Scope and Content

Collection consists of videos (tapes and discs with related containers) and magazines from an adult video store that operated in Scarborough, Ontario. The videos in this collection are on two formats, analogue Video Home System (VHS) videocassettes and Digital Video Disc (DVD) optical discs, providing evidence of the evolution of consumer video formats over the time span represented by this collection.

VHS, DVD, Magazines, and Video trays and cases.

Arrangement

The videos are grouped according to the boxes they were housed in when they were donated to the SRC. Within each grouping, they have been re-arranged into alphabetical order. The original groupings have been maintained although the sequence of videos in each grouping has been re-arranged in order to provide better access to the collection.

VHS videocassettes are housed three per folder with related boxes or covers in the subsequent folder (if applicable). DVD optical discs are housed in their original cases, two per folder. Magazines are housed individually, one issue per folder. Video trays and cases are housed collectively.

Introduction

The Scarborough Collection contains 1,833 items of pornography, including both videos (VHS tapes and DVDs) and published magazines. This material spans three decades through the late 20th and early 21st centuries.

The Scarborough Collection is primarily composed of videos that were available for rental and/or purchase at an adult video store in the former municipality of Scarborough, now on the eastern side of the city of Toronto. There are 1,102 VHS tapes with the earliest released in 1980 and the latest from 2006, but predominantly from the 1990s, dependent on subject matter. Additionally, there are 678 DVD discs with release dates ranging from 1998 to 2007, predominantly from 1999 to 2005.

The Scarborough Collection also includes 53 pornographic magazines, published between 1978 and 2006, predominantly from 1990 to 1999. There are 36 unique titles from 26 publishing companies. The majority of the magazines were published in the USA but there are seven Canadian issues and ten issues from the UK.

The items in this collection have been organised into four series based on format: VHS, DVD, Magazines, and Video trays and cases.

This guide begins by describing the methodology used in creating an inventory of the materials in the Scarborough Collection, followed by an analysis of the collection, detailing the breadth of pornographic material. Exemplar titles are listed along with folder number references to aid in finding material relevant to each subject.

The Scarborough Collection Inventory was created using Microsoft Excel and is available as both a complete version with all columns and an abridged version displaying selected columns for greater readability.

Each box also contains a Box List that lists its contents, derived from the abridged version of the Inventory.

Methodology

The process of creating the inventory of the Scarborough Collection began with a listing of the contents of the collection organised by the boxes the material was stored in by the owner upon donation. The videos and magazines were stored in 42 boxes of varying sizes, roughly divided by media type but with no other apparent organisation. Boxes 1 to 28 contained VHS tapes, box 29 was a mix of VHS and DVD titles and boxes 30 to 41 contained DVDs. The final box, number 42, contained the 53 magazines. For the videos, the contents of the boxes ranged from 16 to 96 titles for the VHS tapes and 43 to 72 titles for the DVDs.

A spreadsheet was developed to list the materials with column headings appropriate for the media. The original column headings were Title, Publisher, Time Length, Original Price ($), Current Price ($), Source of Current Price ($), Reviewed by, Actors/Actress' Names, Director, Producer, Restricted and Note.

Most of these fields were completed from information available on the video boxes or labels on the tapes and discs, with the exception of the current price information. The data for this field was researched on the internet. All other data represents the amount of information available through physical examination of the media and its container. None of the videos were watched or previewed as part of the inventory and rehousing process.

Upon completion of the inventory, the rehousing process began. This included adding a Year column to the spreadsheet as this was not initially listed on the Inventory. The years for the videos and additional notes were added to the spreadsheet as the material was physically rehoused.

NB: If there is no date information present on the video case and tape/disc or it is not legible, a notation of "nd" indicating No Date is present in the Year column for boxes 8 through 42. Prior to box 8, the year field was left blank. In cases where the only date available is the Approval Date on an Ontario Film Review Board rating sticker, this date is indicated using square brackets, e.g. [2003].

For the DVDs, the Year column was modified to Release Year and a Production Year column was added. This is because the rehousing team observed that many of the DVD titles were material that had been previously released and the year of production for the content differed from the year the video was released. In these instances, the Production Year is recorded in that column. For titles with content produced in multiple years, the appropriate years or range of years is recorded. A significant number of titles merely indicate that all or some of the content was produced prior to 1995 (due to legislation changes in the US) and this is recorded in the Production Year column. For titles that were produced and released in the same year, or where a separate production year is not indicated, the Production Year column has been left blank.

The first phase of rehousing was completed through box 7, prior to September 2011. A new rehousing team was established in September 2011 to rehouse the remainder of the Scarborough Collection and some modifications were made to the rehousing process and spreadsheet at this time. Specifically, the Rehoused by and Rehousing Date columns were added in order to record who rehoused the material and when.

NB: In the Rehoused By column, only the initials of the rehousing team members are recorded. AS stands for Arathy Sivasubramaniam, an undergraduate work-study student studying History and Religion and JE stands for Jarl W Ellström, a graduate work-study student in the Master of Information program studying Archives & Records Management. Jarl was the supervisor for the rehousing team and managed the data entry and formatting of the spreadsheet.

The first step in the rehousing process for each box was to arrange the titles in alphabetical order. This was done to facilitate locating material and because there was no apparent order in how the videos were arranged in each box. However, the videos were kept together according to the boxes they were placed in by the donor, as there appears to have been some intellectual order to how the videos were grouped in some of the boxes, according to broad themes or categories. Note this should not be assumed to be an indication of original order while the material was in active use, it only denotes how the material was grouped when it was received by the SRC.

The second step was rehousing the videos from each original box into new archival file folders and boxes. There are 3 VHS videocassettes or 2 DVDs per file folder.

In order to efficiently rehouse the VHS videos, the tapes were removed from their boxes or other external containers (cases, etc.). The boxes were then disassembled and flattened. The video trays which held the VHS tapes inside of the boxes were discarded except for a representative sample of each type of tray. For videos that were housed in plastic cases, the cover art was removed from the outside of the cases and the cases were discarded save for unique and representative types. The VHS tapes were placed in sequentially numbered file covers (three per file folder), with the related boxes or cover art rehoused in the following file folder. For example, the boxes for the videos in Folder 2010-001-241 are in Folder 2010-001-242.

Concerning the sample video trays that were kept (in Box 43), these are a representative sample of the types and styles of trays that the VHS tapes were stored in, including some unique examples. By far the most common type of tray are the thin plastic shell trays, primarily in black.

NB: There are some DVD discs stored in cases that do not match the title on the discs. This is how the material arrived at the SRC and this has been preserved. See notes column on the Inventory and Box Lists.

As the videos were physically rehoused, their New Box # and Folder # were entered into the Inventory spreadsheet along with the release year and production years, as appropriate. This information, along with the year(s) and notes, was recorded on paper worksheets and subsequently entered onto the electronic copy of the Inventory.

Work began on inventorying and rehousing the magazines after all the videos were rehoused.

NB: There are some videos from original boxes 4 and 7 that were filed out of order due to being overlooked or misplaced during the initial rehousing of those boxes. The extra videos from original box 4 are now in Box 41 while those from original box 7 are now in Box 42 (filed after the magazines).

Due to the magazine inventory being incomplete, a full inventory of the magazines was completed prior to their rehousing. A new spreadsheet with columns specific to the magazines was developed to facilitate this process. Once this was complete, the magazines were rehoused with a single issue in each file folder.

Finally, the selected representative video trays and cases were organised by type and colour, recorded on an inventory spreadsheet and rehoused in Box 43, completing the rehousing process.

Following the completion of rehousing for all items in the accession, the complete Inventory, listing the items from all four series, was prepared for printing with all columns. Although the result was acceptable, some of the text is quite small due to fitting the complete spreadsheet to the width of a single page (landscape). In order to provide a more readable version of the inventory, an abridged version of the spreadsheet was produced, removing the Current Price, Source of Current Price, Reviewed By, Restricted and Rehoused By/Rehousing Date columns for the videos. Some columns were also removed from the Magazines spreadsheet, selected based upon how information population and pertinence. This produced a more legible hardcopy while maintaining the most pertinent information for each item, including its location.

The abridged version of the inventory spreadsheet was then used to create Box Lists that were placed inside the boxes for quick reference.

Rehousing the Scarborough Collection and preparing the inventory was completed in December 2011.

At the time of rehousing, there were no significant near-term conservation concerns for the material in this collection. In the future, it may be necessary to migrate the videos to a new format to maintain or improve access to their content.

Collection Analysis

Note: The material in this collection has been intellectually arranged into four series based on format. These four series are; VHS, DVD, Magazines, and Video trays and cases.

Following the completion of the inventory and rehousing, the next phase of the Scarborough Collection project involved researching selected themes and relationships within the four series that comprise this collection. The rehousing team had noted some themes on the Inventory, particularly items that had outstanding characteristics such as unique content or national origins. Further analysis was conducted using the Inventory and content analysis of the material to construct an understanding of some of the most prevalent themes in each series as well as some of the notable minor themes. These listings are not intended to be exhaustive descriptions of the themes and titles within the collection. Rather, they are intended to be indicative of the broad scope of the collection and provide access points for further research.

As of February 2012, detailed analysis has only been completed for the VHS and Magazines series, due to time constraints. It is also important to note that the analysis of the VHS series does not include an in-depth analysis of mainstream heterosexual videos.

The following are brief overviews of the four series that comprise this collection.

More detailed analysis of themes and topics for the VHS and Magazines series begin on pages 9 and 37, respectively.

VHS

The VHS videocassettes comprise the majority of the Scarborough Collection with 1,102 items and limited duplication of titles. There are a wide variety of videos spanning 26 years from 1980 to 2006 (note that some of the videos have content originally recorded prior to 1980). There are many standalone titles as well as several series represented from a large number of publishers. Although most of the videos were produced by American publishers there are a number of European and Asian videos, as well as Canadian titles.

NB: Although many of the VHS videos in this collection were donated in their original boxes, a number of videos were donated without a box or case so that amount of information available for these titles is limited.

See page 9 for a detailed analysis of selected themes and topics for videos in this series, accompanied by a list of titles for certain themes and topics. These discussions and listings are not exhaustive and are intended to provide initial insight into the scope of the series as a foundation for further research. All analysis is based on reading the video boxes, covers and cassette labels (the video content has not been viewed).

DVD

There are 678 DVD videodiscs in this series, spanning nine years from 1998 to 2007. Although these titles share many of the same themes as the VHS videos, there are notable differences in the type of content and how it is presented. In particular, DVD discs have a much greater storage capacity than videocassettes and allow for random access. Due to these technical factors, the average length of DVD titles is longer and they do not need to be viewed in a linear fashion. For example, some titles feature a “cum shot” review feature that allows the viewer to automatically skip to the moment of orgasm/climax in each sequence. Compilation videos are also more common among the DVD titles and there appears to be a significant amount of reused content rather than original and new productions. Some titles among the DVDs are duplicates of VHS titles (either reissued or released simultaneously) and there is generally more duplication of titles (multiple copies) within the DVD videos than the VHS tapes. Similar to the VHS series there are a number of titles that appear to be copied (pirated) versions rather than first-generation originals. An important difference between the DVD and VHS videos is that the average price of the DVDs is much lower than earlier VHS tapes, despite the greater amount of content per title. The declining cost of porn videos and the impact of the Internet (contemporary to the public adoption of DVDs) on pricing is an area for further research

NB: All the DVD videos in this collection were donated in original cases, although some discs do not match the cover on the case (this was maintained during the rehousing process, see Note column on the Inventory and Box Lists). Many of the DVD videos appear to be reproductions or copies made using consumer quality media with poor quality photocopied covers and non-professional labels on the discs.

Magazines

The majority of the magazines in this series are oriented towards a male heterosexual audience with solo shots of women in erotic poses being the most common photographic content. Other common features of the magazines are letters or photographs submitted by readers, advertisements for sex-related services and products (i.e. phone lines, vibrators, male enhancement products and videos) as well as non-pornographic articles on topics such as clothing, cars, travel and other lifestyle related topics of interest to the reader. Erotic cartoons and interviews are also typical of the contents of the magazines in this series.

Many of the titles feature a broad scope of content (e.g. Hustler and Swank) although there are some in the collection that have a narrower focus. For example, Hot Tails (2010-001-1015) and Tail Ends (2010-001-1046) both feature primarily posterior views (“rear ends”) of the models.

As well, a few of the magazines feature a narrative style with a sequence of images throughout the issue depicting a single encounter revolving around a specific theme. Titles for this type of magazine include Lesbian Suck (2010-001-1023), Pregnant Lust

(2010-001-1035) and Stud Fuck (2010-001-1040). These issues contain a very limited amount of advertising compared to the more comprehensive titles and have a higher average price.

All the magazines in this series are printed in English and are primarily for the North American (USA & Canada) or UK markets.

See page 37 for a detailed analysis of selected themes and topics for magazines in this series, with examples provided from specific titles. These discussions and listings are not exhaustive and are intended to provide initial insight into the scope of the series as a foundation for further research. All analysis is based on the content of the magazines.

Video trays and cases

During the rehousing process, the majority of video trays (these held the videocassettes inside cardboard boxes) and cases from the VHS series were discarded. This was done both for storage reasons and to improve access to the collection. However, a small number of video trays and cases were kept as a representative sample of the various styles of trays and cases used to house the videocassette in their original context. These items comprise the fourth series in the Scarborough Collection.

In total, there are 47 video trays and cases in this series, most of which are video trays in a variety of styles and colours. There are also several different styles and colours of video cases. Although there are some items in this series which were unique within the collection, with unusual styles and colours, most of the videocassettes in the collection were originally stored in black thin plastic video trays with only minor variations.

This selection of video trays and cases has been kept as they relate to the particular form of container that is prevalent for the VHS tapes in this collection. The difference in size and style of container used for pornographic movies on VHS tapes in comparison to mainstream consumer releases (non-XXX/Adult material) from the same era is an area for further research.

The VHS boxes in the Scarborough Collection are larger in all dimensions than the videocassettes they are designed to hold and trays are required to hold the video inside of the box. This style of container is the most prevalent in the collection although there are examples of smaller slipcase style boxes. These slip case boxes fit the dimensions of the videocassette and are open at the bottom for removing the video. Generally, this style of case (common for mainstream videos) was used for older videos (early 1980s) with the larger boxes being dominant in the 1990s through 2000s. Almost all of the videos stored in other types of containers (clamshell cases, etc.) are examples of videos that were copied and are not first-generation releases. Finally, it is also notable that the DVDs in this collection are all stored in standard DVD cases and lack a style of container that typifies them as pornographic, as with the VHS videos.

Connections within the Collection & Areas for Further Research

Many themes within the collection connect across the four series and indicate areas for further research.

For example, the role of censorship and the legal framework in which the pornography industry operates is evident throughout the collection. The legal practices of porn retailers is an important consideration in this area. In Ontario, all adult videos must bear a ratings approval sticker but many videos in this collection lack such a sticker. Moreover, there are many videos in the collection that appear to be at least second generation (pirated) copies, bringing into question the nature of business operations in contrast to legal requirements. See the discussions of Approval and Censorship under the VHS series and Magazines series respectively for analysis on this theme. Also note that almost all of the VHS videos identified in the Indian/Pakistani theme are copies, primarily from DVDs.

The nearly three decade time span of this collection also enables research on the evolution of the pornography industry over time, how content and business models have changed in response to changes in technology and social standards. This is reflected in the wide number of styles of pornography in the collection, ranging from full-length narrative feature films (including spoofs of well-known movies and television shows) to non-narrative compilation videos featuring specific acts and depictions.

Finally, an important area for further research is considering the demographics of porn consumers as represented by this collection, taking into consideration its geographic location in the Scarborough region of Toronto.

Suggested areas for further research are noted throughout the collection analysis, although there are many other possible avenues of inquiry.

Selected Themes and Topics in the VHS Series

The following themes and topics are provided to indicate the depth of material in this series, but they are far from exhaustive. Areas for further research are noted and there are many other areas of potential investigation beyond the scope of this survey.

Several themes are accompanied by illustrative listings of titles that may be of interest to researchers. A reasonable attempt has been made to capture the major works in each category but as this type of classification is subjective these listings cannot be regarded as entirely authoritative. Titles are listed by folder number order for ease of retrieval and to demonstrate groupings, where they exist.

All information is based entirely on the visual and textual evidence provided by the video containers (box art, covers, labels, etc.). No video content has been viewed in preparing this guide.

Approval (Ontario Film Review Board)

In Ontario, all adult films are screened by the Ontario Film Review Board (OFRB) prior to being approved for sale or rental. All adult films sold or rented must be reviewed and approved by the OFRB. All films that are approved by the OFRB are required to be stickered with classification and approval information. Inspectors periodically visit retailers and distributors to ensure compliance. The use of approval stickers is also intended to reduce piracy and prevent distributors from bypassing the OFRB.

The current legislation (Film Classification Act) came into effect in 2005, towards the end of the period represented by this series. The previous legislation pertaining to film classification was the Theatres Act and dictated similar requirements for adult films to be stickered. Significantly, under the new legislation, the authority of the OFRB to refuse to approve films has narrowed to include only adult sex films with specified scenes such as explicit sexual activity with violence.

In the Scarborough Collection, the majority of videos do not feature OFRB approval stickers. Although some of the videocassettes and boxes are stickered, their number is much less than would be expected based on the legislation.

"Our History" <http://www.ofrb.gov.on.ca/english/page4.htm>

The prevalence of OFRB approval stickers on adult videos and the legal practices of the pornography retail/rental market is an area for research.

NB: The Approved By and Restricted columns pertinent to this area of research appear only on the full version of the Inventory spreadsheet. As the majority of the items in the collection do not have approval stickers, these columns were excluded from the Abridged inventory listings and Box Lists.

Asian

There are a few titles in the VHS series that primarily feature Asian performers or have predominantly Asian themes. This is in contrast to the large number of Indian videos in this series.

  - The film Skintight is an American production made in 1981 so the date given on the packaging (1987) likely refers to the year this particular copy was released.

Indian & Pakistani

Within this series, there is a substantial amount of pornography featuring performers from India and Pakistan.

Notably, the vast majority of these titles appear to be copies made to VHS from DVDs. The covers for these videos are either taken from DVD cases or are colour photocopies (of varying quality) of the DVD case. On the videocassettes, the labels are non-professional and sometimes entirely absent. The quality of these copies and the commercial motivation for producing them (including their legality) is an area for further research. Although this kind of copying appears throughout the collection, it is particularly prevalent for the Indian and Pakistani videos.

Titles that are copies (not original tapes) are marked with an asterisk for this theme (*). Most copies are from DVDs but some are copies from VHS (as noted).

There are four titles in this section that are identifiably Pakistani by title; all the other videos appear to be Indian (either by content or origin).

Within this section there are both videos produced in India for the local market as well as content that was produced (either in India or with Indian performers) for the North American market. Videos produced for the Indian market are the minority and are noted. The production and viewership of Indian-themed pornography in North America in comparison to the market in India is a topic for further research.

Lesbian (All Female)

Videos depicting same-gender female sexual encounters are common in this series, indicating the popularity of such depictions. However, the intended subjectivity of these titles is unclear. Whether they were produced for viewing by a male heterosexual audience, a female homosexual audience or both is difficult to establish. It is likely that among the videos in the collection there are titles originally produced for each type of audience. This question of subjectivity, both in how the Lesbian videos were produced and viewed is an area for further research. Contrasting this with the production and viewership (particularly who the intended audiences are) of other porn categories, particular Gay videos, is also an area for further research.

The videos listed below have been identified (based on titles, box art, descriptions and performer credits) as featuring exclusively female performers. Notably, there are many other videos in the collection that superficially appear to all female (if the box art only depicts women, for example) but do feature male performers. The design of porn video box art is a subject for further research.

In addition, many other videos feature female only scenes but are overall not exclusively female so they have not been included in this listing.

    - The cassette for this title is not red but rather black with a blue top and has a low quality label, indicating it is likely a copy. The motivation for making such copies and how common a practice this was is an area for further research.
    - The box for this title does appear to be original. However, neither the box nor the cassette has an OFRB approval sticker.

Pricing (Sale and Rental)

Pricing information is available for many of the VHS videocassettes with the approximate average price around $35. Common prices are $49 and $29 with several videos showing evidence of being reduced significantly in price, bearing multiple price stickers. Refer to the Original Price ($) column on the Inventory spreadsheet and Box Lists for details of the final price indicated (where applicable).

In addition, research was conducted to determine the current price of videos as they were being inventoried (in 2011) and reflects the declining value of pornography on VHS. This data is available in the full version of the Inventory spreadsheet; refer to the Current Price ($) and Source of Current Price ($) columns. Informal research conducted locally in Toronto at the time this guide was prepared indicates that the current (2012) price for remaining inventories of VHS porn videos at adult retailers is as little as $2.99 per title or less when purchasing multiple videos.

The cost of renting videos is unknown although evidence on the videocassettes and containers indicate that the videos were available for rental. The majority of videocassettes bear small, handwritten, numbered stickers on both the cassette and its container. It is likely that these are inventory numbers used to manage the rental of the videos. As well, many of the boxes for the videos have small patches of adhesive Velcro on them (typically on the upper right corner of the front of the box). This Velcro may have been used to hold inventory tags.

A possible scenario for the use of the videos is that in the store the videocassettes were stored separately from the containers (behind a counter). Customer would bring their selection to the a clerk who would retrieve the correct videocassette, using the numbers, place it in the container, and remove the Velcro tag from the container, attaching it to a strip of Velcro on the shelf where the videocassette was stored. This process would be reversed when the customer returned the video and it was placed back on the shelf. It is also possible that the containers (the display boxes) never left the store and videocassettes were placed in generic cases for rental customers to take them home. In this scenario, the store could have had several copies of a single title using one box to display it on a shelf for customers to browse.

Based on the material evidence of both an inventory control system for video rentals and the existence of retail pricing stickers on many videos, it is likely that most titles were either available for rental or purchase simultaneously or that they were priced for sale after initially being made available for rental.

Series (Thematic Video Series)

A significant number of videos in the VHS series are part of thematic video series, generally reflected by a number (Volume, Issue, etc.) following the title. Although many videos tapes are part of a series, often these are single examples from that video series. As such, the video series listed here are those where there are multiple releases (typically four or more) in the Scarborough Collection.

Straight (Mainstream)

For the purposes of this discussion, straight (mainstream) porn is defined as both titles which predominantly feature men and woman engaging in heterosexual sex acts as well as titles that are intended for viewing primarily by heterosexual males. As such, straight pornography is a very broad category that cuts through the majority or all other themes and subjects discussed in this collection analysis. The only exception, arguably, are the Gay (homosexual) videos that feature men engaging in sex acts with other men exclusively.

A vast array of subject matter could be labelled as straight porn. However, within the heterosexual videos in this series, some subjects reoccur with greater frequency than others, indicating their potential popularity among the customers who were the audience for the videos in the Scarborough Collection.

Significantly, the appeal factors for straight porn almost exclusively involve the attributes of the female performers (physical characteristics) and the type of sex acts they perform or are the recipients of. The relative physical attractiveness of male performers compared to females in straight porn is a subject for further research. This could consider what attributes are common or not among performers (i.e. physique, breast and penis sizes, hair colour, etc.) Gender depictions in heterosexual porn could also be compared to gender depictions in homosexual porn, both gay and lesbian.

Notable common subjects/depictions in straight videos include (in alphabetical order):

- Anal sex (Ass, Backdoor, Butt, Rear-entry, etc.)
  - This form of intercourse is a common depiction in straight porn with videos focussed on large female posteriors (big butts, booty, cheeks, etc.) being a related common subject.
- Breasts
  - Female performers with large breasts (referred to using many colloquial terms such as boobs, busty, jugs, knockers, tits/titties etc.) are often depicted prominently and are the main attraction of many videos.
- Double Penetration (DP)
  - Scenes featuring two males simultaneously having sex with a female performer are featured in several videos. Variations include simultaneous vaginal and anal intercourse, both males penetrating the female's vagina or, rarely, both males engaging in anal sex with a single female. Some videos also include double penetration using dildos and other sex toys in combination with one or more penises.
- Ejaculation (Cream Pies and Facials, etc.)
  - Depicting both facial ejaculations (males ejaculating onto the face of female performers, referred to as facials) and penetrative ejaculations (showing ejaculate exiting the vagina or anus after un-protected sex, frequently referred to as cream pies) is common in later videos, beginning in the late 1990s and becoming more common in the 2000s

- Inter-racial
  - A number of videos in this series feature sexual encounters between performers with different ethnic heritages (black, Asian, Indian, etc.) and this is often a primary feature of the video.
- Oral (Fellatio, Sucking, etc)
  - Depictions of females performing oral sex on males are very common on video boxes/covers yet it is rare to see males performing oral sex on females on video packaging for straight videos.
- Teens/Young (First Time/Virginity)
  - Straight videos often feature young teenaged performers. First time sexual experiences with female performers depicted losing their virginity on screen are a common theme for these videos. Performers are often described as being 18 and barely legal. The veracity of these claims and depictions is an area for further research.
- Unprotected Sex (Condom Usage)
  - The majority of sexual encounters in the straight/mainstream videos in this series appear to not feature safe sex safe practices (performers do not use condoms). Unprotected penetration is commonly depicted on video boxes/covers. The depiction of condom usage, or lack thereof, and how it has changed over time is an area for further research.

Transsexual

There are a number of VHS videos that feature transsexual performers (all of them male to female) engaging in sexual activity with both males and females.

Selected Themes and Topics for the Magazines Series

There are 53 magazines in this series, representing 36 titles from 26 publishers, printed between 1978 and 2006, primarily in the United States of America.

The following is a list of selected themes and topics based on a content analysis of the magazine issues in this series. This is not intended to be an exhaustive listing but rather is indicative of the type of content that it found throughout the series and intended to provide reference for further research.

Advertising

Common types of advertisements are adult videos, erotic chat services (1-800 and 1-900 numbers), sex toys and male enhancement products (pills, pumps, etc.).

Most advertisements are placed towards the back of each issue and some titles include reader-submitted classified ads.

Example: The following types of advertisements appear in the Canadian edition of Hustler from 2002 (2010-001-01017):

- Call Lines (including international numbers)
- Magazine Subscriptions
- Adult Videos
- Sex Toys (dildos, vibrators and penis pumps)

In addition, Hustler also features parody advertisements throughout the issue. In the June 2002 Canadian edition there are several of these parodies. The first one is on page 11 and parodies Smirnoff vodka, making a political statement about American intervention in unstable countries. The second is on page 27 and parodies the Spider-man movies. The third is on page 100 and parodies George W. Bush in the form of a whisky ad.

Example: The December 1995 issue of Juggs (2010-001-1019) features a page of "Sex Net Personals" on page 107, listing personal ads in multiple categories. "Ladies" are able to record and retrieve messages for free, otherwise the service costs $2.99 a minute.

This personals page is part of a large section of advertisements at the back of Juggs, primarily listing erotic chat line services across a diverse range of interests.

Example: Not all the magazines in this series feature advertisements that are exclusively or explicitly sexual.

The 1978 (Vol. 43, No. 11) issue of Men Only (2010-001-1031) has a wide range of ads targeted to the adult male demographic that the magazine is aimed at.

- Cars (e.g. Lancia, p. 2 - inside cover)
- Pipe Tobacco (e.g. Holland House, p. 3)
- Clothing (e.g. Wool, pp. 4-5)
- Hi-Fi Audio (e.g. Toshiba, pp. 6-7; Wharfedale pp. 34-35)
- Cigarettes (e.g. Embassy Number 1, p. 8; Marlboro pp. 14-15)
- Alcohol (e.g. Long Life Beer, pp. 10-11; Bacardi p. 19)
- Magazines (e.g. Club p. 20; Camera User p. 76)
- Grooming Products (e.g. Cossack hairspray p. 53; Remington pp. 56-57)
- Lingerie (e.g. Lady of Paris p. 116)
- Sex Toys (e.g. Superia Sex Ads p. 117; The House of Pan p. 121)
- Erotic Massage (e.g. various pp. 128, 130-131)

The above listing is only indicative of the type of ads in Men Only and is not an exhaustive inventory. The most common advertisements are for cigarettes with several full-page ads throughout the issue for various masculine brands. The connection between the tobacco industry and pornographic magazines (through ad revenue support at least) is an area for further research. Beyond this collection, the run of Playboy magazines held by the SRC would be an important source for such research.

Cartoons

Erotic cartoons are a very common feature within the mass-market titles represented in this series. These typically feature visual gags or puns related to sexual activity and can fill an entire page, often in colour.

Examples: High Society (2010-001-1014) pp. 28, 69, 108-111, 114
Hustler (2010-001-1016) pp. 6*, 15, 39, 42, 41, 45, 48, 53, 71, 73, 75, 76, 86, 87, 88, 89, 92, 93, 102, 110, 111, 120*, 121*
 *these cartoons are censored
Mayfair (2010-001-1026) pp. 60-61
Swank (2010-001-1041) pp. 70, 100, 102, 104, 106

Censorship

Generally, the content of the magazines in this series is uncensored. Nevertheless, censorship is an important theme for this collection and the holdings of the SRC as a whole. The prominence and censorship within the porn industry is demonstrated by a few of the issues clearly stating on their covers that they are not censored.

For example, the May 2003 Canadian edition issue of Penthouse (2010-001-1034) features a maple leaf on the cover with the text “No Black Dots! Uncensored!” This is similar to the June 2002 Canadian edition of Hustler (2010-001-1017) that is not censored in contrast to the November 1997 International edition (priced for sale in Canada) of Hustler (2010-001-1016), which is extensively censored.

Significantly, the censorship in the November 1997 Hustler is not limited to erotic photos but also includes cartoons, advertisements and article text throughout the magazine. The primary object of censorship appears to be penetrative acts involving female genitalia but there is other content, such as violence and bestiality (in cartoons), which is also censored.

Cost/Price

The approximate average cost of the magazines in this series is $6.85. Not that this is only a rough average due to magazines being priced in different currencies (American and Canadian dollars, British pounds) as well as the effects of inflation. The high price is $35 for Pregnant Lust (2010-001-1035) followed by Stud Fuck (2010-001-1040) with a list price of $17.50. The lowest price is 85 pence (British) for Men Only (2010-001-1031) from 1978. The majority of issues are priced below $10 with the price rising steadily across the time span represented in the series.

There is one issue in the series that does not have a price, TAE Magazine (2010-001-1045) from 2004. This magazine was published in Mississauga and, based on its contents, was intended for distribution in the Greater Toronto Area. TAE Magazine has a very high number of ads relative to other magazines in this series so it is possible that it was distributed for free through adult shops and venues.

Lifestyle/Interest Articles

In addition to pornographic and erotic content, many of the magazines in this series feature short articles on topics such as clothing, cars, militaria, dating advice and other topical subjects relating to the perceived lifestyle and interests of each magazine's readership.

See the Contents column on the Inventory spreadsheet for magazines that contain Lifestyle articles.

Example: Babyface (2010-001-996) has several lifestyle feature articles that expand on the themes prevalent in the magazine's erotic content (primarily young women) as well as reflecting the popular culture and consumer trends of the era (1998). In particular, there are articles on the "Top 10 Cars to Pick up Young Chicks!" (pp. 12-14), "What's Hot & What's Not in Men's Clothing" (pp. 32-33) with advice on 'dressing for success with young chicks' and "Meeting Young Chicks On the Net!" (pp. 60-65, 74-78, 87-88) a "Step-by-Step Guide from a Guy with Experience."

Example: The three issues of Club in the series all feature automotive and military articles.

The December 1993 (2010-001-1003) and December 1994 (2010-001-1004) issues include a "Wheels" article reviewing high-end cars on pp. 12-13 in both issues. The Brooke 245 open-wheel race car is reviewed in the December 1993 issue while the Aston Martin DB7 is featured in the December 1994 issue. In addition, the March 1997 (2010-001-1005) issue reviews the Jaguar XK8 in the "Dig the New Breed!" motoring article on pp. 62-63.

All three issues of Club in this series include a "Weapons of War" article accurately detailing various high-tech military weapon systems and tactics through fictional narratives. The December 1993 issue details nuclear submarines armed with Tomahawk cruise missiles on pp. 54-58. The December 1994 issue contains an article on rescue procedures for fighter pilots in hostile territory on pp. 64-66. Finally, the March 1997 issue's "Weapons of War" article discusses the biggest guns (artillery) in the world on pp. 36-37. Significantly, this later article is strictly factual without the narrative elements of earlier "Weapons of War" articles.

Many of the titles in this series feature user submitted content, primarily in the form of letters to the editor and erotic stories. Some titles also feature photographs submitted by users.

Example: Fiesta (2010-001-1010) features eight pages (beginning on page 7) of letters from readers in the “Interchange” section. This includes a group of crotch photographs (with underwear) submitted with letters. Additionally, on page 11 there is an advertisement calling for user-submitted “upshots” of women with £10 being offered for each shot.

As well, there are 14 pages of “Readers’ Own” user submitted images, on pages 84-97. These are primarily women although two men are also featured. Notably, the “Wonderful Readers’ Wives” section features an international collection of images with the name and country noted for each picture. Page 97 features a box with instructions for submitting images, noting that the magazine receives many more submissions than they have space to publish them and that they pay £10 for each published image.
