productions that feature DRAG artists. LYP SINKA, CHARLES PIERCE, FRANK MARINO, JIM BAILEY, JACKIE BEAT and on and on. We have great shows at the Queen Mary Show Lounge and in W. Hollywood there is the 7969 CLUB which has Friday and Monday nights presenting DRAG shows. There is something so special about attending a live performance and a thrill beyond description when you are on stage. I have found that I know look forward to working a fashion show or being the Mistress of Ceremonies for an event. I still need to work on my confidence in being up there with the 500 Watt Kleig lights on me. Yet I want to hit the stage again and every time I enjoy it more and become more at ease in the spotlight. I just looked through my files and realized I have been writing this column for about a year now. It has brought me great joy and I find that it fuels my interest in show business. I am not actively seeking an agent or stage work but at this point I will listen to anyone with credentials who has a project in mind. I hope that you have enjoyed reading about the world of drag and how it is an important part of the interviews. I have done were enjoyable and it was a treat for me to not only meet a number of celebrities. A few of them have been featured on the cover of this publication. In the future I plan to review a number of new DRAG films and I plan to interview JACKIE BEAT, MISTRESS JACQUELINE, and if I have it together you will see the JOEY ARIAS interview.

I am working on the material now and when I get the "package" from Joey I will put it all together. Going for a cover photo also so I am excited. There is no lifestyle like ours and there is no business like show business. They go hand in hand and both of them holding a high heel. Tomorrow I mail this material up to the folks at Pathway. Today one Joey ARIAS called to tell me that he was mailing the photos and material I requested. Look for an "exclusive" interview with one of the most talented and admired men to perform in drag on the television, silver screen and stage in an upcoming issue.

By-Miss Tasha LaBlush

Vou need a hoot? Here's a true encounter for you. We're sitting at a bar one Wednesday night...wearing barely crotch-covering zebra spandex, lacy blacktop, stockings, garters, and spike heels. You get the picture, slutus-maximus. A guy steps out of the cigarette smoke: "Can I buy you a drink, sexy?" Having already slashed down a couple, "Sure, gin and tonic with an olive."

The guy's wearing this nautical shirt with the little flag on it. He's a big guy, but at least he's not too cheap to buy a lady a drink. Now me, I want to call him commodore or Captain Ahab. The drink arrives, I raise my hand complete with long red nails and give the commodore a swishy salute.

You've probably been there before. Next the guy moves in closer, maybe trying to cop a cheap feel. Guess they figure it's payment for the drink. Anyway, the commodore asks, "Is there an all night supermarket or drug store open around here? Where's this guy coming from? Huh? Very intelligent response. Maybe he's fresh out of condoms. Hell, I don't know.

His hand finds my knee encased in a shiny black stocking. He asks, "Do you ever wear a sanitary napkin or tampon?" At this point, I want to bust a gut laughing. Biting my quivering red lower lip, "Yeah, those big supermaxis, I get 'em at Pep Boys. Gawd, maybe the commodore's at the wrong bar. Puffing out like a sail he doesn't even drop anchor. "We could go buy some right now, it'd be fun standing in the check out line, what'd ya say, darlin?" Honestly, I get embarrassed buying K-Y jelly, and the commodore here wants me to go to Ralph's for feminine hygiene products!

The fourth gin and tonic is kicking in. I look the guy straight in the eye, "Commodore, have they ever called you Red Beard?" In case you're wondering, no, I didn't end up being the commodore's first mate that night. Besides, it's not lady-like walking like a duck.

Next time...whatever happened to Fay Wray? Whatever happened to Chance Wayne? Find out when my pervy cousin, Tunni Sexx, gives you the low down at a big kinky fetish hoe-down. Until then...Love, Sin, & Gin!

PS - Did you know?...that lucky Duke of Orleans, put on his high heels and long shiny black perfumed wig with ornate jewelry (no costume stuff for Duke Baby) to lead his soldiers into battle. According to historical footnotes, he'd been brought up as a girl, so he wouldn't be viewed as a rival against Louis XIV for the throne of France. He was just such a lucky aristocratic sissy! Don't ya' think?

GENDER expression

Over the past thirty years, I have had a chance to really get a good look at the Gender Community and the things they are doing around the world. When I first came out and started traveling to different places around the world the Community was in hiding. If you wanted to find someone or a place to go you had to have a prior contact to be able to make a connection to get out and enjoy yourself. Over the years that has changed a lot, both for the good and the bad.

A lot of organizations and support groups began to pop up and in time there were the typical political problems that came up at anytime communities try to organize people groups struggling for power. Trying to be everything to everyone. There are a lot of people in the community who don't like the politics and avoid getting involved with the groups and organizations.

The Gender Community needs to realize that we need to work together and do things that will best help our community grow and become strong. There is room for all of us and if we can learn how to reach out and get our community involved whether we are educating, politically active, or just having fun. We are all an important part of the community and by working together we will make our community grow.

Each of us can play a very important part in helping our community to grow, whether you help in the support groups, organizations, or by passing good information onto others out there who are looking for help. We all need to learn how to work together. Everyday I see and hear new things happening which are helping the community to grow and effect people in your community. The biggest problem is that there are so many people out there who don't have any idea what being Trans-Gendered is all about. They struggle through life and have problems. Each of us has an opportunity to share with others the information we get from others. Telling them about organizations, conventions, books and publications, places to shop, or just to go out and have fun.

Another important thing we can do to help our community is to share information about doctors, physiologists, psychiatrists, and other professionals that could be helpful to others who are out there searching for help. Over the past few years there has been a lot of organizations started that are working to put together good materials and publications that are very helpful to people in the community. A lot of these organizations are working to insure all their segments of the community have the materials and information that they need so they will continue to grow and meet the needs of the people out there who are searching for help.

Each year it seems that there are more conventions being held where professionals are becoming involved and working together with people in the community. Together they are coming up with better information that will help us to be able to reach out and help others. There are a lot of new places that are being receptive to the Trans-Gendered people whether we are going shopping, going out on the town for dinner, or dancing. A lot of the old places are redoing their activities to get Trans-Gendered people to come out and get involved. Things are really beginning to look up with new professional doctors, lawyers, physiologists, psychiatrists, and other professionals being trained to help in the gender community.

Each time I go to a convention, I find new people who teach and do make-overs. There are also a lot of new people selling wigs, breast forms, jewelry, cloths, and all kinds of products that are very helpful to help you improve your look.

There are a number of educational programs that are updated each year. They are designed to help Cross-Dressers and Trans-sexuals, both male-to-female and female-to-male. Special programs have also been set up to reach out to spouse or significant others for Cross-Dressers and Trans-sexuals. There are a lot of new things that are being put together to reach out to people in our community, but to make these things happen people have to want to get involved and want to learn so they can share it with others. Each convention normally works to reach specific areas of the community.

Times are continually changing and people in the Trans-Gendered Community are learning that they are people and have rights just like everyone else. Their starting to learn to accept themselves for who they are and dealing with their lifestyles so they can improve their life. There is no stopping what you can do in life, but you need to stop making the excuses, accept yourself, and work to obtain the things you want in life. Help is out there for those who need it. Your life is going to be what you make of it. Learning to work and share with others will help to open new doors in your life and help you to achieve the things you really want to happen in your life. As I said at the beginning of this article, over the last thirty years I have seen a lot of changes going on. I have accomplished a lot of the things I have wanted to happen in my life. I had to learn to accept myself and deal with the things in my life that were holding me back. This enabled me to move on to better things and really enjoy my life as a Trans-Gendered person. Looking back at my life being a person who was afraid to come out and was ashamed of the things I did because I didn't understand why I did those things.

After I really learned what Trans-Gendered meant in my life and being open with my family, friends, and people I work with. I have really opened up and come out and now I am trying to reach out to others and share the things I have learned about my life as a Trans-Gendered person.

Not only has my life changed in the way I act and the things I feel. I have also changed the way I feel about the things I am doing in my life and I have made changes and accomplished many of my goals that I really didn't think I would ever accomplish. I have been very fortunate to have been able to take charge of my life and accomplish the things I wanted in my life. I was able to work my way up to a good job that allows me to travel all over the world, this has opened the door for me to express my Trans-Gendered Lifestyle to people every place I went.

My skills, knowledge, and determination made it possible for me to change my employers mind about laying me off because they would be losing a valuable asset. Twenty years ago I would have never believed I would be able to do something like that, but through learning to truly accept myself for who I am and be proud of it, I have been able to do more and accomplish the things I wanted in my life.

I have had a very rich and full life. I can truly say, I enjoy being who I am. You can also achieve the things you want in your life. It's just the fact of learning to accept yourself for who you are, dealing with things in life, then working on the things you want to accomplish. Quit making the excuses and being ashamed because you are Trans-Gendered. You can do whatever you want to do in life if you work at it. There are a lot of good people out there who are willing to help, but to really get help you have to want to be helped and appreciate the person who is giving you the help. You must also be able to reach out and help others when they need it, that gives meaning to the things that were done for you.

Each and everyday of my life I am learning new things and every chance I get I try to share with others the things I have learned. It helps them to learn and at the same time it gives me confidence because I was able to share something with someone and help to make their life better. It's a real challenge to be able to accept yourself and step out and help others. The Trans-Gendered Community has come a long way in just a few short years and can do so much more if people will just learn to work together to help the community to grow.

Bobbi was all smiles at the back bar of the Queen Mary.-

I think the smiles says it all for our lady in red.

Here is another nice trio of smiles. It looked like a fashion show at Saturday banquet. They wore beaded dresses, satin and velvet in a rainbow of colors. These ladies are Ann, Judy, and Sabrina.

Well, I hope you have enjoyed travels with the Jim Bridges Boutique. Until the next time.

Monica, one of the show girls at The Queen Mary and an employee at the Jim Bridges Boutique, with who else, Melisa Foster!

Karen from the Emerald City Club looked like she was having a good time. Karen is always there with a friendly word and a smile for new sisters.

Melanie the president of Neutral Corners in San Diego dropped by to say hi.

Sunday afternoon was something new this year. A local group of square dancers came in to entertain us. Here are some of the local class showing us some leg with in reason! Vicky and the lovely Lynda.

Stacey was a first time girl this year. She says she will definitely be joining us in San Francisco next year.

This is Patti Barton: The illustrious president of P.P.O.C. Patti is a real sweetheart and is always ready to help a new girl.

California Dreaming 95'

This marked the five year anniversary for Cal Dreamin. The event was held at the Holiday Inn at Burbank Ca. There were about 175 people attending this year's event. These conventions are especially helpful to the novice. It is a good way to come out of the closet in a safe environment. You have the opportunity to meet professional who deal exclusively with the gender community. There are always psychologist, make-up and hair people, doctors speaking on hormones, and seminar on your legal rights. It is the perfect opportunity to spread your wings and try new things. Next years Cal Dreamin will be held in San Francisco. The date for this is April 25-28 1996. This event will be held at the Golden Gateway Holiday Inn. The Powder Puff ladies of Orange County are the sponsor. However the local ladies co-hosting next year's event are as follows: The ladies of E.T.V.C and R.N.A. as well as the Diablo Valley Girls. Cal Dreamin 95' was sponsored by P.P.O.C., Born free, Ladies Night Out, and Neutral Corners of San Diego. Patti Barton is the current president of Powder Puff Ladies and Joan Woodnight is secretary and treasurer.

We know how frustrating it can be to lose a picture by sending it to an irresponsible person or couple who neglect to return it. That's why Pathway Communications is now offering a special service for our readers which will safeguard your pictures from loss, and it's as easy as 1, 2, 3!

Orange County Queens !

View from the Corner

I arrived at the club around 10:00 p.m. and to my surprise the place was packed. Marlyana greeted me at the Back Bar door and just arrived with new copies of TV EPIC. Christine was running and jumping around like a frog on acid and spreading the word. There are lots of new faces at the club. I am not sure about a lot of them as I am coming out myself, I am not sure of a lot of things. Plenty of ladies showing up in these new rubber outfits. I may try one but they look like a bitch to put on. Ms. Lacie has cleared out the people so she could get her "camera time." I stay out of her way and watch the "show" from the corner as I was asked to write a few lines on these parties and I find that it gives me a new view. This evening the Back Bar was SRO and everyone seemed to be having the time of their lives. Christine gave me a flyer inviting all to a "pool" party. I told her I would attend but only if there was a corner for me to sit in. Richard the bartender introduced me to Miss Vicki Rene, Santa Ana Sharon and Miss Tasha LaBlush. They were all so nice and invited me to a "kinky fetish" party in Orange County. I told them I would take a "rain check." Someone then commented that it won't rain here in Southern California again till October. Well I am having fun and hope you are too. Next month I plan to ask Richard to introduce me to more people that come to these parties. I like meeting them and it gives me a more interesting view from the corner.
